Tailored at Fashion Park

So often changes in styling are only perceptible to the designers who create them—the layman fails to see them at all. That's what makes the Royal Park developments of Fashion Park designing rooms so interesting—there's a decided departure—and the department is interesting.
The coat is fuller and easier—there's no vent—the collar is longer, the pockets lower—it's exactly the type of garment worn by better dressed Englishmen.
Royal Park is a model that most men look well in—we're rather sure it will look well on you.
