

Democratic Watchman

Bellefonte, Pa., January 25, 1924.

F. GRAY MEEK, Editor
To Correspondents.—No communications published unless accompanied by the real name of the writer.

Terms of Subscription.—Until further notice this paper will be furnished to subscribers at the following rates:

Paid strictly in advance - $1.50
Paid before expiration of year - 1.75
Paid after expiration of year - 2.00
Published weekly, every Friday morning. Entered at the postoffice, Bellefonte, Pa., as second class matter.
In ordering change of address always give the old as well as the new address.
It is important that the publisher be notified when a subscriber wishes the paper discontinued. It all such cases the subscription must be paid up to date of cancellation.
A sample copy of the "Watchman" will be sent without cost to applicants.

IN THE CELESTIAL KINGDOM.

Dr. North Writes of Shanghai and the First Stage of Journey Up Yangtze River.

722 Avenue Joffre, Shanghai, China. October 21st, 1923.

Dear Home Folks:

We landed in Shanghai last Monday night, about six or seven o'clock, but we have been living so strenuous a life since our arrival that we have done nothing in the line of correspondence with our friends at home beyond a few postcards. I do not expect to be able to write a long letter even now, before we leave for Hankow, but I suppose a few words will be better than none.

We reached the Customs Jetty just at nightfall. The confusion was almost beyond description. Every passenger was looking for his baggage, and at the same time trying to keep out of the way of the coolies who were carrying it. Mrs. Lacy and some of the other good Methodists met us and saw that we were conveyed safely to the Methodist compound, where we are waiting, or rather stopping with the Lacs. On the morning before our arrival we received a radiogram from the Syracuse unit, welcoming us to China. You see our reception was thoroughly hospitable.

Shanghai is a most interesting city. It is, they tell us, no more China, however, than New York is America. It is divided into three sections: The International city, the French concession, and the Chinese city. Each has its own government.

We have spent most of our time shopping and preparing for the river trip. Our first lessons in bargaining have convinced us that there are possibilities of our becoming quite Semitic in traits. In a later letter I hope to tell some of the interesting experiences we have had.

Our newly made acquaintances include Mr. and Mrs. Yard, Dr. and Mrs. Lacy, Miss Oldroyd, Miss Bosworth, Mr. and Mrs. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. Main and Mr. and Mrs. Vanderburgh. Some of you may know some of them. Mr. Yard is the centenary secretary for China. Dr. Lacy is one of the principal men on the Finance committee. Mrs. Lacy welcomes all the new Methodist missionaries. Miss Bosworth is the secretary of the Methodist-Presbyterian Book Co. Miss Oldroyd is Dr. Lacy's secretary. Mr. Kerr is manager of the Mission Book Co. Mr. Main is the Methodist mission treasurer. Mr. Vanderburgh is the manager of the Mission photo bureau.

We have taken many views, but will not be able to send all we want to until we reach our final destination. Others we may send, on the way to Sezechuan.

On the river steamers we shall have time for a good deal of writing. In the meantime remember us for what we are going to do in the writing line. So much is interesting that we are discouraged from beginning. We could not possibly tell it all. The pictures will tell much. They are not what they might be, for the camera is new to me, and the films do not keep well on the ocean voyage. You may hope for something better later.

SAILING UP THE RIVER.

On the Yangtze, Oct. 25, 1923.

While all, or almost all, the rest of the passengers are taking their afternoon siesta, I'll take advantage of the stillness to write down some of my experiences during the past weeks. First of all I want to tell of our trip up the river to this point, because it is fresh in my mind.

After a pleasant, but strenuous, week in Shanghai, we sailed on board the S. S. Leunho, of the Indo-China Steam Navigation company, for Hankow. But before we sailed we had an experience that equaled one of the strenuous days in America. New customs regulations are in force in Shanghai and in China generally, or rather, I should say that old laws have been revived. We were told that we must have our baggage passed by the customs before leaving Shanghai. Therefore, Lewis Havermale and I went to the office about 3:15 to attend to the matter. The customs closes at four. The place was thronged with Chinese anxious to get their turn before closing time. We went to one desk and got a blank. When we had filled it out we took it upstairs to another desk where we had it checked, only to find that we must pay export duty on household goods and stores bought in Shanghai. Then we took it downstairs to another desk to have the duty computed. When we had done this we found it necessary to go to the bank to pay the duty, a sum of some $35.00 Mex. The bank closes at four. It was then after four. Havermale rushed to the bank. While he was gone a man at the first desk told me that before he could let the goods go it would be necessary to have a shipping permit from the steamship company's office. I got back to find that Lewis was trying to straighten out a tangle made by the bank, which had reckoned in taels what we had reckoned in Mexican dollars. By borrowing all the money I had and taking what he had, Lewis managed in a way yet to be ascertained by me to get the shipping permit stamped by the Customs. Then we rushed to get our goods to the wharf. When we had them on board we found that the shipping permit was necessary only for freight, and that because we had listed our baggage on the permit, it would be necessary to pay freight on our baggage. We registered a protest with the chief officer of the ship, and today he told us that he would fix things up with the company's office at Hankow. If we had known on Monday what we know now, we could have got along without any shipping permit, and possibly without paying any duty, for Raymond Pilcher went through customs directly behind us and got away without any payment whatever. Experience is a good, but costly teacher.

We left Monday night about midnight—possibly later. I did not stay up very late after my afternoon with the customs. We awoke in the morning to find ourselves on a river so wide that it was almost impossible to see either shore. In fact, I am of the opinion that there are places where land cannot be seen at all. This is the Wosung, a river formed by the confluence of the Whangpoo, on which Shanghai is situated, and the Yangtze. In reality it is nothing more or less than the mouth of the Yangtze. As we proceeded the river narrowed until we got into the Yangtze proper. For a long distance the land on either side was low and flat—flooded every spring, I suppose. Later the hills began to appear, at first some distance back from the river; later coming closer. The first town which I particularly noticed was Chinkiang. We reached here in the early morning and stopped for a few minutes. A peculiarity of the ports along the Yangtze is that instead of a wharf built out from the shore, for the convenience of the steamers, a sort of houseboat is used as a customs dock, up to which the steamers come. The larger towns have several of these. Shortly after dawn on our first day out I saw another way of receiving and discharging passengers and their luggage.

A boat that looked like a cross between a rowboat and a canal barge was rowed furiously out to our ship. The method of rowing is peculiarly oriental. The rower stands and uses only one oar, which is very long. Instead of facing the stern and pulling the oar, he faces the bow and pushes. This big rowboat came alongside the Leunho, which did not stop. Men in the boat used grappling poles to keep the small boat alongside, or to push it off from too close contact. Then a rope was thrown from the Leunho and fastened securely to the rowboat. All the while the Leunho was proceeding up stream. A ladder, or folding flight of stairs was let down. Then the fun began. Passengers began to tumble up the stairs, along with bags, bundles, and baggage of all kinds. To add to the confusion, every one was yelling as if in a frenzy. Next people began to pile off, all likewise yelling. Men, women, boys, girls, and bundles—all in indescribable confusion. It was worse than Fifth Avenue during the rush hour plus the jam at a ball game. This procedure has occurred several times, the amount of confusion being proportionate to the size of the port.

We arrived at Nanking about six o'clock in the morning. There the Blanchards hopped aboard. They had come up to Nanking by rail, leaving Monday morning, and arriving there the same night. They reported a delightful time with friends. Nanking is a walled city, its wall being twenty-three miles in circumference. A Miss Golish and a Mrs. Lowdermilk accompanied them to the wharf. I went ashore for a few minutes to see what I could, and incidentally to mail letters. I tried to get some money changed, but could not make satisfactory arrangements. I seemed to be quite as much of a curiosity as the Chinese were to me. We could see the city wall rather well from the ship as we left.

Our next important stop was at Wuhu. Sarah, the Pilchers, and the Blanchards went ashore with me. We saw men cutting the tall grass that grows along the shores of the river. They bale it after cutting it into four-foot lengths, and use it, I understand, for fuel. I presume it has other uses also. I tried to get a picture of one of the men at work, but he ran away out of line with the camera. I managed to snap a vendor of eatables and a barber cleaning out his customer's ears. Some of the Chinese were much interested in the camera, others were a trifle annoyed or frightened, and a number of them were amused. In every large town one of the principal sights along the river front is the local station of the Standard Oil company. Wuhu was no exception in this respect. The Asiatic Petroleum company is another large oil company operating in China. This firm had a station near that of the Standard Oil Co. The Shell company is a third large firm of this sort, but I did not see any of their tanks at Wuhu. The Methodists maintain here a large (for China) hospital, and possibly some other work. The Episcopalians also have a mission station here. Several of their sisters came on our boat here, to see one of their workers off, who was sailing for Hankow.

SARAH and BILL.

The Altoona Auto Show.

Close to $500,000 in automobiles will be on exhibition January 26th, when Altoona's sixth annual motor show will be thrown open to the public in the new Motor Mart buildings, at Beale avenue and Twenty-seventh street, under the direction of the Blair County Automotive Association.

With practically every important make of car in the country shown by the dealers of Blair county, residents of Altoona and vicinity will witness the finest display of its kind ever held in that district. Special show and stock models from the New York and other important exhibitions of the nation are already arriving.

Keenest interest has been displayed over the advance showing of the new 1924 models of automobiles because of the radical innovations introduced since last year. Chief among these will be the balloon tire, designed for easier riding qualities at low air pressure, and the wheel brakes, both of which will be standard or optional equipment on many of the exhibits.

The big event, which will continue from the opening on January 26th, until the following Saturday evening, February 2nd, will be open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily except Sundays.

The new Motor Mart building, which will be officially opened as the clearing house for the used cars of Altoona dealers immediately after the show closes, is the structure erected as a model factory under the guidance of the Chamber of Commerce. A ramp is now being constructed to the second floor as the models will be displayed on it as well as the ground floor.

Winter Meetings for Farmers.

During the next few weeks the county farm agent, J. N. Robinson, will hold a series of meetings in five different communities of the county. These meetings will be similar to the ones held last winter and of interest to all farmers and their families, having been arranged the past few years to take the place of the old-time farmer's institutes which were very popular in Centre county until discontinued three years ago by the State Department of Agriculture.

The first of the series will be poultry meetings conducted by H. D. Monroe, head of the poultry extension work in Pennsylvania, and will be given Monday evening, January 28th, at 7:30, at the Pine Grove Mills school house; Tuesday, January 29th, at 7:30, at the Gentzel school house, in Spring township; Wednesday, January 30th, at 7:30, at Halfmoon Grange hall; Thursday, January 31st, at 7:30, at Spring Mills vocational school; Friday, February 1st, at 7:30, at Rebersburg school house.

The same plan will be followed this year as last, namely: A meeting on the same night each week for at least five consecutive weeks at each one of the above places. For example, every Monday evening there will be a meeting at Pine Grove Mills, every Wednesday evening at Halfmoon Grange hall, and so on for the other three places. The very best men available have been secured for these meetings. Each one is a specialist in his particular line of work and has a real message for Centre county farmers.

Y Notes.

The regular meeting of the board of directors will be held this evening at 8 o'clock. Yearly reports and reports of special committees will be presented.

This evening the Y. M. C. A. bowling team will bowl against the State College team on the local alleys. A match between the Tyrone R. R. Y. M. C. A. and the local team is scheduled for February 7th.

The Hi-Y club will hold its monthly open session on the first Sunday in February. Special speakers from State College will be here.

On Wednesday evening, January 30th, a basket ball game between the Phi Kappa Alpha team, of State College, and the Y Sr. team, at 8:30, in the gymnasium. On February 22nd the Y team goes to Lock Haven and on the 29th of February they play Lock Haven here.

Altoona Legion Post to Broadcast Program.

The Chas. R. Rowan Post, No. 228, of the American Legion, located at Altoona, will be "on the air" Wednesday evening, January 30th, with a varied program of vocal and instrumental selections, addresses by prominent legionnaires and interesting talks on radio.

The broadcasting will be from station WGAW, the Altoona radiophone station, on a wave length of 261 meters and Legion members and the radio public everywhere are invited to "listen in."

Mid-Year Graduation at State College Next Week.

The annual mid-year graduation exercises will be held at State College next Tuesday evening, when a class of almost one hundred young men and women will be awarded their degrees. To take the places of the students who will graduate the college has decided to break all precedents and is preparing to admit a replacement class of Freshmen not to exceed one hundred in number.

DALE.—Alfred A. Dale, one of the oldest members of the Centre county bar, passed away at ten o'clock on Saturday evening following several years of intense suffering as the result of carcinoma of the mouth and throat.

He was a son of Christian and Eliza Neff Dale and was born on the old homestead at Oak Hall on July 29th, 1849, hence had reached the age of 74 years, 5 months and 21 days. He was educated in the public schools at Oak Hall, preparing for college at the Boalsburg Academy under Professor Leshar. He later entered the Pennsylvania College at Gettysburg (now Gettysburg College) where he graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts in June, 1874. During his college career he was a member of the Philomathean literary society and was regarded as one of the best debaters in college. Returning home after his graduation he entered the office of Daniel Keller Esq., for the study of the law and in the fall of 1876 was admitted to practice at the Centre county bar. A year or so later he became imbued with the idea that the west offered better opportunities for a young lawyer and he went to Colorado where he spent a year or two. But his golden visions proved disappointing illusions and he returned to Bellefonte and engaged in the practice of his profession. A great reader and profound thinker he was richly endowed with a brilliant intellect and most retentive memory, and his great aspiration was to represent Centre county in legislative halls. In 1892 he was nominated for the Legislature on the Republican ticket but went down in defeat in that Democratic year. Some years later he was a candidate for the nomination for Congress in this district but failed in securing the nomination.

A great student of ancient and modern history Mr. Dale's services were always in demand as a Memorial day orator throughout the county, and one of the most impressive addresses ever delivered in Bellefonte on such an occasion was by him. The year following he delivered the address at the exercises on the national battlefield at Gettysburg where he was heralded as an eloquent orator.

Mr. Dale never married and his only survivors are two brothers, Austin W. Dale, of Boalsburg, and Clement Dale Esq., of Bellefonte, and one half-brother, Philip Dale, of State College. The remains were taken to Boalsburg where funeral services were held in the Lutheran church at two o'clock on Tuesday afternoon by Rev. W. P. Ard, of Bellefonte, assisted by Rev. W. J. Wagner, of Boalsburg, after which burial was made in the cemetery at that place.

EMIGH.—Mrs. Hannah Emigh, widow of Jacob Emigh, long-time residents of Pennsylvania Furnace, died on Saturday afternoon at the home of her daughter Nora, in Tyrone, following a brief illness with pneumonia.

She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Graby and was born at Mooresville, in Huntingdon county, in 1842, hence was in her eighty-second year. In the autumn of 1861 she married Jacob Emigh and all their married life was spent at Pennsylvania Furnace. Since the death of her husband in 1917 she had made her home among her children. She was a life-long member of the Presbyterian church and for many years a teacher in the Sunday school. She is survived by three daughters, Mary and Nora, of Tyrone, and Mrs. W. C. Frank, of Pine Grove Mills. She also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Rudy and Mrs. Cowley, of Pennsylvania Furnace.

The remains were taken to the home of Ed. Frank, in the Glades, where funeral services were held at 1:20 o'clock on Monday afternoon by Rev. Harry D. Fleming, after which burial was made in the Pennsylvania Furnace cemetery.

LUCAS.—Mrs. Sarah A. Lucas, wife of A. C. Lucas, died at her home in Altoona, on Saturday morning following a brief illness with pleuro pneumonia.

She was a daughter of Jacob and Mariah Yarnell, and was born at Yarnell, Centre county, on December 21st, 1870, making her age 53 years and 29 days. She married Mr. Lucas in 1899 and a good part of their married life had been spent in Altoona. In addition to her husband she is survived by the following children: Mrs. Della Snowberger, of Lakemont Terrace; Samuel, Theodore, Ruth, Bertha, Kenneth and Donald, at home. She also leaves two brothers and four sisters, Clayton Yarnell, of Bellefonte; Claude, of Chicago; Mrs. Harry Harsh, of Snow Sho; Mrs. Adaline Poorman and Mrs. Ira Confer, of Yarnell, and Mrs. Cora Baney, of Howard.

She was a member of the Second United Brethren church of Altoona, and the pastor had charge of the funeral services which were held on Tuesday afternoon, burial being made in the Fairview cemetery in that city.

CUPP.—Mrs. Anna Mary Cupp, for many years a resident of Centre Line, died on Tuesday afternoon in the Altoona hospital as the result of general infirmities, aged eighty years. Her maiden name was Anna Mary Rice and she was twice married. Her first husband was a Mr. Briggs and following his death she married Samuel Cupp, who survives with no children. The remains were brought to Bellefonte on Wednesday afternoon and taken to the John N. Mong home, at Pleasant Gap, where funeral services were held yesterday morning, burial being made in the Pleasant Gap cemetery.

STOVER.—Mrs. Annie E. Stover, widow of Emory J. Stover, for many years a resident of Warriorsmark valley, died at the Clearfield hospital on Wednesday morning of last week following an illness of some weeks.

She was a daughter of Henry and Susanna Stevens and was born in Halfmoon township, Centre county, on May 17th, 1860, hence was 63 years and 8 months old. On Christmas day, 1879, she married Emory Stover who died in February, 1916, but surviving her are the following children: Henry Paul Stover, of Altoona; Mrs. A. J. Culler, of Hiram, Ohio; Mrs. C. A. Geist, of Warriorsmark, and Emory Frank Stover, of Philadelphia. The surviving brothers and sisters are Blair and Frank Stevens, of Kermoo; George, of Port Matilda; Lloyd, of Tyrone; Vincent, of Pennsylvania Furnace; James, of Warriorsmark; Charles, of Ansonville; A. J. of Marietta, Ohio, and Mrs. Martha Blake, of Port Matilda.

She was a member of the Warriorsmark Methodist church for many years and Rev. E. J. Kahler had charge of the funeral services which were held at her late home at Warriorsmark on Sunday afternoon, burial being made in the Grandview cemetery, Tyrone.

FLEMING.—Samuel Fleming, an aged retired farmer who has made his home at Pine Grove Mills since his retirement several years ago, died on Wednesday morning, as the result of a stroke of paralysis.

He was a native of Mifflin county, where he was born over eighty-one years ago. When he grew to manhood he followed in the footsteps of his forbears and engaged in farming in his native county but soon decided that the west offered better opportunities and in the sixties went to Iowa where he tilled the soil a number of years. Eventually he sold his land there and returned to Mifflin county, where he continued his farm life up until his retirement three years ago. About forty years ago he served one term as county commissioner in Mifflin county. He was a life-long member of the Presbyterian church and a Democrat of the old school. He was a veteran of the Civil war and the youngest of a family of ten children, being the last of his generation to go.

He is survived by his wife and three sons, Dr. Fleming, in Boston; Joseph, of Pennsylvania Furnace, and Samuel, at home. Burial will be made at Pine Grove Mills tomorrow.

CAMP.—Wallace E. Camp, of Tyrone, died at the Altoona hospital on Monday morning, where he had been a patient for several weeks undergoing treatment for ulcers of the stomach.

He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Camp and was born at Centre Hill on July 26th, 1883, hence was in his forty-first year. Since attaining manhood he had been connected with the Camp Furniture company, of Tyrone, being the junior partner for a number of years past. He was a member of the Tyrone Presbyterian church, the Tyrone Lodge No. 494, Free and Accepted Masons, Williamsport Consistory, Jaffa Temple of the Mystic Shrine, of Altoona; Tyrone Lodge of Elks, Good Will Council O. U. A. M. and the Kiwanis club.

In 1913 he married Miss Bernadine Hoover, of Tyrone, who survives with no children. He leaves, however, his parents, living in Tyrone, one brother, Harry Camp, of Lynchburg, Va., and one sister, Miss Lou Camp, at home. Burial was made in the Grandview cemetery, Tyrone, yesterday afternoon.

DALEY.—Frank A. Daley, a well known farmer of Curtin township, died on January 12th, as the result of brain fever following an attack of pneumonia. He was the son of John A. and Mary J. Daley and was born on Marsh Creek in 1881, being 42 years, 6 months and 24 days old. He followed farming all his life. As a young man he married Miss Blanche Oyer who survives with four children, Mrs. Paul Lomison, of Orviston; Cathryn, John and Doris, at home. He also leaves his aged mother and the following brothers and sisters: John Daley, of Swissvale; Charles, of McGhee's Mills; Clarence, of Philadelphia; Mrs. H. I. Yearick, of Marsh Creek, and Miss Maude, at home. B. F. Long had charge of the funeral services which were held on Tuesday of last week, burial being made in the Marsh Creek cemetery.

WEAVER.—George S. Weaver died on Thursday evening of last week at his home at Spring Mills, following an illness of several months, aged 66 years and 7 months. He is survived by his wife and eight children, namely: Mrs. Alice Ebert, of Zion; Mrs. James From, of Centre Hill; Samuel and Charles D., at home; Mrs. W. Miles Vonada, of Nittany; Russell and Mrs. Harry Gilmore, of Lewistown. He also leaves two brothers and one sister, Frank Weaver, of Pleasant Gap; Howard P., of Madisonburg, and Mrs. Kate Rossman, of Spring Mills. Burial was made in the Heckman cemetery on Tuesday.

COWHER.—Abram O. Cowher died at his home at Reese Hollow, near Port Matilda, on Sunday, following an illness of three years with cancer. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cowher and was 46 years and 7 months old. He never married but is survived by his father and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. James Stine, of Phillipsburg; Mrs. Thomas Rider, of Tyrone; Frances, at home; Sylvester and Levi, of Sandy Ridge. Burial was made in the Black Oak cemetery on Wednesday morning.

BOOB.—Harold Kennis Boob, young son of William F. and Hannah Ryley Boob, of Spring Mills, died at the Bellefonte hospital on Wednesday morning of shock, following an operation for appendicitis and general peritonitis. He was born in Haines township on July 15th, 1917, making his age 7 years, 7 months and 7 days. Burial will be made at Woodward tomorrow.

"No Bananas" is Coming.

The acme of perfection and novelty seems to have been attained in the latest musical comedy triumph, "Yes We Have No Bananas," which will be the attraction at the opera house on Wednesday, January 30th. As might be inferred the title was suggested by the song, "Yes We Have No Bananas," written by Frank Silver and Irving Cohen, the chief ingredients of fun being supplied by a typical American hobo or tramp who is engaged to pose as the husband of a temperamental prima donna so that she might rid herself of the amorous attentions of an Italian count. In the end the tramp falls heir to a large banana plantation. Special and exclusive tunes and ensembles along with other unusual features mark a production of uncommon entertainment and engrossing interest.

Another Check Forger Caught.

John Leonard, alias John Craig, of Cloverdale, Pa., was arrested in Harrisburg last Saturday and brought to Centre county by policeman Mingle, of State College, where he was wanted on the charge of passing forged checks. The young man, who is only eighteen years of age, admitted he had received over two hundred dollars as the result of passing forged checks in State College and Bellefonte. He was committed to jail to await the action of the court.

Three Prisoners Escape from Pen.

Three prisoners made their escape from the western penitentiary at Rockview some time between the first and second roll call on Wednesday evening. They are Frank Richie, sent up from Westmoreland county; Robert Morton, of Cambria county, and Frank Campos, a Spaniard, of Erie county. Up to yesterday afternoon no trace had been discovered of either of the men.

A band of burglars invaded Phillipsburg, on Monday night, and made forcible entry into eight business places, but all they got for their trouble was $31.13 in cash. Money and valuables were evidently the only things the burglars were after as nothing else was taken. Desks and safes were rifled of their contents, which were scattered over the floor, and the burglars must have been sadly disappointed in finding so little cash. One of the men was seen to make his escape in an automobile.

—Get your job work done here.

RANKIN.—Mrs. Fannie Lembkey Rankin, widow of the late John I. Rankin, was found dead in her home in Philadelphia on Thursday of last week, her death evidently being the result of heart failure.

She was seventy-one years old and a native of Russia, coming to this country, however, when only three years old. Her girlhood life was spent in Philadelphia where as a young woman she learned the milliner's trade. She came to Bellefonte as head milliner for a Miss Dare and later conducted her own establishment here until her marriage to John I. Rankin. Their early married life was spent in Bellefonte but thirty-five years or more ago they moved to Washington, D. C., where they lived a number of years, then moved to Philadelphia. Mr. Rankin died some seven years ago and her only immediate survivor is a nephew, Walter I. Lembkey, of Washington, D. C., whom she took when a boy three years old and was the only mother he knew.

Funeral services were held in Philadelphia on Friday evening and the remains were brought to Bellefonte on Saturday morning and taken direct to the Union cemetery for burial.

DAUGHERTY.—Following an illness of seven months Mrs. Alfretha Daugherty, wife of R. B. Daugherty, died at her home on Wilson street on Tuesday. She was a daughter of H. R. and Angeline Meeker and was born at Pine Glenn a little over forty-nine years ago. In 1899 she married Mr. Daugherty who survives with the following children: Minnie, Margaret, Beatrice and Gladys, all at home. She also leaves one sister and three brothers, Mrs. Sarah Baker, of Hornell, N. Y.; Eugene Meeker, of Youngstown, Ohio; William H., of Pine Glenn, and W. P., of Clarence.

Funeral services will be held at her late home this morning by Rev. C. W. Rishel, of Liverpool, after which the remains will be taken to Burnside township for burial in the Askey cemetery.

BRICKLEY.—Mrs. Jennie Brickley, wife of J. R. Brickley, died on Tuesday afternoon of last week at her home at Howard following three weeks' illness with asthma and other complications, aged sixty-four years. Surviving her are her husband and the following children: Howard Brickley, of Altoona; A. M. and Edgar P., of Juniata; Mrs. Merle Weaver, of Saxton; Jacob, Chester, Mrs. Merrill Eberly and Mrs. Bessie Boone, of Howard. Burial was made in the Schenck cemetery, at Howard, on Saturday afternoon.

BOOB.—Harold Kennis Boob, young son of William F. and Hannah Ryley Boob, of Spring Mills, died at the Bellefonte hospital on Wednesday morning of shock, following an operation for appendicitis and general peritonitis. He was born in Haines township on July 15th, 1917, making his age 7 years, 7 months and 7 days. Burial will be made at Woodward tomorrow.

"No Bananas" is Coming.

The acme of perfection and novelty seems to have been attained in the latest musical comedy triumph, "Yes We Have No Bananas," which will be the attraction at the opera house on Wednesday, January 30th. As might be inferred the title was suggested by the song, "Yes We Have No Bananas," written by Frank Silver and Irving Cohen, the chief ingredients of fun being supplied by a typical American hobo or tramp who is engaged to pose as the husband of a temperamental prima donna so that she might rid herself of the amorous attentions of an Italian count. In the end the tramp falls heir to a large banana plantation. Special and exclusive tunes and ensembles along with other unusual features mark a production of uncommon entertainment and engrossing interest.

Another Check Forger Caught.

John Leonard, alias John Craig, of Cloverdale, Pa., was arrested in Harrisburg last Saturday and brought to Centre county by policeman Mingle, of State College, where he was wanted on the charge of passing forged checks. The young man, who is only eighteen years of age, admitted he had received over two hundred dollars as the result of passing forged checks in State College and Bellefonte. He was committed to jail to await the action of the court.

Three Prisoners Escape from Pen.

Three prisoners made their escape from the western penitentiary at Rockview some time between the first and second roll call on Wednesday evening. They are Frank Richie, sent up from Westmoreland county; Robert Morton, of Cambria county, and Frank Campos, a Spaniard, of Erie county. Up to yesterday afternoon no trace had been discovered of either of the men.

A band of burglars invaded Phillipsburg, on Monday night, and made forcible entry into eight business places, but all they got for their trouble was $31.13 in cash. Money and valuables were evidently the only things the burglars were after as nothing else was taken. Desks and safes were rifled of their contents, which were scattered over the floor, and the burglars must have been sadly disappointed in finding so little cash. One of the men was seen to make his escape in an automobile.

—Get your job work done here.