SENTENCES.

Three Sent to Penitentiary and One to Jail. Other Court Proceedings.

Not since the famous murder trial county court room been so crowded as it has been this week, most of those in attendance having been drawn there through morbid curiosity to witness the outcome of several cases of questionable character. It was regular session of court, and the gencases very well.

At the opening of court on Monday morning George H. Yarnell was aplist was gone over and a number of cases continued for various reasons.

The first Commonwealth case diswaived the finding of the grand jury suspending sentence upon the payment of costs and restitution.

Commonwealth vs. Thomas Smeal, adultery. Verdict of guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and serve one year in the county jail.

Considerable interest was attached to the case of the Commonwealth vs. George P. Gable, an ex-convict, charged with impersonating a State welfare officer. Gable, who hails from McKean county, served time in the western penitentiary for forgery and some time after his discharge, or on jail without being discovered others January 7th, he came to Bellefonte and posing as a State welfare officer, stated that he came here to investigate the fires that had occurred during the past year at the Rockview institution. He even made so bold as to write Governor Pinchot and State welfare officials in Harrisburg. The result was Major Simpson was sent here to investigate the man's conduct and finding him an impostor had him Wilson P. Ard; vice president, Frank arrested. He was convicted and sent M. It just happened that Mrs. Taylor was in the big pantry next the kitchen, with the door open, and she saw the Mexican in his attempt to sneak out unnoticed. She promptly called "Dick," who was in his office, and Campos just as quickly ran through the main hall and out the front door. Hatless and coatless the sheriff followed and it was a foot race down jail hill with the sheriff gaining at every jump. Above the court house Campos ran out into the street and just opposite the Garman house he slipped on the ice and fell just as the sheriff was about to grab him. > Chief of police Harry Dukeman was standing on the corner at the Bellefonte Trust company and he quickly went to the sheriff's assistance with the result that Campos promptly subsided and was taken back to jail and locked in a steel cell. When searched three small, fine saws were found upon him, and how he got them is a mystery. The sheriff, naturally, has his suspicions and believes some of the other prisoners are implicated, and had Campos gotten outside the would have also made the attempt.

Kiwanis Club Permanently Organized in Bellefonte.

At a dinner held at the Brockerhoff house, on Monday evening, the Kiwanis club, of Bellefonte, was permanently organized with the election of the following officers: President, Rev. board of directors, the above officers and George Hazel, W. J. Emerick, John M. Bullock, Father Downes, Edward R. Owens and G. Oscar Gray.

The club starts off on its career with fifty-five members and adhering to the high ideals of the Kiwanis International should prove one of the best organizations in Bellefonte. It is the only organization known that does not countenance any drones in its hive or high privates in the rear ranks. Every member is placed upon a working committee of some character and it will be up to each individual to show results. The object of the club is to boom the city or town in which it is located and at the same time cultivate a spirit of co-operation among all its members. Let us all for escaping from Rockview and five hope that the Kiwanis will prove a cinity.

The Wonderful Screen Portrayal of Pioneer Life in America Coming to the Opera House March 7th.

All great American dramas of semihistorical origin seem to hit the times just at the right period and no fuller illustration of this can be shown than the phenomenal success of "The Covered Wagon," which comes to the Bellefonte opera house for a special engagement of matinee and night, Friday, March 7th.

This story is the picturization of the great Saturday Evening Post ser- wensville. ial of the same title by Emerson Hough, which is now in its sixth edition as a book and which was made for Famous Players-Lasky under the able direction of James Cruze.

Emerson Hough, as every one familiar with his works knows, was one of the foremost writers of the west and he said just before his death that he had reached the height of his dreams when he witnessed the screen success of his greatest endeavor. The timeliness of his theme in this particular is that it made its appearance when the country was satiated with war alarms and the radicalism which came in the back-wash of the war. Contrasted with that ill timed movement of aggression, the story of how these men and women of great courage and high resolution set forth upon their perilous trip of 2,000 miles across the uncharted plains and desert is inspiring. In the covered wagons drawn by oxen and reeling off an average of twelve miles a day they laughed and sang, and loved and suffered and fought to build what is now the great western heart of this greatest of all countries. Its appeal is the personal one of courage to do and hearts to serve that an unknown land might be opened up and the rich stream of wealth come pouring the ends of the world. There is romance and adventure in every forward move of the winding trains as they trek onward and onward toward in town on Monday between trains while the end of the trail and the golden west which was no mere rainbow or chimera but something that will live forever in our minds and hearts.

The production has been successfully presented in all the principal cities of the country and in London and Paris. A symphony orchestra of twenty artists will play the score managed by Hugo Reisenfeld for "The Covered Wagon.'
