

Young People's Council at Altoona.

With such splendid young people's specialists as Charles E. Garman, superintendent, from Massachusetts; Miss Adella R. Sterrett, of the Boston University; Henry R. Bowen, State young people's superintendent, of New Jersey; R. A. Waite, associate director of Danforth Foundation, and Pennsylvania's two leaders in young people's work, E. H. Bonsall Jr., and Miss Esther I. Williams, it certainly should be up to the young people's division of the Centre county Sunday School association to send their full allotment of delegates to the annual young people's council to be held in the First Methodist church of Altoona on April 24th, 25th and 26th.

It has well been said that "what you put into a boy or girl stays with them until the end," and the young people's work of the State Sabbath School association's program is larger than that of any other department.

At these councils are gathered several hundred young people, the coming leaders in church and Sunday school activities, and the spirit and inspiration of such a gathering with real young people's specialists certainly is worthy of this county sending her full quota of delegates.

Train schedules to Altoona are fine, and registration fee of only three dollars covers all lodging and meals except one meal during the Council.

The county president is also asked to go as a delegate, and why not have him head up and pilot to Altoona the finest bunch of young people that has ever gone from this county to one of these councils.

PINE GROVE MENTIONS.

Fred Rossman, the popular garage man at Rock Springs, and Vilas Weaver were Bellefonte visitors on Tuesday afternoon.

J. Harry McCracken and sister Clara, of Rock Springs, spent Tuesday afternoon in Bellefonte shopping and calling on old friends.

William Paul Goss went to Philadelphia on Monday to consult an oculist in regard to an injured eye, which has been giving him more or less concern recently.

The recently elected officers of Pennsylvania Lodge No. 276, I. O. O. F., were installed last Saturday evening by district deputy grand master L. L. Hollibaugh, of State College, the list being as follows:

- Noble Grand—Ralph Judy.
- Vice Grand—J. A. Gummo.
- Rec. Sec'y—R. L. McDowell.
- R. S. to N. G.—J. H. McCracken.
- L. S. to N. G.—I. G. Harpster.
- R. S. to V. G.—A. J. Laird.
- L. S. to V. G.—J. F. Musser.
- Warden—W. H. Fry.
- Conductor—J. H. Bailey.
- Chaplain—Dr. R. M. Krebs.
- R. S. S.—Edward Isenberg.
- L. S. S.—R. L. Musser.
- Inside Guard—N. M. Walker.
- Outside Guard—C. M. Powley.
- Trustee—R. Milton Krebs.
- Representative to Grand Lodge—Rev. H. N. Walker.
- Representative to Orphanage—Charles Gates.

Following the installation there was a feast and smoker and a general get-together meeting. A number of brief but interesting talks were made by visiting guests and members. Music was furnished by the I. O. O. F. orchestra.
