SPEEDY HOMICIDE HEARING.

Frank Auman Waived Trial by Jury for Death of H. H. Gillett.

Frank Auman, the Snow Shoe township young man who, on Thursday, April 3rd, struck truant officer Hugh H. Gillett, of Snow Shoe, on the head with a small hand pick inflicting an injury which resulted in his death at the Lock Haven hospital on April 29th, on Tuesday waived the findings of the grand jury as well as a trial by jury, plead guilty generally to the indictment made against him and elected to have the court fix the degree of crime after hearing the evidence in the case. Consequently a session of court was held on Tuesday evening and at the close of the testimony the court stated that from the evidence presented the case impressed him very much as being one of justifiable homicide, but inasmuch as it was one of too grave a character to act upon without due consideration he requested the court stenographer to transcribe the testimony and submit it to him, and after thoroughly considering it he would render his decision. In the meantime Auman was remanded to jail to await the action of the court. The prosecutor in the case is Orvis Gillett, son of the dead truant officer, and district attorney Arthur C. Dale was unassisted in the prosecution. N. B. Spangler Esq., defended the prisoner. The first evidence given was by the prosecutor, who testified to having been summoned to the Stanley Shall home because of the injury to his father, making arrangements to send him to the Lock Haven hospital and preferring the charge of murder against Auman.

Dr. Edward H. Harris, who was the first physician in attendance described the injury inflicted, while Dr. Thomas, chief surgeon at the Lock Haven hospital, gave a brief history of the case from the time Gillett was admitted to that institution until his death on April 29th. He stated that his death was the result of a brain abscess, caused by infection, and naturally directly traceable to the wound. Katie Shall, sixteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Shall, at whose home the trouble occurred, testified that Gillett struck Auman several times with his hand-cuffs and when the latter ran around the house to get away from the truant officer he followed, striking at him with the handcuffs. However, she did not see the fatal blow struck by Auman.

Mrs. Ella Josefy, who lives quite a distance from the Shall home, testified that she saw the two men run around the house, Auman in the lead and Gillett striking at him. Then she saw Auman grab what she said looked like a club and hit Gillett and he fell to the ground. Then Auman walked out behind the barn and disappeared.

Constable Joseph Wade told of assisting sheriff Taylor in arresting Auman on the afternoon of April 4th, and of a conversation he had later with the defendant in the Centre county jail in which the latter stated that nobody else was engaged in the fight but he and Gillett.

Mrs. Shall, through an interpreter, told about Gillett coming to their home with a warrant for her husband for delinquency in not sending the children to school, and ordering him to go to Snow Shoe at once. That he and two other men who had been served with similar warrants started there talking to herself and daughter. Frank Auman was in her home at the time and he came out onto the porch and said only a few words to Gillett when the latter struck him with the handcuffs. She didn't know what they said as she cannot understand English. The two men scuffled a minute or two then Auman ran around the house with Gillett after him wielding his handcuffs. She did not see Auman hit Gillett. This was the bulk of the Commonwealth's evidence.

Attorney Spangler, for the defense, called to the stand Mr. Shall who stated that Gillett came there on the afternoon in question and served the warrant on him, telling him to go to once to Snow Shoe. Warrants had been served on two other men nearby and the three of them left at once, supposing Gillett to be following them. When several hundred yards from the house one of the men looked back and saw Gillett lying in the snow at the side of the house, then all returned and assisted in taking care of the injured man. He didn't see any of the fight.

In his own defense Auman, who stated that he is twenty-five years old, said that he was at the Shall home and when Mrs. Shall went out onto the porch he followed. Gillett was there talking to Katie about not attending school. He simply knew Gillett to speak to and said "how do you do." Gillett pulled a cigar out of his vest pocket and he asked him if he had another for him. Gillett said "No," when he told him he might give him that one. At that Gillett struck him with the handcuffs saying "here's your cigar." Naturally he threw up his hands to protect his head and whether Gillett thought he meant to fight he couldn't say but he began to wield the handcuffs more rapidly, hitting him all told four or five times, cutting him on the head in several places. He ran around the house with Gillett after him, and seeing the handpick lying on the frame of an old grindstone grabbed it and swung it around his head to keep Gillett away, but he came toward him with his head down and caught the blow, falling unconscious. He then called Katie and told her to get help and take him into the house and fix him up, and he left.

This concluded the testimony and it was then that the court made the statement given at the opening of this article. This is the first case of the kind ever heard in this way in the Centre county courts, although it is not a new proceeding before Judge Quigley, as he has had a dozen or more similar cases in the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia courts.

May Term of Court.

The regular May term of court convened on Monday morning with Judge Henry C. Quigley presiding. Various motions and petitions were presented after which the list of grand jurors was called, eighteen out of the twenty-four summoned answering the roll call, among the absentees being three women. Harry L. Hutchison, of Bellefonte, was appointed foreman. The list of traverse jurors was called and out of the sixty men and women summoned only thirty-nine responded, it being a noticeable fact that the ladies are apparently not nearly so anxious to do jury duty as they seemed to be a year or so ago. Of the thirty-nine who were present four asked to be excused. H. M. Grenoble and O. B. Brungard, of Ferguson township, because they have no help and are behind in their farm work; Clark Stover, of Miles township, because he is behind in his farm work and has serious illness in his family, and G. C. Irish, of Phillipsburg, because he is under the doctor's care and did not feel able to do jury duty. They were all excused.

A petition was presented to the court for the appointment of a guardian for Miss Ella A. Gates, who has been a patient in the Bellefonte hospital since February 7th, and whose condition is such that she is not able to look after her property interests, and the court appointed her brother, Charles L. Gates.

The first case taken up on Monday afternoon was that of the Commonwealth vs. Thomas Smeal, indicted on a serious charge on complaint of his thirteen year old daughter Susie. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Most of Monday afternoon was taken up with the trial of the case of Helen T. Broadbent, nee Wilson, vs. A. T. Sellers, being an action in trespass to recover damages for an automobile accident on the state highway between State College and Lemont, on August 13th, 1923. On Tuesday morning the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $200.

Cyrus F. Hoy vs. Joel S. Royer and John Hockman, was another action to recover damages as the result of an automobile wreck, but after hearing the plaintiff's testimony counsel for the defendants made a motion for a compulsory non-suit, which was granted.

The case of Edward M. Gehret vs. James From was an action in assumpsit to recover pay for the erection of a barn and the jury awarded the plaintiff $422.70, with interest from January 3rd, 1923.

William H. Stuart, Adm. of Harry S. Stuart, deceased, vs. Mrs. Elias Edmiston, an action in ejectment. The case was settled by the plaintiff obtaining possession of the land in question, but to pay defendant $400 on or before August 1st, 1924, and also the record costs, each side to the contrary to pay its own witness fees.

On Wednesday morning the case of the Commonwealth vs. John Strabilla, was taken up. This is the case growing out of the dynamiting of a house several years ago in which one man was killed, the story of which was told in detail in this paper a few weeks ago as the result of the habeas corpus proceedings following the arrest of Strabilla on the charge of murder. The trial of this case took up all of Wednesday and yesterday morning.

Following a brief wedding trip the young couple have started housekeeping in Milesburg.

Prior to his retirement he was superintendent of the Danville district. In 1901 he was a delegate to the Ecumenical conference of the Methodist church in London, England, and on three different occasions had represented the Central Pennsylvania conference at the general conference in the United States. While he never filled a permanent appointment in Centre county, he preached in various churches on different occasions and was well known throughout the entire Presbytery.

A son of Thomas V. and Gertrude W. Barber he was born at Millifinburg sixty-two years ago. He was educated at Lafayette College and Princeton University. He was ordained as a home missionary at Pueblo, Col., in 1889, remaining in the west four years. Coming east he located in Butler county, remaining in the western part of the State until 1900 when he went to Curwensville. In 1919 he located in Bellwood. He married while living in the west and is survived by his wife and seven children, one of whom is Rev. Lewis V. Barber, of Mill Hall, but formerly Presbyterian minister at Lemont. The remains were taken to Millifinburg where burial was made on Tuesday afternoon.

She also leaves two brothers, Samuel Long, of Millheim, and John, of Spring Mills.

She was a member of the Lutheran church at Snyderstown, but in the absence of her pastor the Evangelical minister had charge of the funeral services which were held yesterday afternoon, burial being made at Hubersburg.

ROTE.—James L. Rote, for many years a resident of Coleville, died at his home at State College last Friday morning following a brief illness with neuralgia of the heart.

He was a son of Peter and Elizabeth Rote and was born in Buffalo Run valley seventy-seven years ago. The greater part of his life was spent in Coleville where for many years he dealt in fish and oysters. About a year ago he built a little home at State College and moved to that place. At the age of twenty-five years Mr. Rote married Miss Chestie Garbrick, of Zion, who survives with three children: Mrs. Lulu Black, of State College; Charles Rote, traveling with the Harry Copping shows, and Clayton Rote, of Coleville.

Mr. Rote was a life-long member of the United Brethren church and the Bellefonte lodge of Eagles. Brief funeral services were held at his home at State College on Sunday afternoon, after which the remains were brought to Bellefonte and services held in the United Brethren church by Revs. Winey, Hackett and Emehizer, after which burial was made in the Union cemetery.

KROFT.—William C. Kroft, a well known Tyrone division railroad man and a brother of Mrs. George Sherry, of Bellefonte, died on Wednesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Arthur S. Hull, in Tyrone, following an illness of several weeks. He was born at Bald Eagle and was in his sixty-sixth year. Burial will be made in the Oak Grove cemetery, Tyrone, tomorrow morning.

Among recent appointments announced by Governor Pinchot were R. W. Knisely, of Bellefonte, as a chairman in the Highway Department, and David Daniels, of Phillipsburg, a patrolman.

Phillipsburg Man Killed in Auto Accident.

William Harvey Nelson, a well known carpenter of Phillipsburg, died at the Bellefonte hospital on Monday evening as the result of injuries sustained in an auto accident on the road between Snow Shoe and Clarence the same afternoon. The automobile party consisted of Edward Remsnyder, of Bigler, owner and driver of the car; Mr. Nelson, Jack Matley and Howard Cole, all of Phillipsburg. According to reports the car was being driven at high speed and the driver missed the roadway of the bridge between Clarence and Snow Shoe and ran head on into the concrete abutment, throwing the car down an embankment into the creek. Nelson was thrown out and sustained a fractured skull. He was brought to the Bellefonte hospital as quickly as possible but cerebral hemorrhages caused his death within three hours.

Because of rumors that members of the automobile party were under the influence of liquor the three men who escaped were placed under arrest, Remsnyder giving security for his appearance at court, while Matley and Cole were brought to Bellefonte and locked up in the Centre county jail pending a further investigation. Nelson, the unfortunate victim of the accident, was almost fifty-eight years old and a widower. He leaves, however, two sons and one daughter as well as a number of brothers and sisters. Burial was made in the Phillipsburg cemetery yesterday afternoon.

BELLEFONTES IN ACCIDENT.

On Sunday evening Nevin Summers, Rhule Teaman and William Garbrick, of Bellefonte, and Emory Croft, of Pittsburgh, went for a spin up Bald Eagle valley in Summers' Maxwell car. At the railroad crossing above Milesburg, on their return trip, a car ahead of them stopped suddenly to permit a high speeding car to pass and to avoid hitting the one car Summers pulled sharply to the left, running into a telephone pole. All of the occupants were more or less injured, but none of them seriously. The car was badly wrecked.

Penn State Girls Have Another "Hillcrest."

"Jackie" Hillcrest, the baby boy adopted about a year ago by the twenty-six girl students in the course of home economics at State College, has been replaced with a "Bobby" Hillcrest. Jackie was legally adopted by a well to do family at the College and in looking around for a substitute the girls located Bobbie in a Philadelphia children's boarding home. Both his parents are compelled to work to eke out a living and were glad of the opportunity to get their little son a good home against the day when they can better provide for his wants.

All of the girl students living at the practice house have fallen in love with "Bobby," and he lacks no attention whatever. He is eleven months old and has gained rapidly in weight in the short time he has been at State College under the watchful care of the girls studying home economics.

Bobby's parents have decided to allow him to remain through the Penn State summer session, when another group of girls will have the opportunity of "mothering" him. So instead of facing hot city streets, "Bobby" will live at least one summer of his life in the wide open spaces of the woods that surround the model home where he is "boss."

The surname of "Hillcrest" given to Jackie and Bobby is the name by which the practice house is known on the campus by reason of the fact that it stands at the top of a small hill overlooking the main campus.

Phillipsburg Kiwanians Enjoyed Visit of Bellefonte Kiwanis.

The inter-club meeting of the Bellefonte and Phillipsburg Kiwanis at the Hotel Phillips, in Phillipsburg, last Thursday evening proved a very enjoyable fraternal gathering. About thirty-seven members from Bellefonte motored over the mountain, going by way of Tyrone. Between seventy-five and eighty people attended the dinner and the meeting at The Phillips. Among the speakers of the evening were George W. Zeigler Esq., and Rev. R. S. Oyer, of Phillipsburg; Rev. W. P. Ard, Burgess W. Harrison Walker, Prof. A. H. Sloop and L. Frank Mayes, of Bellefonte. The Jackson orchestra furnished music, and John Rossi, an entertainer of Altoona, gave several interesting selections. The Bellefonte club extended an invitation to the Phillipsburg club to be their guests at a similar gathering to be held at the Brockerhoff house next year. The Phillipsburg Journal characterized the Bellefonte Kiwanians as a "good, jovial bunch," and expressed the hope that they "will come again."

Thrift Woman.

At this time of the year when you are digging into the hidden corners of your house and bringing to light all the things that have been tucked away all winter and deciding what to do with them, the following idea may be of help: One housekeeper has four large boxes. Into one she puts all materials that may be used alone or combined with other materials to make useful garments. Into the second box go all the pieces that may be used for quilts or comforters. Into the third all the articles that she cannot use herself but which might prove useful to some one poorer; and into the fourth box go all materials that may be used in the making of rugs, braided or woven.

Memorial Day's Meaning.

"Was Memorial day set aside for sports, baseball games, work horse parades and other spectacles or was it set aside in commemoration of the boys who fought and died for their country? Let us as patriotic citizens honor the veterans who are still with us and cherish the names of those who have crossed the great divide."
