Three men from Lewistown ran into the "Stop, Look and Listen" post near Dale's Summit on Wednesday evening, two of them being more or less injured. Wallace Moore, one of the three, was brought to the Bellefonte hospital where his injuries were given proper attention and he was able to leave the institution yesterday morning. The car was pretty badly wrecked.

The following was taken from the society news of one of the New York papers: "Mrs. H. Bellinger, of Parkview avenue, Hollis Park Gardens, will give a bridge party at her home on June 18th, assisted by the members of the Delphian Society, of which she is president. The proceeds will be sent to the Capitol Theatre Broadcasting station, Manhattan, for the benefit of the fund to procure radio sets for the disabled soldiers in hospitals. Jack Decker Jr., of the class of '24, Penn State, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Decker, of Bellefonte, leaves college with a record any student might envy. Graduating in metallurgy and third in the school of mines, he was among the second honor men, a member of the student council of the Blue Key, the Sigma Nu and Sigma Alpha Epsilon societies, the latter two honorary societies, and the Alpha Chi Sigma fraternity. A double dwelling house and a single house, at Morristown, owned by the American Lime & Stone company, and occupied by three families of foreigners, were almost completely destroyed by fire on Wednesday night. The Undine fire company responded to a call for help but by the time it arrived upon the scene of the fire the houses were doomed. One man claims to have had $700 in cash in the house and as the origin of the fire is not definitely known he believes the money to have been stolen and the house set on fire to cover the robbery.

Paul Jones, the sixteen year old Punsutawney youth who on May 3rd carelessly shot and killed William Steffy, grand-son of William Young, of Bellefonte, has been held for trial in the Jefferson county court on the charge of involuntary manslaughter. It will be recalled that young Steffy was driving an oil tank on the outskirts of Punsutawney and on the dare of another youth young Jones shot at the tank in an effort to puncture it and see the oil run out, but missed the tank and shot Steffy through the heart, killing him instantly.

During the latter part of last week James Mitchell Thompson, the nine month's old child of Rev. and Mrs. William C. Thompson, of Bellefonte, became quite ill and the attending physician finally diagnosed the trouble as some foreign substance either in the windpipe or lung. By Sunday the child's condition was such that Rev. Thompson cancelled his evening services in the Presbyterian church and with Mrs. Thompson and the child left on the night train for Philadelphia to consult a specialist. By using a powerful X-ray the latter was able to locate the trouble, which was in the right lung and an operation was performed as soon as possible. The foreign substance proved to be a small portion of stem and one of two petals of a flower very much resembling the daisy. The child had evidently inhaled the substance while on the floor and being unable to expect it gradually drew it down into the lung. The operation for its removal was successful and latest word from Philadelphia is that the little boy is getting along as well as can be expected.

HOSPITAL MERGER MEETING.

New Board of Trustees Elected and By-Laws Adopted.

So far as name goes the Bellefonte hospital is now a matter of history and in the future this well known institution will be known as the Centre County Hospital, in accordance with the action of a public meeting held in the court house, Bellefonte, on Monday evening. Notwithstanding the fact that the meeting had been widely advertised only forty-seven people were present, the big majority, of course, being from Bellefonte.

John B. Payne, secretary of the Bellefonte Kiwanis, called the meeting to order and asked for nominations for a temporary chairman. Rev. Wilson P. Ard was chosen to preside and Miss Winifred M. Gates was elected secretary. John Blanchard Esq., explained the purpose of the meeting to be official action on the merger of the Bellefonte hospital into Centre County hospital, in accordance with a legal notice duly published in two newspapers of the county.

G. Oscar Gray presented a resolution outlining the order of business for the meeting which was adopted. The first order being the election of fifteen people to serve as trustees of the institution John M. Bullock announced that the Kiwanis club offered the following:

From Bellefonte and Spring township—John Blanchard, George Hazel, Edward R. Owens, Col. W. F. Reynolds, W. T. Kelly, A. Fauble, W. H. Noll Jr. and Ralph Mallory.

Snow Shoe—David Chambers.

State College—J. Laird Holmes and Prof. Woodruff.

Port Matilda—W. Edgar Williams.

Millheim—W. S. Shelton.

Centre Hall—Frank A. Carson.

Howard—T. A. Fletcher.

Following the presentation of the above list chairman Ard announced the meeting open for further nominations. Dr. LeRoy Locke nominated W. J. Emerick, of Bellefonte, and the nomination was seconded. Mr. Emerick was present and asked that his name be withdrawn as he expects to be away from Bellefonte during most of the summer and would not be in a position to give active service to the board at this time. Mr. Blanchard explained that the list presented by the Kiwanis gave Bellefonte and surrounding community just enough members to constitute a quorum and if one member should fail to attend a meeting and no members from the outside should respond it would be impossible to transact any business. And it was very important that work on the improvements at the hospital be started at the earliest possible moment and pushed with all possible speed. Dr. Locke declined to withdraw Mr. Emerick's name and there being no other nominations the chairman appointed H. S. Moore and W. M. Bottorf as judges to conduct the election, which according to the order of business, was by ballot.

While the judges were counting the ballots Mr. Blanchard read the proposed changes in the articles of incorporation which will be presented to the court in order to obtain a charter for the Centre County hospital. Particular stress was placed upon Article II which defined the hospital as an institution for the medical and surgical care of the sick, except chronic cases, incurables and those afflicted with infectious or contagious diseases; subject, however, to any rules and regulations the board may see fit to adopt. Miss Elizabeth Meek inquired whether that would exclude tuberculosis patients and stated that she had been informed by State tuberculosis officials that such patients could and should be admitted to general hospitals in the primary stage of the disease. In explanation Dr. Seibert stated that an act of assembly provides that each county must take care of its tuberculosis patients but it was his understanding of the act that they must be segregated in a separate ward or building beyond any possibility of contaminating other patients. Mr. Blanchard stated that under the provisions of Article II the board would have the option to admit such patients if they deemed it safe and wise to do so.

At the conclusion of the reading of the articles of incorporation the judges announced the result of the ballot for trustees, the entire Kiwanis slate being elected, though Mr. Emerick received 21 votes.

The By-Laws were then taken up and read article by article and section by section, and adopted without any material change. Notice was given that the new board of trustees will meet at the hospital next Monday evening for the election of a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, and for the transaction of any and all other business that may be brought before them, after which the meeting adjourned.

A. dormitories and according to the matrons his room had been locked for three days. Finally, on Thursday morning, the matter was reported to the Y. M. C. One of the first big reunions of the season was that of the Witmer family, held last Saturday at the home of John Witmer, seven miles west of Pine Grove Mills. About one hundred people were present and the dinner, which is always a feature at family reunions, was served on one big table spread in the spacious barn floor. Of course everything good in the way of eatables adorned the table and there was every evidence that all present enjoyed that part of the gathering, at least. C. C. Shuey, of Bellefonte, was among the guests and gave a little talk on the pleasure and importance of family reunions and it was decided to hold a similar gathering next year. Those present included the following:

MANY MEN AND WOMEN RECEIVE DIPLOMAS.

Almost Five Hundred Graduate at Penn State Commencement This Week.

The first commencement at The Pennsylvania State College (at that time the Farmers' High School) was held in 1861 and just twelve young men were members of the class. This week, sixty-three year later, almost five hundred young men and women were given diplomas, and adding to this number those who were given degrees at the mid-winter graduation exercises in January makes a grand total of over six hundred. Every county in Pennsylvania is represented in the list of graduates, as well as almost every State in the union, while China, Japan and the Philippines each had one representative in the graduating class.

The week's program began informally on Friday night with gay house parties at almost every fraternity while many classes held annual reunions. An unusually good representation of old grads were back for the festivities, among them many men who are now leaders in law, science and engineering, and every one of them entered into the spirit of the gathering with the enthusiasm of high school kids.

The baccalaureate sermon on Sunday morning was delivered by Rev. Dr. Leon C. Prince, of Dickinson Seminary. At the class day exercises on Monday a $2500 piano was presented to the College for use in the auditorium as a memorial from the graduating class. Donald V. Bauder was valedictorian for the class.

The commencement exercises proper were held on Tuesday morning when Dr. John M. Thomas, president of the College, made the address to the young graduates. Centre county students who secured diplomas are as follows:

Harold O. Alexander, Centre Hall, electrical engineering; George Edgar Boyles, State College, mining engineering; Mary Louise Boyd, State College, arts and letters; Mary Alice Butcher, State College, education and psychology; Helen Elizabeth Cleaver, State College, arts and letters; Arnold Colvin Cobb, Bellefonte, railway mechanical engineering; John Anderson Decker, Bellefonte, Metallurgical engineering; Charles Mertis Edwards, State College, Horticulture; Thomas, Edward, Ellwood, Lemont, animal husbandry; Mary Reno Frear, State College, education and psychology; Alben Evenson Jones, Linden Hall, poultry husbandry; Thomas I. State College; David Henry Porterfield, State College, landscape architecture.

The list of second scholastic honor winners, those graduates who attained a grade between 80 and 85 per cent, included John A. Decker, of Bellefonte.

Big Week at State College.

Following right after the commencement "young farmers' week" drew a large crowd to State College for the various exhibits, demonstrations and everything else on the program. In the neighborhood of 350 boys and 20 girls arrived at the College on Monday, and had the time of their lives on the college campus. Included in the number were 52 judging teams of three boys each who represented 35 counties of the State in the annual State-wide judging contests which were held yesterday. Instruction in agricultural subjects, tours to points of interest over the campus, and instructive talks by Dean R. L. Watts, of the school of agriculture and M. S. McDowell, director of the agricultural extension department have absorbed the interest of the junior farmers every hour of the days spent at the College.

At the opening meeting of Farmers' day on Wednesday evening, State Secretary of Agriculture, Frank P. Willets, and president John M. Thomas, addressed the many farmers in attendance. Community singing, special singing, special music, and agricultural moving pictures completed the evening program.

Thursday was devoted to tours over the college farms, observing the experimental work and viewing demonstrations given by members of the faculty. A dairy judging contest for the men, an hour of fun for men, women and children, a sale of purebred dairy calves raised by the college, and an afternoon tea for the farm women were special features of the day's program. The winners of the state-wide judging contest were announced at a meeting last evening and prizes awarded to the victors.
