

PRIZES AWARDED AT GRANGE ENCAMPMENT.

Annual Gathering at Grange Park a Successful Affair.

The general committee having in charge the fifty-first annual encampment and fair at Grange park, last week, have good cause to be congratulated upon the success of the gathering. As a general outing camp it was more liberally patronized than ever before, eighty privately owned tents being occupied in addition to the one hundred and ninety erected by the fair management. Thirty members of the Junior Farmers' Association camped on the grounds during the week and took part in the stock-judging contests. While rain fell on two days during the encampment it put only a temporary dampness on the people in attendance. In addition to the interesting talks delivered every day, and the various amusement features, the various exhibits attracted unusual attention. This was but natural because of the prizes offered for superior exhibits, the list of prize winners for the week being as follows:
