

Why Every Citizen Should Vote.

This is the second in a series of four articles written by specially appointed members of the Bellefonte Kiwanis Club in an effort to promote an intelligent and serviceable citizenship, to overcome the indifference of the voter, and to urge upon all the value and need of the universal exercise of the franchise.

By Arthur H. Sleep.

We American people are a self-governing people in theory only. Our right to self-government is inherent and inalienable. This right is the fruitage of all the struggles of all the ages, an inheritance to us, as a free born people. The hopes and aspirations of the countless millions who have gone before, and slowly but surely fought their way out of political slavery into the full freedom of constitutional representative government, have in us their culmination. Strange, is it not, that this generation throws away so lightly so precious a gift?

If the history of civilization has taught us one thing it is that civilization and self-government have gone hand in hand; that progress and political freedom have always moved side by side.

If the apathy and indifference of the American voter, which in the Presidential election of 1920 brought to the polls a scant fifty per cent. of those entitled to the ballot, should continue or increase, self-government in America is doomed, the greatest political experiment of all time—the Republic of the United States of America—shall be judged a failure, and civilization shall take a backward step. And the sad part of it is that these things are not being taken from us by force of arms, by Kings and Emperors and Kaisers; they are being tossed aside as carelessly as a cast-off garment.

No matter what our political allegiance, it is the duty of every one of us to express that allegiance in the only way that counts—the ballot. In no other way can the will of the majority be determined. In no other way can the greatest good to the greatest number be assured. Without it the will of a small minority is saddled upon the whole people. Bad government may and often does result, and the responsibility rests upon the non-voter.

The other day a cartoon appeared in one of the great national weeklies in which democracy was pictured as a row boat headed toward the distant shore of prosperity. In the boat sat a sturdy oarsman, labeled "the man who votes," pulling with all his strength toward the shore. But his efforts were ineffective, for in the mud was fastened a heavy anchor labeled "the non-voter," and the anchor was chained to the boat. Shall we be anchors, stuck in the mud of indifference, or shall we join the rowers and pull the good old boat of democracy a little nearer the prosperous haven of real self-government?

Berkshire Day at State College.

Breeders of Berkshire hogs in Centre county should not overlook the fact that Saturday of next week, October 18th, will be annual Berkshire day at State College. J. P. Winslow, secretary of the Pennsylvania State Berkshire Breeders' association, has just announced the program for the occasion which really starts with the annual Berkshire dinner at 6:30 Friday evening, October 17th. This dinner will be at the Centre Hill's Country club, which adjoins the college property.

Dr. John M. Thomas, president of The Pennsylvania State College, will address this gathering.

On Saturday morning the swine breeders will assemble at the college hog farm when a carload of Berkshire barrows on feed for the International will be inspected. A judging demonstration and a tour of the college swine plant will follow.

It will be recalled that Pennsylvania Berkshires stood at the front at the last International Livestock exposition at Chicago. The carload exhibited then was assembled at State College from over 500 breeders and fed under the direction of the college animal husbandry men. It won second place in the 200 to 250 pound class and sold at auction for a dollar higher per hundredweight than the first prize load.

Edwin Davis Drowned in Moshannon Creek, Near Munson.

Edwin Davis, for many years a resident of Snow Shoe township, but the past eleven years a resident of Munson, where he followed blacksmithing, was drowned in the Moshannon creek near the latter place on October first. He left home about four o'clock last Wednesday afternoon to go to the Moshannon creek for a bucket of clay to repair a drain pipe at his home and not returning at nightfall a search was instituted. The body was not found, however, until late Friday night, when two sons of the unfortunate man discovered it in the creek. As there was no evidence of foul play it is supposed he accidentally fell into the stream, which at that place is quite deep, and drowned.

He was seventy years old and was born in England, coming to this country when quite a young man. During most of his residence in Snow Shoe township he worked as a miner but later took up blacksmithing and followed that occupation at Munson. He is survived by his wife and nine children. Burial was made in the Askey cemetery, near Snow Shoe, on Monday afternoon.

Monday was almost as warm as a day in midsummer.
