"The Sea Hawk" a New Standard in Motion Pictures.

Once in a long time there comes to the screen a photoplay of such magnitude, such general excellence and such stirring appeal as to lift it high above all others and establish it as a new high standard for attainment. Such a photoplay is "The Sea Hawk," a First National picture, produced and directed by Frank Lloyd and which will be the attraction at the Moose Temple theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"The Sea Hawk" is that rare combination of an exceptionally fine story, a theme which grips one at the outset and tightens it with each succeeding scene, a superb piece of direction and a remarkable histrionic demonstration by every member of the unusually large and well known cast.

In "The Sea Hawk" Sabatini lives up to his title of "the modern Dumas," his romance between Sir Oliver and Rosamund is one of the most unusual the screen has known, his situations are logical and decidedly entertaining, and he has given his characters real work to do.

Milton Sills is seen as Sir Oliver Tressilian, later Sak-el-Bahr, the brave commander on the seas, and makes of the character a more dominant screen personality than even "Robin Hood." Mr. Sills has been the hero of many big photoplays, but never has he appeared to better advantage than in this wonderful picture.

Enid Bennett makes of Rosamund Godolphin a sincere, demure English maid. Wallace Beery as the freebooter, Jasper Leigh, establishes himself as peer of screen pirates and gives to his character a touch of genuine humor. Lloyd Hughes as Lionel, Oliver's brother, does the best work of his career.

"The Sea Hawk" should satisfy all expectations. Never have there been four such gigantic real ships used in a motion picture before. The English settings are superb; the Algerian city is quaintly picturesque, and the several sea battles between the huge sixteenth century ships give us something fascinatingly original and decidedly thrilling. Two shows daily, 2:30 and 8:15 p. m. A special orchestra will furnish the music. Prices, matinee, 50 and 75 cents; evening shows, 50, 75 and $1.00.

Foot Ball This Afternoon.

Perhaps the classiest game of football to be seen on Hughes field this season will be played this (Friday) afternoon at 3 o'clock, between the Bucknell second Varsity and the crack Academy eleven. Bucknell realizes that the Academy has a wonderful eleven, as shown by the fact that in four games she has scored 233 points to her opponents nothing, and has not had a single first down made on her thus far through her powerful line.

Bucknell will therefore call upon the strongest players available in her large Varsity squad to prevent defeat here Friday. This means that it will be a game for blood and well worth the price of admission. When Syracuse, N. Y., and Philadelphia newspapers unanimously declare the Academy eleven to be the best preparatory school team seen in action for many years, don't you think the fans of Bellefonte and vicinity should take the trouble to go to the two remaining home games and help cheer the "Locals" to victory. The Academy eleven deserves your financial and moral support for many reasons.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church, will give a Halloween party in the lecture room of the church, Friday evening, October 24th, from 7:30 to 10:30. The committee is working on a program which promises to be a lot of fun for all. Everybody is cordially invited to attend, and if possible, to go in costume. 41-2t

INTERESTING SESSIONS OF TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Over Three Hundred Teachers Attend Annual Gathering Here This Week.

The seventy-eighth annual session of the Centre county teachers' institute convened in the court house on Monday afternoon with almost a full attendance of the more than three hundred teachers. Rev. E. E. McKelvey led in prayer and the institute sang "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name."

In a brief opening address county superintendent David O. Etters expressed the hope that the teachers would all be kept busy during the week, and that the sessions would prove profitable to every one. In making a comparison between county institutes of former years and those of the present time Superintendent Etters stated that in the olden times institutes began with sessions somewhat similar to the present district institutes. At that time there were no paid instructors. But the institute has gone through a process of development until now it is divided into sectional divisions so that teachers may receive instruction suitable to their particular work. He also stated that county institutes may be abandoned entirely in the near future. He made an appeal to the teachers to give their individual attention to all the subjects under discussion, instead of such matters as knitting, etc.

Mr. John B. Payne made several announcements for meetings during the week and Mrs. Krader invited institute to attend the faculty play, "Come Out of the Kitchen," in the Moose Temple theatre on Tuesday evening. After a session of song Dr. C. H. Gordinier, of the Millersville State Normal school, was introduced. He took as his subject "The Mother Tongue," and began with the remark that many things he would say are not new. He gave the history of the Celtic influence on English, stating that the Norman brought to the Saxons three things necessary to the growth which came to the latter. They were the highly imaginative mind, changes that have come and should be brought to the attention of pupils—a common gender; a tendency toward regular forms, many words that had both a nominal and verbal form or use are now used in only one form; a tendency to use nouns as verbs; a tendency to use nouns as adjectives; a lot of old negatives have been cast aside, and various other changes were mentioned.

Following another musical session Miss Lulu Hill, of East St. Louis, was introduced and talked on "Tuning In." She said that talking on radio and radio machines of different sizes led up to the thought that the teacher is much like a radio machine in the reaching out qualities and receiving and broadcasting stations. Things necessary to become good radio machines are good health, physical and mental; education, in books, in individuals and surroundings; opportunity; good personal characteristics or traits. Always keep in adjustment with your surroundings. Have your feet on the ground, be well grounded, and have your mind on higher things—a good aerial. Then have a desire to "tune in" or you will never be a good "radio."

TUESDAY'S SESSIONS.

On Tuesday morning the institute divided into four sections, the rural section in the court house being presided over by E. B. Gulich. Dr. Gordinier discussed rural school problems, Miss Hill talked on reading, and Orton Lowe, of the Department of Public Instruction, devoted his time to the child mind and the English branches.

T. A. Auman presided over the primary section which was held in room 7, High school building. It was there that Miss Hill gave her preliminary talk on reading, emphasizing first the necessity of teachers creating a desire to read on the part of the child and the care that should be exercised in selecting the proper kind of reading matter. Dr. Gordinier discussed the qualifications of a primary teacher in which he told of his experiences and asserted that no one should teach who does not like the work. Dr. George E. Walk, of the Temple University, Philadelphia, also discussed reading.

The grade section was held in the High school auditorium and was presided over by Prof. A. H. Sloop, while the High school section was held in room 13 and had as its presiding officer H. O. Crain. The same instructors noted above also talked in the latter two sections.

On Tuesday afternoon institute opened with singing, and prayer by Rev. McKelvey, after which Mr. Lowe continued his discussion of the art of reading. He was followed by Dean Walk in a talk on "The Signs of the Times." He said that education must teach one to think better than ever before. The American people think too much in groups, rather than individually. The world war taught us that economy cannot be exercised in the payment of teachers. The teacher understands that her calling is second to none, and that she cannot have too much training for her work.

The most important feature of the afternoon session was an address by Mr. J. K. Johnston, of Tyrone, division superintendent of the Pennsylvania railroad, on "Government, Society and Industry—Their Rights Under the Constitution."

The very able address of Supt. Johnston might well be published in full here and would be if we had the space to give it. It was a most comprehensive and illuminating resume of the rights of government, society and industry under the constitution. Beginning with the oath of allegiance he discussed the social, political and business development of the country, from the adoption of the constitution to the present day, from angles that gave the teachers many new ideas as to the value of education, especially in government. Mr. Johnston deplored the present dearth of constructive statesmanship and said: "It is a far cry from our first American statesmen to some of the present day variety. I know of no yard-stick or instrument capable of measuring the great gulf between."

WEDNESDAY'S SESSION.

On Wednesday morning institute again divided into four sections, which no doubt afforded a better opportunity for instruction along different lines at the same time, but which rendered it impossible for one reporter to cover all at the same time.

In the primary section George A. Stearns, of the Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, was the first speaker. He suggested that teachers should try to get the viewpoint of the parents. Teachers in the earlier grades should endeavor to teach more than book knowledge. Teach the children to be true, noble and healthy. The second period was occupied by Miss Hill in telling how to interest the very young pupil, while the third period was taken up by Mr. Lowe in a further discussion of language and reading.

John B. Payne presided over the entire institute which was held in the court house on Wednesday afternoon. The first speaker was Miss Hill who, instead of talking on "The Sky Line," her original subject, used the topic "The Winding Road," in which she paid tribute to the beautiful mountain scenery of Centre county, as she saw it in a trip over Nittany mountain on Tuesday evening. She continued by describing a trip she had made to Mt. Ranier, likening the sharp bends in the road to the journey through life. Miss Hill's talk was much enjoyed by all the teachers.

Dr. Gordinier talked on "Character Education," and asked the question: Are we prepared for the opportunity that rises suddenly in the school room and on the play grounds, so that it can be applied in our moral education.

Dean W. G. Chambers, of State College, made his initial appearance before the teachers in a talk on "The New Education." He stated that the chief aim of education is Democracy. A person must specialize in order to become most successful. New education is subject to no more blame than any other new feature. We must apply the findings of a new science to modern education. The world in all its phases is a changing thing. The methods we use must be changed to suit the present occasion. Activity is most important in education.

The regular instructors continued their discussions in the various sections of institute yesterday morning while the feature of the afternoon session was an address by Hon. A. W. Johnson, of Lewisburg, on "Teaching the Constitution." The final session will be held in the court house this morning.

Master Masons, of Bellefonte, Observe Anniversary.

Members of Nittany Council, No. 57, Royal and Select Master Masons, of Bellefonte, celebrated the first anniversary of their institution in the Masonic temple, last Thursday evening. Eighty-five members of the order were present, including delegations from neighboring towns and representatives from four States. The largest delegation came from Williamsport, seventeen in number, headed by the grand principal conductor of work, S. Carbon Wolfe. Lewistown was represented by a delegation of six, including postmaster William F. Eckbert, who is also designated as the Republican Pooh bah of Millin county. On the way home their car ran over a deer just above Potters Mills, but the animal jumped up and took to the woods before they could stop the car. A small delegation from Huntingdon was in charge of A. B. Sutherland, assistant superintendent of the reformatory.

Degrees were conferred upon a class of ten novitiates, following which was an oyster supper with a program of speeches. The Bellefonte Council, which is an intermediate body between the Royal Arch Masons and Knights Templar, now has a membership of 117. Its officers are George T. Bush, Dr. S. M. Nissley and Dr. James R. Barlett.

Prominent W. C. T. U. Worker to Tour Centre County.

She will be in Bellefonte next Tuesday and speak in the Methodist church at 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Seymour was elected vice president at the annual W. C. T. U. convention in Pittsburgh last week. She was in Centre county a year ago and made so good an impression that all who heard her at that time will be anxious to hear her again.

WITMER.—Charles Oliver Witmer, for many years a well known resident of Bellefonte, passed away at his home on north Spring street at 12:30 o'clock on Sunday morning as the result of hardening of the arteries. He had been in declining health for several years and had been confined to bed fourteen weeks.

He was a son of Charles and Elizabeth Behler Witmer and was born in Union county on November 5th, 1857, hence was almost 67 years old. When a child he came with his parents to Centre county and settled on a farm in Benner township where he grew to manhood. Quitting the farm he went to work for the American Lime & Stone company, remaining there sixteen years. When the Chemical Lime company was organized he became its plant superintendent and held that position until compelled to retire a few years ago on account of failing health. He was a member of the Bellefonte Lodge of Elks and a splendid type of citizen.

About forty years ago he married Miss Mary Crozier who survives with one daughter and a son, Miss Grace and Frederick O., of Bellefonte. He also leaves six brothers and one sister, William, Calvin, Clay, Edward, Winfield and Miss Emma, all of Bellefonte, and John, of Pine Grove Mills.

He was a son of John and Lydia Moore and was born at Port Matilda on November 9th, 1886, hence was not quite 38 years old. When but fourteen years old the family moved to Philipsburg and that had been his home ever since. He was a laborer by occupation and a good citizen.

In 1913 he married Miss Esther Pilkington, of Philipsburg, who survives with three children, Mary, Betty and Billy. He also leaves three brothers and a sister, Paul, Frank and Mabel Moore, of Tyrone, and Joseph, of Philipsburg. He was a member of the United Brethren church and Rev. E. A. The Beatty Co. Window.

Window dressing is an art. As a rule small towns view little of the talent that commands such high prices in the cities when it dresses up a window so that whether they are interested or not in the articles displayed the casual pedestrian stops to look, because of the picture that appeals to him or her through the plate glass.

To us a few windows in Bellefonte have for some time had an appeal. In other words, they are continuously dressed so that when we pass these places of business invariably we stop, not particularly because we want to buy anything, but because the very artistry of the display arrests the eye and—then—creates the desire to have what is shown.

Among the well dressed windows of Bellefonte Blairs and that of the Potter-Hoy Hardware Co., are constantly outstanding.

But what we started out to write about is the window, opened Wednesday, in the Beatty Motor Co.'s place of business. In every detail, but one, it is an example of a perfect window. Of course the idea is to present the pleasure and leisure giving advantages of the Ford products on the farm. Aside from that, however, our reaction to the display is one purely of the artistry of it. The subtlety of the conception that has tried to put something over by appealing purely to the eye of the passer-by.

That was what stopped us Wednesday night. And we stopped longer than we had time to spend, merely because our interest was piqued in the carefulness with which some one in the Beatty Co. had undertaken to present a farm scene in miniature.

We have but one criticism to make of it. The barn yard is too clean of litter to be true to any type that is, though it may typify the barn yard that should be.

Seidel-Barnhart.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Willard Barnhart, on Logan street, was the scene of a pretty wedding, at ten o'clock on Wednesday morning, when their daughter, Miss Sarah Fowler Barnhart, was united in marriage to Dr. Frederick Rebmam Seidel, a son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Seidel, of Hazleton. Only the immediate members of the two families were present to witness the ceremony which was performed by Rev. E. E. McKelvey, of the Methodist church, the ring service being attended by the bride and groom. The bridegroom was Miss Elizabeth Barnhart, a sister of the bride, and John Seidel, brother of the bridegroom. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Seidel left on a motor wedding trip to eastern cities before taking up their residence in Hazleton.

The bride is a graduate of the Bellefonte High school and recently had been employed as a stenographer by W. Harrison Walker Esq. She is an accomplished young woman and has been quite popular among the younger set. The bridegroom took a four year's course at the Bellefonte Academy, where he was a star football player, then went to the University of Pittsburgh where he graduated in dentistry. Before locating at Hazleton for the practice of his profession he coached several years at Lafayette college.

Dodd-Henry.—Wilbur L. Dodd, a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Dodd, of State College, and Miss Winifred Henry, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Henry, of Graysville, were married in the Graysville Presbyterian church, on Wednesday of last week, by the pastor, Rev. Harry D. Fleming. The young couple were attended by Miss Frances Henry, a sister of the bride, and Robert Gates, of Pine Grove Mills. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Later Mr. and Mrs. Dodd left on a wedding trip east at the conclusion of which they will take up their residence in Houtzdale where the bridegroom is manager of the Candy Kitchen.

DeLong-Brady.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Holzworth, at Unionville, was the scene of a pretty wedding at noon last Saturday, when Russell W. DeLong, of Philadelphia, and Miss Frances E. Brady, of Unionville, were united in marriage by Rev. John T. Scott, pastor of the Philipsburg Presbyterian church. In addition to members of the two families quite a number of intimate friends were included among the guests. After an extended wedding trip the young couple will take up their residence in Germantown.

Henry-Breom.—Roy Henry, son of Mrs. William Henry, of the Branch, and Miss Roxie Breom, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Breom, of Struble, went to Cumberland, Md., on Monday where they were united in marriage. The bride is one of the efficient operators in the Penn State telephone exchange, at State College, while the bridegroom holds a good position in the L. D. Fye store, and it is in that place they will make their home.

Weaver-Butner.—Thomas Milton Weaver, of Howard, and Miss Lillian Ruth Butner, of Bellefonte, were married last Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Miller, on south Penn street, by Rev. E. E. McKelvey.

The home of Paul Eberhart, on Water street, was quarantined yesterday morning for diphtheria, which makes three cases now in Bellefonte. While conditions are not yet alarming it behooves everybody, especially parents, to observe the utmost care to prevent the disease becoming an epidemic.

Head Liners to Box in Philipsburg Armistice Day.

The John Ashley Dennis Post, American Legion, of Philipsburg, is planning for a celebration extraordinary on Armistice day. Not content with a parade, football game and other sports they are actually going to have Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, middle-weight champion of the world, and other noted fistic stars there for exhibition bouts.

For the main attraction in the wind-up they have secured Greb, and his opponent will be Otto Hughes, of Philadelphia, former middle-weight champion of the U. S. navy and a man who has fought his way to the top. The semi-windup will bring together two heavies—Bob Martin, champion of the A. E. F., and Ray Vaullemer, of Philadelphia. Martin has won over such men as Frank Moran, Gunboat Smith, and fought a draw with Bill Brennan. He ranks as a topnotcher among the big boys. Vaullemer is a strapping big youth who is coming along fast and will make Martin step every second of the fight.

Another bout with action spread all over it will see Dick Conlon, of Altoona, premier lightweight of this region, mixing with Pedro Campo, champion lightweight of the Philippines. Campo has been fighting in the windups at Philadelphia and has met such men as Johnny Mealey, Joe Tipplitz, Danny Kramer and Roy Mitchell. Preceding the three main bouts will be two preliminary fights between some fast featherweights.

Seats for the boxing match will be from two to five dollars and will be placed on sale in different towns in a few days. Mail orders accompanied by check or money order to the American Legion, Philipsburg, Pa., will receive prompt attention.

Mountain League Organizes.

At the local High school, on Tuesday, the Mountain Basket ball league was re-organized for the ensuing year. The following officers were elected: President, C. V. Erdley, Philipsburg; vice president, E. K. Stock, Bellefonte; secretary-treasurer, C. C. Smith, Mt. Union. The meeting was harmonious in every respect and that the Mountain League games will be more popular than ever seems a foregone conclusion. Huntingdon High was re-admitted to the League and there is a possibility that Lock Haven will also join. Other members are Philipsburg, Houtzdale, Hollidaysburg, Juniata, Mt. Union, Bellefonte and Lewistown.

Dante, the great European magician who is making his second annual tour of the United States under the management of Thurston, famous American magician, will appear at the Moose Temple theatre, Bellefonte, for one night only, Thursday, October 30th. Featured among the illusions that Dante presents is the ghost woman, the psychic phenomena of the present day. She will answer any questions asked by any one in the audience. He has also many more marvellous wonders in his repertoire, that must really be seen to be appreciated.

W. J. McFarland, acting deputy warden at the western penitentiary in Pittsburgh, has been appointed temporary deputy warden at Rockview as successor to Fred B. Healy, taking charge on Wednesday. Clarence C. Rhoads was last week appointed assistant deputy warden to succeed E. E. Davis.
