Squirrels have not been very plentiful in Centre county for some years, owing almost entirely to the cutting down of the hickory trees, the nuts of which are their favorite food. A sprinkling of the frisky little animals can still be found along the foot of the mountain ranges, but they are not plentiful enough to make hunting them good sport. Rabbits, however, are reported quite plentiful but the weather is still too warm to hunt them with any degree of satisfaction. So it will be mostly a matter of guess work as to what to hunt or where to go to find the most game tomorrow.

Students of the early history of the United States will be especially interested in the stupendous motion picture, "Sundown," which will be shown at the Moose Temple theatre, next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. It dramatizes the great virile west in its primeval days and also picturizes the passing of the cattle kings who for years reigned supreme on the broad plains of the middle west. The picture was six months in the making and 100,000 cattle are shown in one scene. "Sundown" takes rank with such pictures as "The Birth of a Nation," "The Four Horsemen," "Intolerance" and "The Covered Wagon." It is filled with romance from beginning to end and has a very appealing little love story woven through the mazes of its vast fabric. This is one of the really big First National productions that everybody ought to see.

Potato Seed Source Tests.

The potato seed source tests conducted on the farm of A. C. Kepler, near Pine Grove Mills, in co-operation with the Farm Bureau, verified the opinion of our best potato growers that it pays to buy new seed from some good source every year. First year Michigan Russetts yielded 197.37 bushels more per acre than second year seed. Along with the Russetts three sources of Cobblers seed were used, North Dakota, Maryland and Maine. The Cobblers from Maine gave an increase above the other two sources of 25.9 bushels per acre. Following is the result of the tests: Somerset Rawlieghs, 417.88 bu. per acre Potter Co. Open house at the local Y. M. C. A. last week, in celebration of the 55th anniversary of the organization, drew big crowds every day and evening; especially as institute week permitted all the children to attend. The physical department was the main attraction, especially the indoor baseball games between the grade pupils of the Bellefonte schools.

The game on Monday morning was between the 5th grades of the Allegheny and Bishop street schools, the former winning by the score of 60 to friends. 38. In the afternoon the sixth grades played, Bishop street being the victors by a score of 34 to 10. Monday evening the first games in the bowling league series were played, and as evidence of the interest already manifsted in this sport twelve teams have reported.

On Tuesday morning physical director Pandel took the younger boys on a hike down to the old ore mines where they had a weiner roast. On Wednesday morning the Bishop street seventh grade defeated the Allegheny street seventh at indoor baseball by the score of 36 to 13. By that time the girls became interested in the sport and two teams were organized with the assistance of Miss Ash. They played on Thursday afternoon and Bishop street won by the score of 45 to 36. It was the most exciting game of the week.

Nation to Observe Annual Apple brother Boyd had come up from Philadel-Week.

The week of October 31st to November 6th has been designated national Apple week, according to information received by county agent R. C. Blaney. Apple week was first started in 1913, and since that time the importance of the movement and the scope of observance has steadily increased. Recently the officers of the International Apple Shippers association formed and incorporated the National Apple Week association incorporation. W. L. Minick, of Chambersburg, is one of the officers in the group backing the new association.

Wholesalers, retail grocers, retail merchants, jobbers, railroads, steamship lines, civic organizations, boards of education, hotels and restaurants will participate in making Apple Week a success all over the country this vear.

The object of this week is to secure wider use of the apple, held as one of the most useful of fruits. It is expected that Centre county folks will join in the observance of Apple Week, and thus assist in moving Pennsylvania's big apple crop by getting their supply of the delicious fruit quickly.
