Famed Malamute Dog Seems Destined to Go

Anchorage, Alaska.—The malamute dog, for many years the famed steed of the north, apparently is destined to go.

With the coming of railroads, dog teams were driven farther into the interior. And now the prevalence of reindeer herds and the growth of the market garden and the town-lot garden have caused restrictions to be drawn around the malamute until he is coming to be classed a nuisance in the more settled parts of southern Alaska.

The malamute had his genesis in the wolves and wild dogs of the North. All fowls and quadrupeds were his common prey. But when, in more modern days, a malamute began pulling down reindeer and the live stock of farmers, he was treated as a wolf and hunted down.

Owing to the light demand for dogs, it is difficult to procure pure bred specimens south of the Yukon, and the one-time aristocrat of the Arctic is becoming mixed with the blood of so many mongrels that he has almost lost his identity.

Dog Has Bank Account; Makes Own Deposits

Chicago.—Bim Elbert, an aristocratic bulldog, earns his own cash and deposits it in the bank as a fund against the infirmities of age. So far as known, he is the only dog with a bank account in his own name.

Bim is owned by Mrs. Orel Elbert of Sheridan road and he earns his money by going about the premises and putting things in their proper places. He gets a dime for going to bed promptly, and if he whines or barks his pay is cut off. He carries baskets to and from the market and gets an extra quarter for watching the automobile. If he leaps down from the seat and plays with another dog he loses the quarter.

Once a week he takes his collection of quarters and dimes to the bank, stands in front of the receiving teller's window on his hind legs, gets his book back and trots home. His balance is $68 with no withdrawals.

Boy Salvages $180 in Discarded Refrigerator

New York.—Emulating Old Mother Hubbard, Alexander Simonetti, ten years old, saw an old icebox reposing in a vacant lot and thought he would search it for a bone for Rags, his animated and interested companion. But, unlike Mother Hubbard, he not only found one "bone" but 180 of them rolled up in a little green bundle and tied up in a rubber band. He ran around to the Simpson street station with his find as fast as his little legs would carry him and turned the bank roll over to Lieutenant Evans, who is keeping it for the owner.

Queen Lover of Cherries

The rich and ruddy cherries for which England is famous, were introduced into that country from Flanders in the year 1540. The establishment of their popularity was due in no small measure to Queen Elizabeth who had a great liking for cherries ripe. Whereby hangs the tale of Sir Francis Carew, who delayed the ripening of his cherry tree until a month after the end of the season in order that the cherries might attain maturity when her majesty stayed with him. This he accomplished by erecting a tent over the tree, and on the queen's arrival the fruit was at perfection.

Liquid Floats Stones

Of all liquids, mercury possesses the greatest specific gravity, but another has been discovered which is also so heavy that stones of all kinds—granite, limestone, quartz, etc., float in it. It is a saturated aqueous solution of tungstoborate. Its specific gravity is 3.3, whereas that of ordinary rocks does not surpass 2.7. Only a few precious stones have a specific gravity greater than that of this liquid, for which reason it is proposed to employ it for the separation of such stones from the masses of broken rock.
