A WOMAN'S VIEWS OF TRAVEL IN CHINA.

Another Interesting Letter from Mrs. W. R. North.

Dear Mother and All:

When I wrote to Berenice more than three weeks ago I fully intended to get a letter off to you the following week. Where the time has gone to I don't know. I planned when I came to the mountains to get caught up with my correspondence, but my vacation is almost half gone and I have not accomplished anything in the way of letter writing. If only there were not so many other things to take one's attention. There are thirteen families or more of foreigners here now crowded into three temples and we have a great many interruptions. Even our mornings, when we plan to spend all of our time studying Chinese, are so broken into that we feel we have accomplished nothing. But I guess we are making some progress. I am working hard every day on the first five hundred characters. We are supposed to be able to write them so as to be examined in them soon after we return to school in the fall. It's no easy task, I assure you. Sometimes I feel as though it's almost a hopeless task, but, surely some day I'll be able to write the crazy things.

Daddy, the next time you read the first ten chapters of the Gospel of John (Yohan Fuyin) think of Bill and me reading them in Chinese. It's the worst thing in the way of Language Study that I've tried to tackle yet. But it, like the five hundred characters, I also hope to get some day and I certainly hope I'll be able to retain it so that I can read it for you when I come home. I've heard of some folks being asked to repeat the Lord's Prayer in Chinese when they've been home on furlough, and being embarrassed to death because they couldn't do it. I do hope my Chinese will stay with me while I'm on furlough. I'm getting now so that I think more quickly in Chinese than in English and am often at loss for an English word when I can instantly think of a Chinese character to express my meaning.

Today the June 6th copy of the "Watchman" reached me. I was sorry to see the notice of Dr. Wilcox's death. It makes me realize how many changes will have taken place by the time we return home. We have not yet been gone a year and already many of our friends and acquaintances have died. And we've had announcements of three weddings since we reached Kwanhsien.

Your letter of May 25th reached me about three weeks ago. I hope by this time you are having some warm weather to make up for the cool spring. How I wish you could all be here with us on the mountains. The weather certainly is delightful. Here it is almost the last of July and we don't know what it is to be really warm, unless we take a trip down to Kwanhsien City or climb the mountains, and then it is the exercise which makes you warm. I'm sitting on our verandah now and there is the loveliest breeze blowing. In fact this morning when I was sitting here studying I had to put on my sweater.

Two weeks ago to-day, Miss Hutchinson, an English lady, Bill, and I took a trip to a temple located on the "Green City Mountain" (Chin Cheu San) a distance of about sixty li, or 20 miles from here. We walked the whole way and I tell you I was pretty tired when we climbed the last flight of steps up into the temple. The scenery on the mountain was beautiful, though, and the temple itself very attractive. We stayed there Thursday and Friday and made the return trip on Saturday. The accommodations for foreigners there are not very good, however. There are so many natives there worshipping, and we had our rooms right close to their quarters. The first night it was so noisy we could get very little sleep. The Chinese never seem to go to bed, for at least, that's the way it seems to us. Bill has written quite a long description of our trip to Chin Cheu San, so I won't go into detail. When we left there Saturday morning for the return trip, it was raining. But I was anxious to get back home and so we started out in the rain. It was rather slippery coming down the mountain roads, but when we reached the plain it was raining very little and walking was fine. Because I became so tired on the trip over, Bill sent for his wagaug (a seat swing between two poles and carried by two men) to meet me and carry me part way home. It net me about ten li out of Kwanhsien and I was grateful for a lift, though I was getting along pretty well. The poles weren't strong enough for my hundred and fifty pounds, though for just about three li out from Kwanhsien one pole broke and I almost went down into the ditch. We had to stop in Kwanhsien and buy new poles, which took over an hour and I was anxious to get home early. But you just can't hurry the Chinese. Part of the time when we were waiting for the pole to be changed, I sat in a little shop beside a woman who was holding a baby that was just covered with what looked like boils. I asked the woman what "bin" (sickness) the child had, and she replied "do do". Well, I didn't know any more than I did before. But afterwards I asked Miss Hutchinson about it she said it was small-pox. I had never heard small-pox called by that term. The only term I knew for it was "tieu" which means "heavenly flower."

Well, I'm expecting to develop small-pox any day, now, but I hope I won't. Changing chair poles out here is like changing tires on an automobile at home. But chair poles are a little cheaper. My new poles on my wagaug cost 1,800 cash or about 25c gold. When we reached our rooms here at the temple Saturday evening, just as it was getting dark, I felt as if I was getting back home. As inconvenient as things are here, they were more so at Chin Cheu San, and they also had more fleas over there.

Tomorrow, Mr. and Mrs. Starrer, Bill and I plan to start on another trip to visit Dr. Stubbs, an Englishman, at his bungalow about forty li from here. Where he is located there is a fine swimming and also good fishing and Bill expects to have his first opportunity to catch Chinese fish. His tackle is very crude and I doubt if he'll be able to catch anything. This trip we also expect to make on Shanks mares, but we'll take the wagaug along to be on the safe side. If it rains, of course, we won't be able to go. Nobody here ever starts out on a pleasure trip in the rain, for it's no fun at all taking a trip in the rain when you only go in the rain when you have to.

Yesterday and last night we had the hardest rains we've had since we came to the mountains. Just now the sun is shining, but it doesn't look as if it were going to stay with us very long. To-day the cook has been busy getting food ready for our trip. He has canned five pints of lovely red plums and is now making apple sauce. We are getting apples now, but they're just about the size of our crabapples at home and are not good eating raw. We either stew them or make sauce of them. I want to can enough sauce so that we'll have it next winter.

I don't know whether I mentioned in my letter to Anna or Berenice that just before we came to the mountains we unpacked a big box of foreign stores that came from Shanghai. It certainly was lots of fun and unless they're stolen while we're up here, we'll have good "eats" next winter. Among them are such things as sauer kraut, dill pickles, cheese, shrimp, oysters, chipped beef, all kinds of fruit, olives, etc. some of which I never expected to see out here in China. We're eating a small box of kraut cheese now, and I tell you we make it last a long time. In our order was also two dozen lemons, and out of the two dozen, only two were spoiled. I brought ten of them up to the mountains with me and still have two of them left. The times when we have lemonade are few and far between, but oh! it does taste good.

Yes, we have heard of the death of the Chinese delegate to the General Conference. He was a teacher in our Boys' High School at Chung King (where we will be) and Mr. Rape had planned for him to study in America before he returned to China. He has a wife and two sons in Chung King. He was rather a despondent sort of person and was not very well while he was in the States. He had decided to return to China as soon as the General Conference was over, and not stay to study. He worried a great deal about the conditions in the States (a supposedly Christian country) didn't cheer him up much. It certainly is too bad. At first, we felt that it couldn't be true. Bill met him when we stopped over in Chung King.

Well, I must close. My hand is terribly cramped, and I have much to do to get ready for our trip to-morrow. In spite of two servants to help, there is always plenty for me to do myself.

Heaps of love to you every one,
Sarah.

NOLL.—The very sudden death of Boyd A. Noll, at his home at Zion, early last Friday morning, was a distinct shock to his many friends, not only at that place but in Bellefonte and elsewhere. He had been in Bellefonte the day previous and spent the most of Friday in his store. After closing that evening he went home and was apparently in as good health as ever. When he retired for the night he had no premonition of illness but about one o'clock in the morning he roused up and complained of a pain in the side of his face. While rubbing his face he experienced a similar feeling in one arm. He started to rub the arm and almost immediately his breathing became labored and irregular and the end came within a few minutes.

Boyd Allen Noll was a son of Henry and Emeline Evey Noll and was born at Pleasant Gap on December 23rd, 1871, hence had reached the age of 53 years and one month. His schooling was received at Pleasant Gap and when but twenty-one years of age he went to Zion and embarked in the mercantile business in a small way. In the thirty-two years he had been there he built up one of the best country stores in Centre county and was universally esteemed for his honest, fair dealing with all his patrons. He was a member of the Reformed church at Zion and one of its most liberal supporters. He belonged to the Hubersburg lodge of Odd Fellows and was a stockholder in both the First National bank of Bellefonte and the Bellefonte Trust company.

He married Miss Emma Garbrick, of Zion, who survives with one son, Kermit, a student at Bucknell University. He also leaves three brothers and one sister, W. H. Jr., J. Abner and John T. Noll, all of Pleasant Gap, and Mrs. H. T. Ramsey, of Harrisburg.

His pastor, Rev. Gass, had charge of the funeral services which were held at his late home at Zion on Tuesday morning, burial being made in the Zion cemetery.

GATES.—Miss Hannah Margaret Gates passed away at 1:40 o'clock on Monday morning, at the home of Mrs. Mary Kane, at Roopsburg, in whose care she had been the past five weeks. She had been a sufferer with paralysis since December, 1923, and spent almost a year in the Centre County hospital.

A daughter of David and Mary Solt Gates she was born in Spruce Creek valley on July 25th, 1865, hence was 59 years, 6 months and 1 day old. The greater portion of her life, however, was spent at Loveville and Centre Line. For thirty-five years she was housekeeper for the late John P. Sebring, coming to Bellefonte at the time he moved here about sixteen years ago, and this had been her home ever since.

Her survivors include Charles L. Gates, of Bellefonte; Mrs. Robert C. Kustaborder, of Warriorsburg; Mrs. Hayes C. Dixon, of Johnstown; Miss Ella A. Gates, of Bellefonte; Mrs. Charles Young, of Altoona; Benner G. Gates, of Lewistown, and Earl E. of Denver, Col.

She was a member of the Methodist church, of Bellefonte, and Rev. E. E. McKelvey had charge of the funeral services which were held at the home of her brother, C. L. Gates, on Spring street, at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon, burial being made in the Union cemetery.

HAYES.—Mrs. Alice McGrath Hayes, wife of Edmund P. Hayes, passed away at the West Penn hospital, Pittsburgh, early on Sunday morning as the result of shock following an operation, for appendicitis.

She was the youngest child of Thomas and Norah McGrath and was born at Morris, Ill., where she spent the greater part of her girlhood life. She married Edmund Pruner Hayes in California, in 1913, spending a year in that State then coming east to Illinois, living at Joliet and in Chicago until Mr. Hayes was discharged from service in the world war when they located in Pittsburgh, where they have since lived. Her frequent and long visits in Bellefonte with her husband's mother, Mrs. R. G. H. Hayes, resulted in her becoming quite well known and a universal favorite among a large circle of friends. She was possessed of a charming personality and endowed with a sense of wit and humor made her a desirable acquisition in all social gatherings.

In addition to her husband she is survived by one sister and two brothers, Mrs. John Welsh, of Joliet, Ill., and John and Robert McGrath, both of Morris, Ill., all of whom were here for the funeral. The remains were brought to Bellefonte on Monday and taken to the apartment of Mrs. Hayes, in the Eagle block. She was a member of the Catholic church and funeral mass was held in the Bellefonte church at ten o'clock on Wednesday morning by Rev. Father Downes, burial being made in the Hayes lot in the Union cemetery.

RAGER.—Miles I. Rager, a native of Centre county, died quite suddenly as the result of hemorrhages, last Thursday morning, while on his way to work as janitor at the Odd Fellows' building in Altoona, where he had been employed for some time.

He was born in Milesburg on December 31st, 1847, hence was a little past seventy-seven years of age. His wife died eight years ago and his only survivor is one daughter, Mrs. E. L. Roddy, with whom he made his home. Burial was made in the Rose Hill cemetery, Altoona, on Saturday.

PRICE.—A. R. Price, an aged resident of Taylor township, died on Saturday at the home of Mrs. Catherine McGrady, following an injury sustained some weeks ago. He was ninety-one years of age and is survived by the following children: Mrs. Leonora Walk, Sidney and Wilbur Price, of Hannah Furnace; Thomas Price, of Coalport; Jesse, of Blue Ball, and Mrs. James Reese, of Julian. The funeral was held at two o'clock on Monday afternoon, burial being made in the Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

State Troopers Raid Clarence.
Last Friday afternoon a squad of three state policemen pulled off a raid at Clarence which yielded four stills, fifty-four gallons of moonshine, ten barrels of mash and a quantity of beer. The first place visited was the home of John Saffko, who was caught in the act. Mrs. John Pushella was caught in charge of a ten gallon still and Mrs. Mary Planko was operating a ten and a five gallon moonshine maker. Each one was held in one thousand dollars bail for trial at the next term of court.

PENN STATE ASKS $4,323,220 TOTAL.
Bill Presented to Legislature Monday Night to Provide Funds for Two Years.

An appropriation of $4,323,220 for the Pennsylvania State College was asked in a bill presented in the House at Harrisburg Monday night. Of this total, $3,360,932 is requested for general maintenance. $355,746 for agricultural research and $606,542 for agricultural extension, which includes the county farm agent service.

In commenting on the requests Dr. John M. Thomas, president of the college, declared that the amount is "a conservative statement of the needs of the college for the biennium 1925-27 which properly should be met by State appropriation." It is the least that the college can fairly ask for and continue its standard of service, according to college officials.

The last legislative appropriation totaled $2,168,000, and it failed to relieve conditions that showed the college to be underfinanced. As a result, it was found necessary to increase student fees in order to provide a serious curtailment of the services of the institution. President Thomas states in his report on the legislative budget, which has received the approval of the college Board of Trustees.

"It is an honest budget and contains no bit of extravagance," declares Dr. Thomas. "The faculty salary scale, an excessive teaching load, a costly rate of depreciation in the physical plant of the college and additional equipment for up-to-date instruction compose the most important items for immediate remedy. The college has exhausted the possibilities of income from its own resources. Student fees already are too high for a State institution. Increases already made have worked serious hardship upon the very class of students the college was created to serve."
