Frightful Tornado Sweeps Indiana and Illinois.

More than 1500 persons are reported killed or injured by a tornado which swept through Southern Illinois and Indiana late Wednesday afternoon causing great property damage and virtually wiping out two or three towns in its path, from Missouri to the Northwest.

Wires were down in every direction under the fury of the wind, and it was impossible to check the reported casualties.
West Frankfort, Ill., a mining town, suffered the greatest loss of life, estimates of the dead running as high as 1000.

200 PUPILS ARE VICTIMS.
Between 200 and 300 children there were said to have been killed or injured when a school house blew down.

Murphysboro, thirty miles southwest of West Frankfort, with a population of 11,000, suffered severely, with a casualty list reported as high as 250. Great havoc was wrought to buildings in that city and fire broke out in the debris. On reports of this situation, an effort was made by Governor Len Small to send troops to Murphysboro, while relief trains and Red Cross workers prepared to depart from Chicago and St. Louis for the storm area.

DEAD STREWN ABOUT STREETS.
Dead are said to be strewn about the streets of West Frankfort and blocks of buildings are in ruins. Churches and undamaged homes are said to be filled with dead and dying.

Among the other towns and cities to report damage and loss of life were De Soto, Ill., with 150 casualties reported; Parrish, Ill., with all but three of a population of 500 reported either killed or injured; Princeton, Ind., with an estimate of 100 casualties; Griffin, Ind., with 20; Gorham, Ill., with 87; Carmi, Ill., with 150, and Crossville, Bush and Hurst, Ill., reporting serious damage and numerous casualties.
