The civilization of the English-speaking race will fall, and is already beginning to fall, in accordance with mathematical law, says R. H. Towner, author of the "Philosophy of Civilization."

Mr. Towner's theory, based on historical evidence, is that the "augmentation of spiritual stature" is due to a favorable "selection of mothers," a factor which was inevitably linked with the rise of all past civilizations. He condemns the emancipation of women as destructive to a favorable selection, and refers his readers to the histories of Israel, Greece, Rome and Islam as cases in point. The author would revive marriage customs of the middle-English period when daughters were given in marriage whether they willed it or not and became "dutiful and obedient" brides, who left the building of empires to their husbands.

The home orchard is a pleasure and delight. A few trees of early, medium and late apples planted in the back yard will yield untold pleasure and delight. Think of the satisfaction of eating juicy apples in the fall and good varieties for winter use.

Mrs. Hector Griffith, of Pittsburgh, spent a few days at the Gap the past week. When the family moved to the Smoky city some time ago, they stored a portion of their household furniture, and Mrs. Griffith's trip was for the purpose of packing up the furniture and shipping it to their new home. While her visit was not a long one all her friends were glad to see her.

Two more weeks and the public schools will close their session for the year, at Pleasant Gap. It must be admitted by all that our efficient corps of teachers lived up to the requirements of the school code most studiously, and are being commended by all interested. School children should have all the comfort they want in this world, for they are entitled to it. They are the ones who are to constitute the next generation, and if we make their lives as happy as possible they will see to it that their children are made even happier, for kindness is progressive and is constantly increasing its circle of influence as time goes on.

Vast numbers of young men, who have enjoyed the advantages of a collegiate education, never get above their graduating honors. They are satisfied with their attainments and, without any special aim in life they ignore study, give the best literature a wide margin, devour light novels with a relish, sneer at the workers who earn their bread by the sweat of their brow, and finally are compelled to come to them for support. They are not made of clear stuff; they drift about at the mercy of events; some find refuge temporarily as clerks, as traveling salesmen, as reporters, as assistant teachers, but many of them are wrecked in early life because they had no star to steer by, and no strong hand upon the wheel, no ballast of general intelligence, no stout rudder on the ship.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

Few fruits will bear such large loads of luscious fruit, year after year, with so little expense and care. They are profitable fillers in apple orchards for they take up little room and come into bearing young. The fruit of sour cherries is always in demand for preserves and pies. Canneries want them and contract years ahead for entire crops of large orchards. The cherry is one of the best trees for planting in the garden. The early Richmond is a splendid early sour cherry; the best of its season. The tree is hardy, very strong, vigorous, upright grower and very productive. The man who pays some attention to the raising of cherry trees makes no mistake as he will be doubly rewarded for his trouble.

Be a Booster.

"If you live and do business in a town, for heaven's sake be loyal to it. If this town furnishes you with food and shelter, boost it; speak well of it; stand by it, and stand by the industries it represents. If put to the pinch, an ounce of loyalty is worth a ton of clever knocking. If you must vilify, condemn and eternally disparage, pack your trunk and get out, and when you are on the outside, knock to your heart's content. But as long as you
