Monday night and Tuesday's rain was one of the best we have had this summer for gardens and growing farm crops, but it put a damper on harvesting and hay making.

The new state highway through Bald Eagle valley is to be called the Bald Eagle trail when completed, which will be before the first of October, according to all reports.

The scenic continues to be the most popular motion picture show in Central Pennsylvania, as is evidenced by the crowds which attend every evening. Manager T. Clayton Brown is showing the best pictures made, selecting those which he knows will appeal to the majority of his patrons. Every program is worth seeing and if you are not a regular you are likely to miss the very pictures you would like to see.

The "Watchman" last week made mention of Mrs. Henry C. Quigley's having sold her home on east Linn street to Bent L. Weaver, and since doing so she has purchased the Fleming double house on the same street, occupied at present by her son, Hugh Quigley and wife, and H. C. Taylor and family. She will not get possession, however, until April 1st, 1926, when she will move into the side now occupied by the Taylor family.

Lewistown had a big Old Home week celebration the week of July 4th, but the committee in charge is now wrestling with a shortage in funds totaling $3,162.92. This is the general result of Old Home week celebrations. Bellefonte had one about ten years ago which was the biggest ever known in the history of the town, but after it was all over there were many unpaid bills and it is a question if all of them were ever paid in full.

Although it is less than a month since the inauguration of the night airmail service, it has already lost much of its novelty to residents of Bellefonte and vicinity, and planes come and go without attracting any special attention. Of course, when flying low, they are generally heard by somebody. Since the service was started one change has been made in the schedule. The time of the ship going east has been advanced one hour, so that instead of reaching Bellefonte at 3:30 o'clock in the morning its time is now 2:30.

The Undine Fire company is making elaborate plans for their annual picnic which will be held at Hecla park on Thursday, August 6th. This is the date originally selected by the Associated Business Men of Bellefonte for their outing, but after due consideration they decided not to hold a picnic this year and the Undine firemen promptly took the date. The latter have arranged for two league games of baseball, band concerts and a full program of sports. A good orchestra will furnish the music for dancing, afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Casebeer and daughter Betty, who recently went to California with the intention of locating permanently in Los Angeles, are returning to Bellefonte. Their fairy dreams of the Golden State have been badly shattered. In their estimation the wonderful beauty of the southern part of California exists mainly on picture postcards, but the straw that broke the camel's back was their sojourn on the Pacific slope was the earthquake at Santa Barbara several weeks ago. They left California on July 15th and have reserved a room at the Brockerhoff house where they will reside until determining upon their future location.

Pennsylvally was visited by a terrific wind storm, on Wednesday afternoon of last week, accompanied by some rain. It was especially violent in the vicinity of Farmer's Mills and Penn's Cave. Just as the storm broke, Mrs. Foster Frazier, who lives on a farm near the cave, was on her way to the barn and the wind was so strong that it broke the barn doors and blew her against one of them with sufficient force as to fracture the bones in her arm. She was brought to the Centre County hospital where an X-ray showed the bones so badly crushed that it was impossible to set them at the time owing to the swollen condition of her arm. The injured member was bandaged and she returned home, and will come back later to have the bones set.

MAN FINED FOR KILLING DOE DEER LAST WEEK.

Three Other Men Mixed Up in Unlawful Episode.

Runkle Frazier, living east of Potters Mills confessed to 'Squire Cyrus Brungard, of Centre Hall, last Friday morning, that he had unlawfully killed a doe deer the day previous and paid a fine of $100, while three other men who were mixed up in the affair, C. W. Wingard, of Coburn; F. W. Faber, of Pittsburgh, and Pat Meehan, of Patton, are under bail with a probability of appealing their cases to the Centre county court.

It appears that on Monday of last week Mr. Faber, Mr. Meehan and another man from Patton, went to Coburn on a trout fishing expedition. There they met C. W. Wingard who took them in his car down to Paddy mountain where they spent several days. When they returned to Coburn about the middle of the week one of the men returned home but Mr. Wingard took Faber and Meehan to his sawmill camp just east of Potters Mills. On Thursday afternoon they drove to the farm of Runkle Frazier to get some milk, butter and eggs, and it is alleged that one of the men expressed a desire for some fresh meat.

The three men returned to the sawmill camp and Thursday evening Mr. Frazier drove up to the camp in his car. All the men were seen bustling around the car and putting in two paper wrapped articles that had the appearance of guns. They all got in the car, drove to Potters Mills and about half a mile up the mountain road, just beyond the residence of forester William McKinney, they turned onto an old road running east from the State highway. Forester McKinney became suspicious and communicated with game protector Thomas Mosier, of Bellefonte, who made a hurried trip to Potters Mills.

Before his arrival, however, three shots were heard on the mountain in the direction taken by the four men. Mr. Mosier and Mr. McKinney took up the trail and a little over half a mile from the state highway saw Frazier's car parked on the roadway. Stepping into the underbrush they decided to await developments, and in a few minutes Mr. Frazier came down an old road leading up through a ravine and approached his car. He had his gun in his hand and proceeded to eject the shells. The game wardens stepped out and inquired the kind of game he was hunting. Mr. Frazier denied having been on a hunt but the wardens noticed bloody marks on the back of his hands. About that time Wingard came down the old road, also carrying a gun. He greeted Frazier as if they had just met, and the two of them remarked that they had better be getting home. But when they undertook to start Frazier's car it wouldn't start, and both men stepped into the woods and disappeared.

The officers then went up the old road a short distance where they found Faber and Meehan, and a few yards further on the beheaded carcass of a doe deer, with the entrails removed. The body was still warm. The officers notified Faber and Meehan that they were under arrest but allowed them to go at liberty on agreeing to appear before 'Squire Woodring, in Bellefonte, at nine o'clock on Friday morning. The carcass of the slain deer was confiscated and brought to Bellefonte, being turned over to the hospital on Friday morning.

Messrs. Faber and Meehan appeared in Bellefonte on Friday morning but in the meantime Mr. Mosier had secured warrants for the arrest of Frazier and Wingard and 'Squire Woodring decided not to hold any hearing until all parties could be present, and set ten o'clock on Saturday morning as the time. When Mr. Mosier went to serve the warrant on Mr. Frazier, however, he discovered that that gentleman had forestalled arrest by going before 'Squire Brungard, at Centre Hall, confessing to having killed the deer and paid his fine of $100.

At the hearing before 'Squire Woodring, on Saturday morning, Wingard, Faber and Meehan were charged with aiding and abetting the killing of a deer unlawfully and conspiring to conceal the crime. After hearing all the evidence the justice imposed a fine of $100 and costs on each, but all three gave notice of appeal and have bond. They have five days in which to appeal or settle the case.

H. C. Yeager Confesses to Voluntary Bankruptcy.

H. C. Yeager, proprietor of Yeager's shoe store in the Bush Arcade, confessed to voluntary bankruptcy on Saturday night and closed his store. One of the reasons given was his inability to meet his obligation for an unusually heavy purchase of rubber shoes and boots for last winter's use, and the season being none of the best for such footwear, a good part of his stock was left on his hands. Mr. Yeager has been in the shoe business for twenty-five years, or longer, and conducted the only store of its kind in the down town district of Bellefonte.

Members of St. John's Episcopal church, of Bellefonte, received word during the week that Rev. J. Thomas Heistand, of York, Pa., has been obliged to reconsider his decision to become their rector. His present congregation at York refused to release him and presented material arguments which induced him to decide to stay there. The local congregation will now have to resume their work of hunting a new rector.

Capt. W. H. Fry Remembered on 82nd Anniversary.

For so many years that the writer is unable to recall the exact number the weekly letter of Capt. W. H. Fry from Pine Grove Mills and vicinity has been an integral part of the contents of the "Watchman." That his writings have been appreciated by everybody in the west end, or those who have moved from there to other parts is an undeniable fact, and today his contributions continue just as snappy and full of life as ever, notwithstanding the fact that he was eighty-two years old last Saturday.

Four score and two years and members of his family gave him a surprise birthday party that day at his farm home at Rock Springs. All his children within reach were present, with grand-children and great grand-children, and while the Captain had his ear to the ground and sort of smelled what was going to happen he feigned the greatest surprise when his children and host of close personal friends to the number of one hundred or more invaded the home.

Of course they all arrived with baskets laden to bursting with good things to eat and if there is anything that can give the Captain a solar plexus it is eats. He is right at home there and always makes a full hand at a well spread table. But he was also richly remembered with numerous gifts, postcards, telephone calls of congratulation, among the latter being a long distance call from his son William, at Tacoma, Washington. All in all, it was a most delightful event for all, and especially for Capt. Fry. May he live to be a hundred.

Wanted! A Good Man for Burgess.

The candidacy of W. Harrison Walker for the nomination for judge of the courts of Centre county naturally takes him out of the running for the office of Burgess of Bellefonte, and so far no candidates have loomed upon the horizon for this important borough office. In fact nobody seems to crave the office, especially as the Burgess of Bellefonte draws no salary. He is paid in the honor he gets out of the position, which is more than offset by the condemnation he receives if he fails to size up to the ideals of every man, woman and child.

Several men have been spoken of as available timber for Burgess but all seem unwilling to accept the honor. The time is at hand for the filing of nominating petitions and there ought to be somebody in Bellefonte willing to serve the dear people in this honorable capacity.

Shortest Route to Pittsburgh.

James R. Hughes, headmaster of the Bellefonte Academy, recently returned from a motor trip to Pittsburgh and has made the wonderful discovery that it is possible to drive from Bellefonte to the Smoky city over a route very little more than 150 miles, whereas the customary route of travel is 185 miles. This has been made possible through the construction of a number of new sections of concrete roadway connecting state highways. The route as given by Mr. Hughes for the benefit of auto tourists is from Bellefonte by way of the Buffalo Run valley to Tyrone; thence to Greenwood, near Altoona, Hollidaysburg, Cresson, Ebensburg, Blairsville, New Alexandria, Greensburg, Jeannette, Trafford, East Pittsburgh, Wilkensburg, and Pittsburgh. Coming east the traveler can reverse the above list of towns.

Col. Boal Goes to Mt. Gretna.

Col. Theodore Davis Boal, of Boalsburg, went to Mt. Gretna, on Monday, to attend the annual encampment of National Guard troops being held there. Col. Boal is division finance officer and in that capacity his presence is required at the encampment during the two weeks the soldiers are at Mt. Gretna. Col. Boal's experience as a soldier dates back to 1916 when he organized and equipped the Boal troop for service on the Mexican border, the organization later being taken over by the War Department. The troop also went to France where Col. Boal served as an aide on the staff of Major General Charles H. Muir. Ever since the war he has taken a deep interest in the National Guard and his home at Boalsburg is always surrounded with a military atmosphere.

Land Owners May Kill Destructive Deer.

Under a ruling, effective July 13th, the Board of Game Commissioners directed that land-owners and lessees in certain counties of the State may kill deer that are damaging their crops. Centre county is in the permitted area.

Land owners, lessees and their employees hired on a monthly or annual basis may kill a deer and retain the carcass, if the animal is known to be damaging growing crops or fruit trees. It can be done, however, only by persons whose lands are open to public hunting and should be done only after consultation with the local game protector as to the advisability of killing.

The Pennsylvania railroad track gang has effectually destroyed the big crop of weeds on the company's property, southeast of the passenger depot, in this place. The weeds were cut and burned, the ground leveled then covered with from six to eight inches of limestone screenings. The ground between the east track and the station platform was also filled up with screenings.

Arrested for Dynamiting Spring Creek.

At various times during the trout fishing season fishermen who observe the law have been obsessed with the idea that some person was dynamiting Spring creek, and communicating their belief to fish wardens the latter put a watch on the creek. It will be recalled that three Bellefonte men were arrested late in June on the charge of placing dynamite in the stream and all plead guilty and are paying their fines and costs on the installment plan.

On or about June 22nd fish wardens discovered three men up Spring creek, who undoubtedly had been using dynamite, but they saw the officers in time to make their escape by automobile. The wardens, however, got some very tangible evidence as to the identity of the men and on Monday John Schmittle, of Glasgow, was arrested. He plead guilty to the charge and agreed to pay his fine and costs in bi-weekly installments. On Tuesday Mr. Haffley, of the Department of Forests and Waters, at Harrisburg, with fish warden Sperring, of Lock Haven, and sheriff E. R. Taylor went to Glasgow and arrested Ray Reynolds and Oscar Dickson, on the charge of being the two men who were with Schmittle on June 22nd.

Both men protested their innocence of the charge on which they were arrested but they were brought to Bellefonte and put up cash bail for their appearance before justice of the peace S. Kline Woodring for a further hearing yesterday afternoon, but the "Watchman" went to press before the hearing was held.

Schmittle, who plead guilty to the charge, showed from his talk considerable familiarity with the best trout streams in Centre, Clinton and Lycoming counties, information that he could have obtained in no other way than by frequent visits to the streams in question.

Gypsies Rob Man at Beech Creek.

Two automobile loads of gypsies invaded Beech Creek, Thursday of last week, and several of the women made a call at the Beech Creek State bank. After they had departed a resident of that town discovered that his pocket had been picked and a roll of money amounting to $100 was missing. It is also stated that the bank missed about $40 in silver and change. Officers were promptly notified but up to last reports they had not succeeded in getting any trace of the gypsy autoists.
