All will be welcome at these services.

Clayton Brown for exhibition at the Scenic as soon as possible following their release. Wednesday and Tuesday of last week Miss Irene Gross entertained Miss Noonan at the Potter-Hoy camp, near Curtin.

—Twenty-six farmers and truck growers were represented at the Bellefonte curb market, last Saturday, and in that number there were only three horse-drawn vehicles, all the other conveyances being trucks and automobiles. Lined up at the curb were farmers from as far down Pennsylvania as Aaronsburg, from near Rebersburg, in Brush valley, from Nittany valley and below Howard in Bald Eagle valley, from Buffalo Run valley and State College. Every kind of produce in season was offered for sale and there was so much of it that Bellefonte couldn't absorb it all by any means.

NITTANY MOUNTAIN ROAD WILL BE OPEN FOR THE GRANGE PICNIC.

Contractor Reitz will Keep It in Shape for Traffic During Entire Week.

The one anticipated obstacle to the Grange fair and encampment to be held at Grange park, Centre Hall, next week has been removed. The fear that the road over Nittany mountain would be impassable and that traffic would have to be diverted by way of Linden Hall is now a thing of the past. Realizing that hundreds of people cross the mountain daily in going to and from the picnic contractor Joseph Reitz, who is in charge of the construction work of the state highway from the watering trough to Pleasant Gap, has announced that beginning this (Friday) evening the road will be thrown open to traffic and will be kept clear until Saturday morning, September 5th. This does not mean that the road construction crew will be withdrawn from the job, as such will not be the case. Their work will be confined to making fills and widening the roadway on this side of the mountain, which can be done without impeding traffic. Automobiles going to the picnic from this side of the mountain, therefore, can take the direct road and not the detour, as heretofore.

One of the main attractions at the picnic this year will be the Wayne county boys' band, which made such a hit at the State farm products show at Harrisburg last winter. It will be there during the week and give frequent concerts on the grounds.

Tent holders will be interested in knowing that the committee in charge has purchased seventy-five cots, with mattresses, which can be secured by any person desiring same at the small charge of one dollar for the week.

The grounds will be open to tent holders tomorrow, and tomorrow evening there will be a band concert and play in the auditorium. Rev. J. Max Kirkpatrick will preach the sermon at the Harvest Home services on the grounds at two o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

A full program has been arranged for the entire week and while there will be no set political days, with political stump speakers, any and all candidates will be just as welcome at the picnic as every other citizen. It is the one week in the year when members of the Grange have an opportunity to get together, and it is only natural that the principal speakers will be officials in that organization. But the public is invited to attend and enjoy the gathering.

Those Improvements to Bellefonte's Big Spring.

Every day as the improvements at Bellefonte's big spring progress further toward completion, can be heard expressions of approval of the work from many residents of the town, property owners who will naturally pay their share toward stabilizing and beautifying the town's water supply. In addition to this interest on the part of our home people are the many commendatory remarks passed by strangers visiting in town and the auto tourists who stop just to see the trout and the big spring. They are unanimous in complimenting the borough officials on their enterprise in making of the spring a place of beauty as well as utility.

As the work progresses a better idea can be had as to how the surroundings will look when all the improvements are completed. And the interior of the new pump house will be arranged in keeping with its surroundings. In the northeast corner will be located the lock-up, so called, but which might better be termed a lodging place for homeless wayfarers, as the town these days has little need of a lock-up. In the southeast corner will be a comfortable and conveniently equipped office for use of the borough manager and possibly a chair and desk for Burgess Hard P. Harris if occasion ever arises when he is compelled to hold police court. Whether it will be made headquarters for the police has not yet been determined.

The walls which will surround the spring and pump house will be surmounted by an ornamental iron fence and lamps will be installed on the five stone posts to be erected along the Water street front. A drinking fountain will be erected on Water street, outside the fence and an ornamental fountain placed in the small park on the plot of ground purchased from the Bellefonte Lumber company. From this it can be seen that when the improvements are completed the spring and its surroundings will be a credit to the town.

State Police Raid Finklestine's Pool Room.

Shortly after seven o'clock last Thursday evening, two state policemen made a raid on the cigar store and pool room of David Finklestine, in the Bush arcade, confiscating punch boards and a quantity of candy used in search in connection with the boards. A seizure of the room also uncovered a quart bottle of "white mule" and a pint bottle of blended moonshine. Mr. Finklestine and his clerk, Ralph E. Edmiston, were placed under arrest, the former being held under $1,000 bail on the charge of illegal possession of liquor and an additional $300 for operating gambling devices. No information was made against Mr. Edmiston.

Dr. Young Hanged Himself with Radio Wire.

A telegram received yesterday just as the "Watchman" was going to press announced that Dr. Thomas W. Young, dentist, of Los Angeles, Cal., on trial for the murder of his wife, had committed suicide by hanging himself in his cell yesterday morning with a radio wire. Dr. Young was a son of Rev. T. W. Young, former chaplain of the Rockview penitentiary, and several years ago spent a few days with his parents in Bellefonte. His suicide will naturally bring to an end the sensational trial which has been in progress in Los Angeles the past ten days or two weeks.

Ray Noll Prospecting for Minerals at Pleasant Gap.

"And in six days the Lord made Heaven and Earth and all that is therein," and left it to man to discover what it contained. Geologists have presented irrefutable evidence that the earth in its original shape was vastly different from what it is now. Earthquakes, volcanic eruptions and unknown convulsions changed the entire face of the map and in so doing may have buried countless treasures beneath the many mountain ranges scattered hither and yon throughout the world. Many of these priceless stores have been tapped and their wealth made to contribute to man's uses but it is altogether possible that the fountainhead has never been uncovered.

A year or more ago Ray Noll did a little prospecting on his farm at Pleasant Gap, (the old A. V. Miller farm), and while he failed to uncover anything of value he did succeed in laying open the geological formation to a depth of fifty feet. The shaft and the formation have been examined by a dozen experts, among them coal mining engineers, and they have all expressed the belief that coal or valuable minerals of some kind, possibly lead or zinc, underlie his land.

Acting upon the reports of the experts he has secured the services of an expert diamond driller who started work on Tuesday morning putting down a test hole. Preparations have been made to go down five hundred feet, if necessary, to determine if any minerals of consequence underlie the ground. The showing of the first hole put down will determine the extent to which the drilling will be pursued.

It will be recalled that a year or so ago Harry Breen did some prospecting on land he owns at the foot of Nittany mountain in the belief that he was on the trace of a deposit of coal, but his prospecting was confined to the work he was able to do himself and did not uncover anything of value.

Centre County Veterans at Grange Park Next Wednesday.

The annual reunion of the Centre county veteran club will be held at Grange park, Centre Hall, on Wednesday of next week, and naturally the committee in charge is desirous of having present every veteran of the Civil war who can possibly arrange to get there.

Looking backward the writer can easily recall the day when the annual reunion of the Veteran club was considered the biggest event of the year in Centre county. Those were the days before the advent of the automobile and horse drawn vehicles were the only means of travel in rural communities, yet people from twenty to thirty miles attended the gathering. Of course old soldiers were plentiful in those days and almost a regiment could have been mustered into line at the reunion, while the total crowd numbered several thousand people.

At the reunion last year just thirty-three veterans were present and of that number four responded to the last roll call during the year. They were George Cox and James Reed, of Bellefonte; Capt. George M. Boal, of Centre Hall, and Charles Smith, of Pine Grove Mills. They were all regulars at every reunion, but their places will be vacant next week.

Saul Meyers Injured by Falling Pole.

Mr. Saul Meyers, an employee of the Keystone Power corporation has been a patient in the Centre County hospital since last Thursday recovering from injuries sustained when a pole on which he was releasing the wires broke off and fell to the ground. Because of the change being made in the pavement at the spring on south Water street it was necessary to remove the big pole which stood inside the curb opposite the spring. A gang of men went to work, last Thursday afternoon, to remove the pole, and in doing so it was necessary first to transfer the wires to a pole on the opposite side of the street.

The men knew the pole was affected with dry rot and had braced it on all sides with pike poles. Mr. Meyers was at the top of the pole taking off the wires when one of the pike poles slipped, the big pole broke off at the top of the ground and fell with a crash into the street. Fortunately Mr. Meyers was on top instead of under when the pole landed in the street, but at that he had a number of front teeth knocked out, suffered numerous bruises and a severe shock, and was injured internally. But he is recovering nicely and hopes to be out of the hospital in a few days.

Bellefonte Public Schools will Open Next Monday.

The Bellefonte public schools will open next Monday and the attendance in the grades will probably show a slight increase over last year. The High school will be up to capacity limit, as the number of applications from outlying districts is unusually large. The purchase of the Dale property on the east side of Allegheny street and remodeling it into a school building for the first and second grades enabled the board to make a number of advantageous changes in the High school building which will give considerably more room to the High school and upper grade students.

As to the remodeled building for the primary grades, the finishing touches are now being put on and the benches put in place. The latter, by the way are the same desks that were in the old stone building. They were taken out to the planing mill and resurfaced, are now being rubbed and varnished and will be just as good as new. The wet tots in the primary department will occupy the first floor room in the Dale building and the second grade will be on the second floor. Each floor has its own cloak room, book closets, separate toilets for the boys and girls, sanitary drinking fountains and everything necessary for the comfort and convenience of the children. The grounds have been graded, rolled and planted in grass and the small children will thus have their own playground.

The schools will start off with a full corps of teachers. Following the election of teachers in July there was one resignation, that of Miss Louetta Shyrock, who decided to get married instead of teaching, but her place was soon filled by the election of Miss Esther Schofield, of South Fork, who will be in charge of the fifth grade. Superintendent A. H. Sloop, with several of the teachers, has been busy as can be this week getting everything in readiness for the opening of school on Monday. Hundreds of replacement books are being distributed to the various rooms, and considerable painting having been done the janitors have given the building a general cleaning from top to bottom.

In connection with the opening of the schools Supt. Sloop calls attention to the fact that all children must be vaccinated; which means that every pupil will have to present a certificate of successful vaccination within the past seven years. This is important.

Why Not You, Too?

Douglas Fairbanks firmly believes that if the principle he employs in doing his so-called "stunts" is applied to every day problems of life, the result will be unconditional victory. When about to perform an athletic feat "Doug" resorts to dynamies. First he makes a mental picture of the hazard, then he arouses himself to an emotional and spiritual pitch that will stimulate the necessary physical strength and vitality to make victory his reward. "But," he cautions, "a man's physical condition must be such that his muscles have the strength to respond when called upon."

What Douglas Fairbanks finds necessary in his work is true of every one who would make the most of life. A well balanced use of spare time—in fun and friendship, study to increase earning power, recreation for physical fitness, and fellowship for culture, refinement, and the development of spiritual dynamic—is the natural desire of every young man.

The opportunity "Doug" finds in his membership in the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A. awaits you, too, at the Bellefonte "Y." Inquire immediately about the privileges a membership will give you.
