In 1878 she married Mr. Stine and the greater part of their married life was spent at Scotia, Centre county. It was while living there in 1913 that Mr. Stine died and a number of years later Mrs. Stine and family moved to Tyrone.

Olden-Time Residents Picnic at Scotia. Last Saturday was a big day for W. H. Ghaner who, with his family, is about all that is left of the one-time thriving village of Scotia, in the Barrens of Patton township. It was the occasion of the annual reunion of the olden-time residents and from far and near they journeyed to the deserted ore mines to mingle with the ghost of the departed glory of the town that had been their home when the mines were operated by Andrew Carnegie, gathered to his fathers some years ago, and Dan Clemson was the company blacksmith.

Men and women, with their children and grand-children, and accompanied by many friends came there from every direction, over one thousand people fraternizing on the site of the deserted town. The Citizens band, of Ferguson township, brought musical echoes from the surrounding wooded hillsides with their frequent renditions of popular selections. Among the old-timers were Andrew Daugherty, of Altoona, who was one of the principal stand-bys of the Carnegie company; A. L. Bennett, of New Jersey, and Will Brown, of Huntingdon, Dr. S. G. Coons, came over from Dry Run, Bedford county, to take another look over the place where he formerly peddled pills, and Rev. Ray Williams, who now fills the pulpit of the Methodist church at Bedford, was on hand to give the address of welcome. A splendid talk was also made by Rev. William Young, of Montgomery.

Following the big dinner the crowd was entertained with a ball game by the State College and Hecla Park teams of the Centre County league. To arrange for next year's reunion the following committee was appointed: W. H. Ghaner, Scotia; J. A. Williams, Altoona; F. L. Fields, Bellwood; B. H. Parsons, State College, and Harry M. Murtorff, Bellefonte.

Fish Eat Fish Was Proven Last Thursday. Quite a crowd of people stood on the pavement opposite the City laundry, on north Water street, last Thursday afternoon, and watched a trout swallow a sucker half its own size. At least so it looked to those who saw the beginning of the cannibalistic feat. In appearance the trout was about twenty inches in length and the sucker ten, the latter being as big around as an ordinary man's wrist. The trout took him head first and it was a comparatively easy matter until he got him about half down, and from that on it was a struggle. But the trout was game and completed the job, although it took about an hour to complete his meal.

The trout was of the California, or brown species, and watching it get away with that sucker last Thursday we naturally concluded that small fish have little chance for existence in a stream so thickly populated with big trout as is Spring creek within the limits of Bellefonte. More Changes. James Craig has leased the apartment in the Kurtz home on High street, which Mrs. Decker and the John Smith family will vacate to go to the Cadillac apartments, moving his family there from the Shugert house on Linn street. The Deckers and Smiths will take the apartment which the Bud Eckenroth family will leave to go to the Kalin house on south Spring street, vacated by the Forrest Ocker family, who have already moved to State College.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Casebeer have rented the Daggett home on east Linn street, intending to go there from the Brockerhoff house the first of October. Their lease is for the winter only, as Mrs. Daggett expects to return to Bellefonte the first of April. J. Claude Dawson, of Philadelphia, who is visiting here with his mother, Mrs. Harvey S. Griffith, sang during the week before very appreciative audiences at the Kiwanian dinner, Tuesday, before the schools at the High school building, and at the Scenic theatre, Wednesday evening. Mr. Dawson has an unusually rich baritone voice and sang with a poise and style showing both good training and an artistic temperament. His church and other public singing in Philadelphia for several years, has been done merely as a pastime.

Mr. and Mrs. John LaPorte Given have announced the marriage of their daughter, Sarah Isabel, to Mr. James Breckenridge Waller. The ceremony was performed at the Given summer home at Manchester, Vt., on Tuesday, September 1.

Many Tenters at Grange Fair and Encampment. Every tent at the Grange fair and encampment at Grange park, Centre Hall, is occupied, principally by farmers of Centre county and their families who are spending the week at the park. The fair opened on Saturday and so far as exhibits, etc., are concerned has been up to its reputation of former years. Outside of the campers the attendance has not been up to standard, accounted for in a measure by the condition of the road over the mountain which, though open for travel, is naturally not in the best condition.

The fact that all the speakers advertised for the week were men and women prominent in the Grange confined the interest mainly to members of that organization and may have had the effect of attracting less interest among the public in general. But the farmers couldn't have had finer weather than they have had during the week. The encampment will close today. Following is a complete list of the tenters on the grounds: Centre Hall.—Jacob Sharer, D. K. Keller, D. L. Bartges, Geo. Gingerick, A. H. Spayd, Clyde Dutrow, I. M. Arney, V. A. Anzman, Mc D. The driver, Glenn Tressler, son of Wesley Tressler, of Linden Hall, last Thursday afternoon. Mr. Weaver had gone to the post-office at Centre Hall to get his mail and it so happened that the street at that place was packed full of cars. Intending to go across the street Mr. Weaver walked out between two cars, and intently reading his mail stepped right in front of the car driven by Mr. Tressler. He was knocked down and run over, dying within two hours. He was 59 years old and is survived by his second wife but no children. Rev. President John M. Thomas Left State College on Saturday. After four years as the guiding hand at the helm of The Pennsylvania State College, Dr. John M. Thomas cleared his desk on Saturday and quietly and without ceremony left for his new field of labor as president of Rutgers University, at New Brunswick, N. J. Before leaving Dr. Thomas put the finishing touches to his annual report to the board of trustees, which will be published as usual later in the year.

A committee of the board of trustees of the College composed of Judge H. Walton Mitchell, president, of Pittsburgh; Vance C. McCormick, of Harrisburg; John F. Shields, of Philadelphia; W. S. Wise, of Meadville, and J. L. Hamill, of Columbus, Ohio, charged with the duty of selecting a new president for the College, held a meeting at the institution on Friday and consulted with Dr. Thomas relative to the type of man needed to carry on the work at Penn State at its present stage of development. The committee, however, gave no indications of having in view the kind of man desired and it may be months before a new president is selected. In the meantime the administrative work of the College will be in the hands of a committee composed of Judge Mitchell, Dean R. L. Watts, Dean R. L. Sackett and Dean C. W. Stoddart, with Ray H. Smith, the college comptroller, as secretary. The College will open its seventy-first year on Wednesday, September 16th, and registrar W. S. Hoffman has announced that the quota of nine hundred admissions in the Freshman class has been filled. This is one hundred less than admitted last year, the reduction being compulsory because of a larger percentage of upper classmen returning to College this year than ever before. All told the attendance will be in the neighborhood of 3,500, according to the figures of the registrar. All Freshmen have been requested to report at the College by September 9th, a week in advance of the opening day.

He was 35 years old and unmarried, but is survived by his parents and a number of brothers and sisters.
