PLEASANT GAP.

A beautiful form is often deemed more desirable than a handsome face.

William A. Weaver just returned from a visit to Uniontown and Scottsdale.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Sholl, of Bellefonte, spent Sunday at the Edward Mulfinger home.

Mrs. Harry Lohman was favored with a week's visit from her mother, Mrs. Clemens, of Berwick.

Mr. and Mrs. Crumlish and son Billie have just returned from a week's visit at Asbury Park, N. J.

Miss Virgie Markle and Bobby are visiting in Philadelphia. They are guests of the former's sister, Mrs. N. O. Patton.

Harry Rimmey and family left a few days ago for their home in Olean, N. Y., after spending two weeks with his father.

Accountant Paul Keller, wife and daughter, after spending a week at the Gap, returned to their home in Philadelphia.

Mrs. L. Fry was tendered a farewell party Tuesday evening, by the members of her Sunday school class. The affair was greatly enjoyed by all present.

Our esteemed pedagogue, Miss Mary Hile, entered Lock Haven Normal on Monday. Mary is right in her ambitions, since "intelligence is the life of liberty."

David Keller, of Philadelphia, has returned to his home after spending a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ephriam Keller, and numerous other friends here.

The family of George Gettig was favored with a visit in the person of Albert Griffith, of Pittsburgh, who spent two weeks very agreeably at the Gettig home.

Master Samuel Noll was reported sick the past two weeks, but the plucky youngster mustered up sufficient courage to follow the crowd to the opening of school on Monday.

We had quite a refreshing shower on Sunday last, which will recuperate garden vegetables somewhat, but it came too late to make much impression as our gardens are almost down and out.

The family of Samuel Weaver, including his daughter, accompanied by Mrs. H. S. Brooks, of Spring Mills, spent Saturday and Sunday at the Pleasant Gap hunting camp, located in the Seven mountains.

Miss Jean Noll, who will graduate from one of the leading hospitals in Philadelphia, as nurse, January next, returned to Philadelphia a few days ago to finish her course. We regret to say that the young lady in question, anticipates making Philadelphia her future home instead of returning here to her many admiring friends. Miss Jean is a born nurse and no matter where she locates she is bound to reach the topmost rung of the ladder of her chosen profession.

Earl Rimmey, wife and son Keith, accompanied by David Rimmey, motored to Altoona on Sunday last and brought Mrs. Annie Roush and son Tommy to the David Rimmey home, where they expect to remain for a two week's vacation. Mrs. Roush is better known here as the former Miss Anna Rimmey. She says they are getting along very nicely in their new home in Altoona, but she regards it as a great pleasure to occasionally mingle with her many old-time friends at the Gap.

Gentlemen should give way to the ladies in all things; woman is the queen of the world, and man is her humble subject. There is a reason for this, as is readily apparent if men will stop to think a moment. Women are the mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of men, and they should command the respect due them by virtue of their exalted station. Man is the natural protector by reason of his superior physical strength, and it is his man's duty to see that woman is protected at all times from harm of any kind.

It is the emotion implanted in a gifted man that inspires him with a wish to communicate his thoughts and feelings to others; to teach them piety; clean keeping of all laws. The fairest and best specimens of humanity, the individuals who do something worthy of commendation and lasting fame, are not always found in the palaces. They are not all born in the purple. There are kingly men and queenly women, not dependent upon the banker, the clothesmaker, or the universities for their diplomas of distinction. To be a truly great man is to be a good man.

Our schools opened in very good shape, on Monday morning. The attendance for the first day was encouragingly large. Prof. Baird was re-elected principal of our High school, which means assured success for that growing institution, while Harry Breon very wisely succeeds himself in the grammar school. Comment as to Harry's qualifications is not necessary, he being one of the old veterans and one of the most successful teachers in the county. We have every reason to believe that the balance of our schools will succeed admirably well since our school board filled all with proficient instructors.

In shaking hands, be cordial. Do not extend a finger or two, as this is an insult. Men should not press the hands of ladies, nor should they crush the hands of their male companions. Casual acquaintances need not shake hands. Salutations or greetings should not be extensive; "good morning," or "good afternoon," will suffice, with a short query as to health. Women who kiss each other on the street render themselves ridiculous; they should never kiss a male relative in public. Calls of ceremony should not be lengthy—fifteen minutes should suffice. If you prolong your stay you are apt to weary your hostess, who may, without risk of offence, indicate her desire for your departure, in which case you might suffer humiliation. It is better to depart regretted than to leave a feeling of relief behind, and if one gets the reputation of being a bore by reason of lengthened visits it will stick to him forever. When you leave, do so gracefully; do not hesitate, yet beware of abruptness.

Restoring Robert E. Lee's Home.

It would be a gracious act for the Congress of the United States to approve the request of the War Department for the restoration of Robert E. Lee's home, in Arlington National cemetery, across the Potomac river from Washington.

The old mansion remains a shrine of romance, stirring memories of a great soldier and a gallant gentleman. What a pity if prejudice should prevent a chivalrous gesture to the spirit of chivalry itself.

Laugh It Off, Brother.

Secretary Hoover has been asked to stop all radio transmission, because it is believed to be affecting weather conditions, particularly in the south.

The writer, a citizen of Mississippi, asks if it is not possible that we are disturbing the structure of the atmosphere by means of radio transmissions. It is apparently agreed, he points out, that matter is simply electrons in its final analysis. We are sending endless streams of these particles into the upper strata of the air of the day period, which may change the polarity of the earth and air, he states. Much matter broadcast is not essential, he asserts, citing prohibition and evolution doctrines and reports. Adding that what we do need is water for at least half a crop. He believes we could dispense with the nightly screech and scratch until it could be determined whether or not we are disturbing moisture conditions.

Rare American Stamps.

The first official use of postage stamps was sanctioned by an Act of Congress of March, 1847. On July 1, 1847, the first stamps were issued. They were a 5-cent and a 10-cent stamp. The 5-cent stamp bore the likeness of Franklin, while the 10-cent stamp bore the portrait of Washington from Stuart's painting. Professional stamps were issued prior to 1847 and were used by postmasters at some of the larger offices. They consisted of an impression placed upon letters with impressions such as "paid 5c," the name of the office, etc. These stamps are very rare and are among the most valuable known.

All's Well.

This was after the lovers' quarrel. "I can never forgive you," he cried. "Last night you said I was a lobster."

"But my dear," she replied, coyly, "you must remember how crazy I am about lobster."

With a glad cry he folded her to his heart.

A Mining Problem.

A youth began work in a mine, and his first job consisted of driving one of the pony wagons used for carrying the coal to the elevator.

He got along very well indeed until one day he came to a place where the roof of the "gallery" was far too low to allow the pony to pass. Consequently, he took a pick and commenced to hack away part of the roof.

Immediately a foreman came on the scene and asked what he was doing. The lad explained that he was making a way for the pony to pass.

"Now, that's a very dangerous thing to do," said the foreman. "You might bring the whole roof down. What you ought to do is to cut away the floor."

"D'ye think I'm a fool?" retorted the lad. "It's the pony's head that won't go through—not his feet."
