Pennsylvania Has Fewer Telephones than Sister States.

For the first time since 1915 the Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania has started to advertise for new subscribers. Within that time the number of telephones in this State has practically doubled, and the manufacturing and installation forces of the Bell system have, for the most part, been kept busy keeping pace with this growth.
Although this increase is continuing and the first eight months of this year showed a net increase of 15,555 in the number of Bell telephones in the State, officials of the company believe that telephone development in Pennsylvania is still below what it should be.
There are in this State but 13.1 telephones for every 100 population. New York State has 18.7 for every 100 persons, and Ohio, another adjoining State has 16.4. Iowa leads the list with 22.4 for every 100 persons, Illinois has 20.4 and Massachusetts 19.2. For Maryland, including the District of Columbia, the figure is 14.7, while the New Jersey figure is 13.0 and that of Delaware is 11.1.
The average for the United States is 14.1 telephones per 100 population. In the list of the 48 States Pennsylvania and New Jersey stand twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth respectively. During the next few months a vigorous effort is to be made to bring the two latter States into the "first division," which would mean a development of about 14.5 telephones per 100 persons.

The famous Dailey Brothers, acrobats, Charline and Hamilton, novelty performers, and Al Nuttle, musical clown, together with the Evangelical Orphans' band for Wednesday, Lewisburg band for Thursday and Selinsgrove band for Friday have been engaged to furnish attractions and variety for grandstanders.
There is a special new building exclusively for educational exhibits, while on Friday 5,000 school children will be admitted free. The State's exhibit of native wild animals will also be a feature.

Sparks Library Grows.
More than 500 volumes were added during the summer to the Edwin Erle Sparks Memorial Library of American History at The Pennsylvania State College. The memorial was started last year by students who contributed $5,000 towards its establishment and endowment. Students are already reaping benefits as there are many valuable reference volumes in the collection. Alumni and faculty members are also contributing funds and volumes to the rapidly growing collection.
