Will A. Wagner and John F. Kimport motored to Elmira, N. Y., the latter part of the week to visit Samuel E. Kimport, who was recently discharged from the hospital and is now much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Aikens took their little daughter to the Geisinger hospital on Saturday. She has been suffering for some months with hip trouble and a specialist from Philadelphia came up to perform an operation.

The three joyous days of Chautauqua held here during the week were voted the best in twelve years. One of the best talks was that given by Dr. George P. Bible, of Bellefonte. Forty-four guarantors signed up to have a return date next year.

A surprise birthday party was held last Thursday at the home of A. Stine Walker in honor of that gentleman's 79th birthday anniversary. Stine had no knowledge of the event and the guests, about fifty in number, caught him clad in overalls and jumper, sitting behind the stove reading the daily paper. But a little thing like that doesn't ruffle him and he promptly entered into the spirit of the occasion.

Of course a sumptuous feast followed and Mr. Walker received numerous gifts and messages of congratulation.

He was born in Huntingdon county but spent most of his life tilling the soil in Centre county, retiring three years ago to a comfortable home in town.

CENTRE HALL.

Crowded out last week.

On Sunday evening Rev. Hazen closed a series of meetings in the Methodist church, extending over a period of three weeks. At the service ten persons were baptized and twenty new members were taken into the church.

JACKSONVILLE.

The Stork stopped at the A. A. Garrett home, last Sunday, and left a baby boy.

The deer hunters are making preparations to enter their camps the latter part of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Weight and daughter Elnora were Sunday callers at the William Weaver home.

Butcherings will start this week. Among the first to slaughter their porkers were John Condo, Fred Haines and A. A. Garrett, on Thanksgiving day.

The revival services which were announced recently to be held in the Evangelical church, are now in full swing. A fair attendance and many well known ministers, speakers and singers have been present to make the meetings interesting and successful.

PLEASANT GAP.

Miss Mary Hile is spending her Thanksgiving vacation at home.

Week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hull, were Joe Swigert, whose home is in Huntingdon, but who is a student at Penn State, and a fraternity brother, who went to witness the football game between Bucknell and Dickinson, Saturday, and made a brief call that evening.

C. Earl Bell, Mrs. C. C. Bell, Mrs. F. B. Patton and their niece, Miss Winifred Bell, who are also from Huntingdon; Miss Bessie King, of Nanticoke, and Marold Lewis, of Wilkes-Barre.

Mr. Millward's father, a very highly respected citizen of Osceola Mills, died last week, in the University hospital, at Philadelphia.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tate, who has been ill for some time, is not much improved. Her many friends are hoping that she will improve at an early day.

Mrs. Miles Magargle was given a surprise party, last Friday evening. The affair proved a decided success. All were delighted with the very agreeable entertainment.

After all we might designate Thanksgiving day as a messenger of happiness, scattering blessings in its path as it goes through the world. It was made for good, and it will do good.

For whatever educates, enlightens, instructs and adds to knowledge of individuals and communities is philanthropic and essentially productive of highly satisfactory results.

Miss Bertha Rimmer entertained twenty girl friends at her home, last Thursday evening. Each guest dressed as a little mill girl, and of course they had to play childish games, and had an abundance of fun and enjoyment. The surprise was on the participants when among other delicacies was a cake, all decorated with candles presenting a beautiful and unique appearance.

The jolly entertainment was in honor of Miss Bertha's birthday. The young lady is now old enough to vote.

In the early spring of 1863, when the Confederate and Federal armies were confronting each other on the opposite hills of Stafford and Spottsylvania, two bands chanced, one evening, at the same hour, to begin to discourse sweet music on either bank of the river. A large crowd of the soldiers of both armies gathered to listen to the music, the friendly pickets not interfering, and soon the bands began to answer each other. First, the band on the northern bank would play "Star Spangled Banner," "Hail Columbia," or some other national air, and at its conclusion the "boys in blue" would cheer most lustily. And then the band on the southern hill would respond with "Dixie" or "Bonnie Blue Flag," or some other southern melody, and the "boys in gray" would attest their approbation with an old confederate yell. But presently one of the bands struck up a tune, in sweet and plaintive notes which were wafted across the beautiful Rappahannock and were caught up at once by the other band and swelled into a grand anthem which touched every heart, "Home, Sweet Home!" At the conclusion of this piece there went up a simultaneous shout from both sides of the river, cheer followed cheer, and those hills, which had so recently resounded with the hostile guns, echoed and re-echoed the glad acclaim. A chord had been struck responsive to which the hearts of enemies then—could beat in unison; and, on both sides of the river, something down the soldier's cheek washed off the stain of powder.

After all, "Home, Sweet Home" "takes the cake." The author, John Howard Payne, an American, never had a home. He wrote the lines while serving the United States as Consul abroad. No poet ever received a more enviable compliment than that paid to John Howard Payne by Jenny Lind, on his last visit to his native land. It was in the great National hall of the city of Washington, where the most distinguished assembly that had ever been seen in the capitol of the republic, was assembled. The matchless singer entranced the vast throng with her most exquisite melodies, "Casta Diva," the "Bird Song" and "Greeting to America." But the great feature of the occasion seemed to be an act of inspiration. The singer suddenly turned her face to the part of the auditorium where Payne was sitting and sang, "Home, Sweet Home," with such pathos and power that all were delighted in the extreme.

AARONSBURG.

Mrs. A. J. Ireys spent a few days with her daughter and family in Danville.

Mrs. J. J. Fiedler has gone to Philadelphia, where she expects to spend some time with her two sons.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wolfe motored to Milton recently, where they spent the day with Mrs. Wolfe's sister.

John P. Condo and Mrs. Mary Breon attended the funeral of a friend of Mrs. Breon in Sugar valley, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Vonada and two children, of Bellefonte, spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Vonada's father, J. H. Crouse.

Samuel Leidacker and chum, of Shickshinny, a student at Penn. State, spent a short time Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Weaver.

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Eisenhauer and two sons, of Bellefonte, were Sunday guests of Mr. Eisenhauer's mother, Mrs. J. G. Eisenhauer, on Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Orwig had as guests, Sunday, Mr. Orwig's father, Charles Orwig, son Wendell and daughter, Miss Margaret Orwig, of Hartleton.

Miss Magdalene Weaver was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Osman, in Williamsport, where she had the privilege of hearing the noted evangelist "Billy" Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Mingle accompanied their son Albert and family, of Coburn, to Potters Mills, where they were dinner guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George McCormick.

Sunday evening, at 7 o'clock the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Reformed church will observe its annual thank offering service. A good program has been arranged for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wieland and child, of Mt. Union, and Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and children, of Bellefonte, were guests, Sunday, of the above named ladies' father and grandmother, Frank Koch and mother, Mrs. Amos Koch, on Main street.

Week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hull, were Joe Swigert, whose home is in Huntingdon, but who is a student at Penn State, and a fraternity brother, who went to witness the football game between Bucknell and Dickinson, Saturday, and made a brief call that evening.

C. Earl Bell, Mrs. C. C. Bell, Mrs. F. B. Patton and their niece, Miss Winifred Bell, who are also from Huntingdon; Miss Bessie King, of Nanticoke, and Marold Lewis, of Wilkes-Barre.

OAK HALL.

Fred Williams, of Clearfield, spent Sunday at the home of his brother, Ray Williams, at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. George Glenn and family, of State College, were recent guests at the R. C. Lowder home.

Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Dale, accompanied by Mrs. Elmer Campbell, attended Pomona Grange, at Centre Hall, on Saturday.

Ralph Dale accompanied a car load of men from Boalsburg to Pittsburgh, Wednesday, to see the State-Pitt game yesterday.

Red Tape.

An Italian soldier who was declared dead during the war, but insists that he is very much alive, is having an embarrassing time. He has married since and the government insists upon paying his "widow" his pension. He has also received a nice medal reciting his good deeds and the battle in which he died. His name stands engraved upon a monument to "our hero dead." In fact, the War Department refuses to concede that he is still alive.

He is now trying to make the government testify against itself—because the scurry income tax collector not only believes he is alive, but insists upon making the usual collections in the usual harsh way.—Los Angeles Times.

Society Suggestion.

I am obliged to a man named Cunningham for sending me a copy of a weekly newspaper printed in a town in the Southwest. It says the bachelors of the town had long been in the habit of attending social affairs given by the young married people, and caused a good deal of trouble. Several young couples separated as a result of "romance." Whereupon the young married men made a new ruling, and now the bachelors, when they long for society, find it among the unmarried.

A married man, if disposed to flirt, finds a restraining influence in his wife, but a bachelor has no such handicap. I should say an old bachelor should be permitted no lady company save that of widows, who, of all women, are most capable in handling old bachelors.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Long Journey for Nothing.

This is the story of an absent-minded professor. But among stories about absent-minded professors it must hold high place. The professor is J. E. Aderman. He teaches at the University of Sidney, in Australia. Recently he arrived in London as one of the delegates to the congress of the empire universities. Then Professor Aderman discovered an error. At first he was slightly puzzled, then alarmed and then probably as humorously embarrassed as it is good for a man ever to be humorously embarrassed. He found that he had miscalculated by a year the opening of the universities' congress and that it will not open till June, 1926. Professor Aderman traveled 24,000 miles before he discovered his error.

Air Mails and Ireland.

Every proposal for the inauguration of an air mail service is welcome, if for no other reason than because it turns thought away from the use of airplanes for war purposes. Hence the announcement that it is hoped to start such a service between Belfast, Ireland, and England in March next is especially gratifying because it may also tend to cement the two peoples more closely together. It is said that already two airplanes have been purchased and that a third has been ordered. With these it is intended to carry on an all-the-year-round service. This will enable letters posted in Belfast in the evening to be delivered in London by the first mail in the morning, and vice versa.—Montreal Herald.

Tax to Support Science.

Commerce and industry will be required to contribute to the financial support of a scientific research in France, if a measure passed by the chamber of deputies is also approved by the senate. The bill provides for a tax of five centimes on each 100 francs paid in salaries by industrial and commercial concerns. The sum which the tax would raise for French scientific laboratories is estimated at 14,000,000 francs a year. This is about $700,000, according to the present rate of exchange.

Corrects Receding Chins.

Receding chins are now being fixed by New York surgeons. By means of a special plate, it is possible to throw the lower jaw forward, so that the molar teeth meet in their proper position. This plate has the effect of making the patient bite forward, with the result, in most cases, that the receding chin eventually becomes normal.

Boom in Italy.

People in Italy are just meeting their accumulated needs which had remained unsatisfied during and since the war, and this is giving the country its present prosperity.

In Honor of a Great Event.

Birthdays are always important occasions, especially if one is very young or very old. Before long The Youth's Companion will be a hundred years old, and the event is going to be made a memorable one for The Companion's many friends. So, although the date is not until April 16, 1927, preparations will begin with 1926.

In honor of its birthday The Companion will come to you next year at the new low price of $2. It will be dressed in its party clothes, with new cover designs, enlarged illustrations, new brilliantly clear type, and over 200 pages more than last year. It will contain 9 book-length serial stories, fascinating mystery stories, tales of adventure on land and sea, the new "Make-It and Do-It" pages, radio games, books, and puzzles, interesting special articles, and the ever-delightful Children's page. Don't miss this great year of The Youth's Companion; subscribe now and receive:

- 1. The Youth's Companion—52 issues in 1926, and
2. The remaining issues of 1925. All for only $2.

- 3. Or include McCall's Magazine, the monthly authority on fashions. Both publications, only $2.50.

Phones Give Warning of Fire Damp in Mine.

Hundreds of inventors have applied their brains to the matter of finding a certain means of detecting fire damp the cause of such a large proportion of mine disasters. So far no completely reliable method has been found; but it is believed that a development of the latest idea will solve the problem.

This idea consists in the use of a pair of telephones of a delicate kind, one of which is placed in the upper galleries, where the air is known to be pure, while the other is fixed in the lower workings. Wires from each lead to a central instrument.

Beside each of the telephones is a pitch-pipe into which a current of air is blown by a fan. The two pipes are tuned to give exactly the same musical note.

So long as all is well only one note is received and given out to the central telephone; but directly fire damp occurs the air supplied by the fan to the pipe in the lower workings becomes changed in quality and this alters the note very slightly.

That the upper pipe, of course, remains unchanged, and the result is that instead of a single clear note the central instrument emits a discordant noise which immediately attracts the attention of the man in charge, warning him that there is fire damp in the lower galleries.—Exchange.

MEDICAL.

What My Neighbor Says.

Is of Interest to Bellefonte Folks.

When one has had the misfortune to suffer from backaches, headaches, dizziness, urinary disorders and other kidney ills—and has found relief from all this sickness and suffering, that person's advice is of untold value to friends and neighbors. The following case is only one of many thousands, but it is that of a Bellefonte resident. Who would ask for a better example?

E. T. Spicer, blacksmith, 222 E. Logan St., says: "Heavy lifting put my kidneys in poor condition and I had such sharp twinges across my back, I could hardly breathe when I went to straighten from a stooped position. The ache in my back often became so intense, I could scarcely move. My kidneys were weak, too, and I had to get up nights to pass the kidney secretions. I became drowsy and I couldn't do justice to my work. Headaches also made me miserable. After using one box of Doan's Pills, from the Mott Drug Co., my kidneys were healthy."
