A ten piece orchestra travels with the show for the musical interpretations. Prices are 25 and 50 cents and it is a benefit for the American Legion.

The Huntingdon Monitor wept crocodile tears last week because the "Democratic party in Pennsylvania is at a low ebb," for want of leaders like Jackson and Wilson. Brother Leshar ought to be generous enough to do more than bawl over what he views as our dilemma. He might offer us some of the great, towering leaders of his own party. Those giant statesmen like Vare, Bill Mellon, Grundy, et al.

The kind of weather we have had the past week can't last much longer but the Scenic will be open every week-day evening throughout the year, and if it is good pictures you want to see that is the place to go. Nothing old nor out of date is shown at that old-established motion picture emporium. The pictures are all up-to-date, some of them the latest releases in the State. Be a regular and see them all.

The Kennedy boys, Ewing and Ralph, of Pittsburgh, who were the headliners in this year's Thespian production "The Kid Himself" have been chosen among the twelve inter-University entertainers who will accompany the Cook Mediterranean cruise, starting in July for three months. It was their dancing in the Thespians that won them the engagement. Six other State boys are to comprise a student orchestra that will furnish dance music on the Cunard liner Berangaria during the summer.

WALTER COHEN WANTS TO BOTTLE BELLEFONTE'S BUBBLING WATER.

Asks Council for Exclusive Permission to Sell Surplus from Big Spring.

Walter C. Cohen appeared before borough council, at its regular session on Monday evening, and asked for the exclusive privilege of bottling the overflow from Bellefonte's big spring for shipment to and sale in the big cities. Mr. Cohen stated that he had thoroughly considered the proposition from all angles and his investigations led him to believe that a good market can be established in the big cities for the pure water from Bellefonte's spring. Of course he did not ask for a supply from the spring but from the overflow that is now running to waste down the tail race, and for this he offered to pay the borough of Bellefonte regular meter rates. His idea is to erect a bottling works somewhere on south Water street in the vicinity of the spring and bottle the overflow of water. He stated that it would be necessary to spend thousands of dollars in advertising the water, and in so doing it would also advertise Bellefonte. President Walker stated that the matter will have to be considered most thoroughly for every possible standpoint before council can take any action in the matter, and Mr. Cohen's request was referred to the Water committee and borough solicitor for investigation.

Charles Schad was present and informed council that he and Judge Harry Keller own two lots on north Allegheny street right at the intersection of the unopened portion of Beaver street, and offered to sell the land to the borough for $900 if it is wanted for the opening of that street.

He also requested that the borough take action in regard to the putting down of a new pavement along the east side of Allegheny street, from the intersection of the proposed Beaver street to Curtin street. Both matters were referred to the Street committee.

Sinie H. Hoy, W. R. Shope and W. H. Page were before council to request permission to fill up south Thomas street in front of their properties and also the property of Jacob Hoy. This matter was also referred to the Street committee.

The bond of borough treasurer Edward J. Gehret in the sum of $16,000 and that of borough solicitor N. B. Spangler in the sum of $500 were approved by council.

A communication was received from the Logan fire company inviting members of council and clerk to the company's annual banquet held last night.

The Street committee reported that all efforts during the past two weeks had been concentrated on the removal of snow from the streets and gutters.

The Water committee reported repairs made to pump and the collection of $65.60 on the 1923 water duplicate and $60.75 from the Bellefonte Lumber company for repairs to pavement.

The Fire and Police committee reported progress in the matter of investigation as to a new and more satisfactory fire alarm system, and that compensation insurance for the firemen will cost a flat rate of $25 per company. As this price seemed very low the matter was referred back to the committee for further investigation.

The Finance committee reported that the borough treasurer had paid off a note of $3,500 and asked for the renewal of another note for $4,000, which was authorized.

The Market committee had no report to make but president Walker stated that he has been informed that farmers and truck growers are arranging to plant additional space this year in order to have a bountiful supply of everything for the Bellefonte curb market, and he suggested that they be given all encouragement possible.

Mr. Brouse stated to council that the American Legion would like to have the borough purchase twelve flags to put up along south Water street from High street to Waite's implement store, and along the big spring. The flags with the holes drilled in the pavement will cost $4.85 each. The matter was held over for further investigation.

There being no other business bills to the approximate amount of $1,900 were approved for payment after which council adjourned.

No Centre County Auto Show This Year.

As it looks now no Centre county automobile show will be held this year because the automobile association is unable to find a suitable building with adequate parking space in which to hold it. In past years the show was held in the Bellefonte armory but State authorities have issued an edict that public gatherings of any kind must not be held in buildings not equipped with an emergency lighting system. Up until a week ago officials of the Centre County Automobile Dealers association had hopes of overcoming the above stipulation but failed to do so and now holding a show has practically been given up.

An explosion of dynamite tore the end off of the scale house at the tipple of the DuShan Coal company, at Osceola Mills, last Thursday morning. An investigation showed that the dynamite had been stolen from the company's powder house and the authorities will endeavor to round up the miscreants who attempted the destruction of the coal company's property.

Many Visiting Knights in Bellefonte Last Friday.

In the neighborhood of one hundred Knights Templar took part in the winter meet of Division No. 10, in Bellefonte last Friday. Owing to the drifted condition of the main highways the degree teams from Huntingdon Commandery No. 65, and Lewistown Commandery No. 26, were unable to get here and the work was put over by the team of Constans Commandery No. 33, of Bellefonte. The Order of Malta was demonstrated by Moshannon Commandery No. 74, of Phillipsburg, quite a delegation coming to Bellefonte from that place.

At six o'clock all the Knights were entertained at dinner in the Presbyterian chapel by the Ladies Aid society, just ninety-two covers being taken.

At the evening session the Order of the Temple was conferred upon six candidates. Among the visiting Knights were Grand Commander Thomas Shipley, of York; Grand Generalissimo Boyd A. Musser, of Scranton; Grand Herald M. Ward Fleming, of Phillipsburg; Division Commander Charles T. Derick, of Bellwood, and Division Commander Clyde P. Love, of Harrisburg.

The present officers of Constans Commandery are Commander, William H. Brouse; Generalissimo, Myron M. Cobb; Captain General, Louis S. Schad; Recorder, George T. Bush; Treasurer, William B. Rankin.

Morrisdale Miners Find Prehistoric Tooth.

Phillipsburg people are all het up over the finding of a tooth in one of the workings of the Morrisdale Coal company, at Morrisdale, two weeks ago, which they feel certain connects them with the pre-historic or antediluvian age. The tooth is evidently that of a mastodon of the elephantine species and the animal must have been of mammoth size. The tooth is evidently a back grinder, is 7-1-2 inches long, 7 inches high, 3-1-4 inches in width and weighs 3-1-2 ounces. The enamel on the tooth is a quarter of an inch thick and the nerve canal is plainly discernible. The whole tooth is in almost a perfect state of preservation.

Attorney Jack Thompson took the tooth to Philadelphia and had it examined by Dr. Hopewell Smith, of the Evans Institute of Dentistry, who expressed the opinion that the tooth is anywhere from ten thousand years old and up. Naturally the finding of the tooth has created more or less excitement and the coal company has offered to lend any assistance possible in making further search and excavations for other bones of the mammoth animal.

Fisher's Barn Near Unionville Collapsed Under Weight of Snow.

The large bank barn on the Fisher farm, just this side of Unionville, collapsed completely under the weight of snow, about four o'clock last Monday morning.

The building was a very large frame structure with a low pitched and spreading roof. While the snow on it was of great depth it was light and not until the rain of Saturday and Sunday began to add weight to it was there any indication of collapse. All day Sunday, however, Mrs. Fisher now recalls having heard cracking sounds that she could not account for until the building collapsed with a great crash at the hour stated.

It is a total wreck. While the side next to the road is still standing it is likely to collapse at any moment and will have to be pulled down before the structure can be rebuilt. There wasn't much stock in the barn, but the wreckage had to be chopped away before the animals could be gotten out. None of them were hurt.

Ninety Years Young on Wednesday.

Bellefonte's youngest old man passed another milestone on Wednesday, Feb. 17th. It was the ninetieth anniversary of the birth of Thaddeus R. Hamilton, of north Allegheny street, and a stranger passing him on the street that day would probably have thought he was meeting a man in the sixties.

With step firm, an eye clear, a mind alert and not a gray hair on head or lip Mr. Hamilton is about the town every day enjoying life and interested in everything.

He chuckled when he told us the kick he gets out of news stories that refer to some one in the seventies or eighties as being "the venerable Mr. So and So. That has no time for this "venerable" stuff, because he says he doesn't know what it feels like or means.

Young Journalists To Publish Magazine at State.

The second volume of "The Old Main Bell," literary magazine published by students of the Pennsylvania State College, will consist of two issues this year, the first of which is scheduled to appear within the next two weeks. It is sponsored by the Pi Delta Epsilon honorary journalism fraternity at Penn State.

Ira Sprinkle has bought the house of the late Mrs. Gamill Rice, on Pine street, for $2200.00.

Desertion and Non-Support Cases Aired Before Judge Keller.

Desertion and non-support cases were aired in court on Monday, Judge Harry Keller presiding. The first case called was that of Mary S. Horner vs. Harry Horner, of Potter township. Mrs. Horner, in her own behalf, testified that they had been married for thirty-four years, and have seven children. Four of the children are married. She claimed her husband had abused her for several years past and that last November he beat her, threatened to kill her and chased her away from home. Her testimony was supported by that of some of her children. Mr. Horner is a stone mason and has been working at State College where he makes ninety cents an hour. The court made an order requiring him to pay ten dollars a week to the support of his wife and the costs in the case and stand committed pending compliance with the sentence. Mr. Horner said he'd "go to jail before he'd pay it," and the sheriff took him up on the hill.

The second case taken up was that of Mrs. Laura Koon, of State College, against her husband, J. Alton Koon. The testimony in this case showed that Mr. Koon had built a home at the College which he later made over to his wife and she converted it into a private hospital. Mr. Koon purchased the supplies for the house which the wife used to maintain her patients then pocketed the money she received from them. The husband finally quit buying the supplies when the wife brought action for non-support. The court discharged Mr. Koon but intimated that he might make an order for the support of his minor child.

Mrs. Mary Harm, of Snow Shoe, brought action against her husband, Harvey M. Harm for non-support and the larceny of $630 from her store. After the evidence was all in the court discharged Mr. Harm on his agreeing to return the money alleged to have been taken but made an order that he must maintain his minor child. The larceny action was then dropped.

The next case was Joyce Showalter Carey vs. William Carey, in which the court made an order of ten dollars a week for the support of the wife and child.

The last case was that of Hazel Landis Bowman vs. Harold Bowman, now a resident of Clarion. The court order was for $25 per month.

Aged Folks Celebrate Anniversaries of Birth.

February is evidently a good month in which to be born, judging from the number of people who have been celebrating birthdays of remarkable longevity. The oldest person in Centre county, so far as known, is Mrs. Mary McClellan, of Phillipsburg, who on Saturday celebrated her 101st anniversary. And while she naturally is not as spry as she used to be she is still able to be up and around her room and is mentally quite alert. Mrs. McClellan lives with her daughter, Mrs. David Sowers, and that lady gave a dinner on Saturday in celebration of her mother's birthday.

Out at Pleasant Gap Mrs. Elizabeth Bilger celebrated her ninety-fifth anniversary last Thursday and quite a number of friends called to extend good wishes. Mrs. Bilger still enjoys fairly good health and her mind is quite bright and active.

Down in Lock Haven that veteran railroad, James C. Waddle, who is of course a native of Centre county, celebrated his ninety-second anniversary last Thursday, and he is still in the best of health. For forty-two years he was conductor on the local freight train on the Bald Eagle Valley railroad and everybody between Tyrone and Lock Haven almost had a speaking acquaintance with Jimmy Waddle. Though it does not seem so yet it is twenty-three years since he went on the retired list and has been enjoying the autumn of his life at his comfortable home in Lock Haven.

Penn State Opens Second Semester With Increased Enrollment.

While no new freshmen were admitted at the beginning of the second semester at the Pennsylvania State College last week, more than 100 former students returned to complete their studies that had been interrupted for one reason or another. About twenty were admitted with advanced standing to other classes. Forty-seven were graduated at the mid-year commencement, and this week will witness the withdrawal of the usual number who failed in their work of the first semester.

The first half-year at Penn State witnessed the establishment of a new record for residence enrollment, there being a total of 3,734 young men and women attending classes.

Airmail Pilot Art Smith Killed in Crash in Ohio.

Carrying the night mail from Chicago to Cleveland, Ohio, pilot Art Smith crashed into a tree top during a blinding snow storm, near Montpelier, Ohio, last Friday night, and was either killed in the fall or burned to death. His plane and the mail were burned and his body was also a prey to the flames. Pilot Smith had been flying for sixteen years though he had been in the mail service only since 1923. His regular flight was between Cleveland and Chicago, though he did make one or two flights between New York and Cleveland.

The same night that Art Smith was killed Paul Smith was forced down at Sunbury by a blinding snow storm, but he lit in a snow drift on the emergency landing field escaping injury himself and not damaging his plane.

Mail pilots generally declare that this has been the worst winter for flying since the airmail service was established in 1918. Since early in October there have not been half a dozen days of continuous clear and sunny weather. Instead there have been numerous and persistent snow storms, dark and gloomy weather, low clouds and poor visibility. But since the late lamented Charles H. Ames met his death on Nittany mountain in October through flying in low visibility extra precautions have been taken in permitting the flyers to go up in bad weather. This is particularly the case at the Bellefonte landing field. The men in charge there must feel satisfied in their own mind that it will be reasonably safe for a pilot to go up before they will permit him to leave the field. Ships have been held here for hours awaiting the passing of a storm and the result is that not a single serious accident has happened in this section since pilot Ames met such a tragic death.

The proposed business scheme of Walter C. Cohen to market the overflow from Bellefonte's big spring is not the first time that such an undertaking has been considered. The late C. G. McMillen, of Dayton, Ohio, but who forty years ago resided in Bellefonte, just a few years before his death mapped out a plan whereby the waste water from the spring might be marketed and made the source of considerable revenue to the town as well as the individuals back of the enterprise of putting it on the market. His idea, at the time, was to secure the island as the foundation for his bottling establishment, converting all the space not actually in use for his buildings into a park, open to the public, of course. Failing health, however, prevented Mr. McMillen from doing aught than discuss the possibilities in such an undertaking, but he was confident that there would be money in it.

Brooks-Doll post American Legion guarantees the showing of "Three Faces East," which comes here next Tuesday and Wednesday, accompanied by a metropolitan orchestra. It is a DeMille production and that means the best on the silver screen. The Legion boys are taking this method of replenishing their treasury, offering a superior show at ordinary prices and hoping that the public will turn out strong enough to leave a nice sum above the guarantee for them. Help the Legion. Give the boys a full house at every showing.

Mrs. Louis Schad, Bellefonte's violin virtuoso, broadcasted from Strawbridge and Clothiers, in Philadelphia, last Saturday night and contrary to expectations many radios here were able to pick up the Philadelphia station. Those who did, report that reception was fine and that Mrs. Schad played wonderfully well. She received many telegrams of congratulation, notable among them being one from an acquaintance in Stroudsburg, whom she hadn't seen for years, who happened to pick up her concert that night.
