REVIEW OF HIGH SCHOOL BASKET-BALL SEASON.

It is hard to write a review of the basketball season of the Bellefonte High school, which ended in a blaze of glory last Thursday night on the Juniata College floor. Although defeated the High school team had a remarkable record, few defeats, no forfeitures, and, best of all, a team which fought hard and well and refrained from any thing under handed or unfair. This is a record befitting any great team.

The final game, with Mt. Union, a play off of the tie which existed beful till the final moment. The final that place. score was 24-21 but it does not indicate the close fight between the two strong opponents. Bellefonte had no single star but all its players were

Death of Col. John Coolidge, Father by Dr. E. M. Gress, State Department. of President Coolidge.

Col. John Coolidge, father of President Coolidge, died at his home at Plymouth, Vt., at 10:41 o'clock on Thursday night, as the result of a general breakdown, while the President was speeding northward by special train in the hope of reaching his father before he passed away. Col. Coolidge had been in feeble health for some months past.

Brief funeral services were held at his Vermont home on Saturday afternoon and his remains were laid to rest in the family plot in the country cemetery not far from his

Col. John Calvin Coolidge, was born at Plymouth, Vt., his home through-out his life, March 31, 1845, the son of Calvin Galusha and Sarah Almeda Coolidge. He was educated in the public schools at Black River Academy at Ludlow, Vt. In 1868 he set up mercantile business at Plymouth, in addition to running his farm.

Colonel Coolidge married Victoria Josephine Moor, of Plymouth, May 6, 1868. The Coolidges had two children, Calvin, now President of the United States, and Abbie Grace, who died at the age of 14. The President's mother died March 14, 1885, and Col. pain. Coolidge married a second wife. Carrie A. Brown, also of Plymouth, September 9, 1891. His second wife died in 1920. The President's father took an active part in local and State public affairs through his life. He was commissioned as colonel when he served on the staff of Governor William W. Stickney from 1900 to 1902. He was repeatedly selected by his fellow townsmen to represent them, serving as constable, collector of taxes, superintendent of schools, selectmen, member of the Vermont House of Representatives from 1872 to 1878, and State Senator 1910 to 1912.

In private life he was vice-president of the Ludlow Savings and Trust Company and trustee of the Black River Academy. He was a Republican and a Baptist.

Spring Doctoring of Poor Lawns.

Severe winter weather with alternate freezing and thawing frequently causes lawns to have a "sickly" appearance in the spring. Often the grass is raised from the ground. In a case of this kind, the lawn should be rolled early while the ground is moist and soft. This will make the lawn smooth and will replace the grass that has been uprooted. Another common ailment is the appearance of spots where the grass has been killed during the winter. These should be loosened up by raking and heavily seeded.

The question of what fertilizer to O. J. Auman house on north 2nd St. use on lawns is often a problem. The following is a mixture recommended family occupy the Chas. Bower house.

of Agriculture:

Nitrate of Soda.... 3.5 pounds

Phosphoric Acid....5.0 pounds Muriate of Potash..1.5 pounds This mixture of 10 pounds is sufficient to cover an area of 500 square feet. It should be spread evenly and care must be used to avoid any scald-ing or burning of the grass. Nitrate of soda dissolved in water and applied with a sprinkling can at the rate of about 1.4 pound to 100 square feet of surface makes a good, quickly available fertilizer.

Lime keeps the soil sweet and is especially valuable in maintaining the proper condition for the growth of soil organisms and the grass. It may be applied in the early spring at the rate of about 25 pounds of slacked lime to 1,000 square feet of lawn.
