"THESE WILD YOUNG PEOPLE."

"This generation . . . do despise God, destroy themselves, care nothing for the morrow. Debauchery there's always been, but never did it run so high among the youth. Men will tell you 'tis the unrest following on the War. The generation speeds to waste like rapids. The world is full of news of robbery and outrage on every hand. No sobriety among young men, nor chastity among young women. Monstrous wealth piled up cheek by jowl with crushing poverty. The course of life whipped to a frenzy till our whole culture and civilization doth rock us to the bone."
"There's modern Young America for you!" Mrs. Grundy and Mr. Stratton may sigh on reading the above passage. Only it happens to be a description of Young England in the specious times of great Elizabeth, after the "War" with Spain; a period superbly set forth not only in the quoted paragraph but in the book from which it is taken—James Gould Cozzens's "Michael Scarlett." As we have said, the notion that today's younger generation is the Worst Ever merely denotes a naive ignorance of history.

Why One Out of Four School Children Repeat the First Grade.

Last Spring The National Congress of Parents and Teachers and the United States Bureau of Education, aroused because one out of every four children entering school has to repeat the first grade, launched a nation-wide campaign to show parents that their children could often be spared this failure if they were sent to school physically fit as free from all defects as love and care and science could make them. Because the Delinquent has always fought the children's cause, it joined the campaign by offering five hundred dollars in prizes to the three local Parent-Teacher Associations who should send their first-grade children to school in September with the highest health scores. Although this contest was not announced until June, a number of the associations immediately jumped into the ring and worked tirelessly all through the hot days of Summer. Local committees rounded up the children, had them examined by local doctors, persuaded the parents in many cases to correct the bad eyesight, or tonsils, or adenoids thus revealed, and then rounded up the children for another examination before they entered school, to see what had been accomplished.
When all the reports had been submitted to the judges, the prizes were awarded as follows:
First prize of $250 to Barrow School Parent-Teacher Association, Columbus, Mississippi.
Second prize of $150 to Washington School Parent-Teacher Association, Marietta, Ohio.
Third prize of $100 to Baker School Parent-Teacher Association, Austin, Texas.—From The Delinquent for March.

PRESENTING THE BETTER CLASS PHOTOPLAYS
Week-Ahead Program

SATURDAY, APRIL 10:
"SHIP OF SOULS," with BEIT LYTELL and LILLIAN RICH. Taken from Emerson Hough's famous novel. Fleeing from a shattered dream of love he found Her! At the last far-flung outpost of the white man, who had wrecked his life—now, once again, his rival—he found temptation in a duel of primitive passions, and learned the futility of vengeance. A great drama, tumultuous as the sweep of the whirlwind. Also, first run two reel comedy, "OFFICER OF THE DAY."

MONDAY, APRIL 12:
"BEFORE MIDNIGHT," with WILLIAM RUSSELL and BARBARA BEDFORD. This picture tells intense scenes of action how a federal sleuth ran down a crooked detective by a ruse, recovered a priceless gem stolen from Rome, and acquired a jewel of his own in the person of a lovely girl. Also, Pathe News, Aesop's Fables and a single Educational reel.

TUESDAY AND WEDNESDAY, APRIL 13 AND 14:
"DANCING MOTHERS," with CONWAY TEARLE, ALICE JOYCE and CLARA BOW. Her father is a wealthy idler. She is a captivating flapper daughter. So the pretty mother says, "Why don't I step out, too?" So she does and the battle is on, and she's some steeper, and some dancier, and some—but wait until you see the complications in this big, flashy Rolls-Royce comedy drama of New York society. This picture sure does "step some." Also, first run Mack Sennett two reel comedy, "WHAT'S THE WORLD COMING TO?"

THURSDAY, APRIL 15:
"THOSE WHO DANCE," with MARGUERITE de la MOTTE and JOHN BOWERS. Here is a lively melodrama of the sea, in which a young mate triumphs over a mutinous crew, brings the ship to port and wins a bride, as well as curing his partner of the drug habit. Also, Pathe News and Pathe Review.

FRIDAY, APRIL 16:
"LET 'ER BUCK," with HOOT GIBSON. The real Pendleton round up with Hoot in the midst of real Indian chiefs, champion bronco busters, bareback riders doing their stunts as never before, and Hoot outdoing them all. Hoot's greatest picture. Also, 5th chapter of "CASEY OF THE COAST GUARD."

MOOSE TEMPLE THEATRE.

TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY, APRIL 13, 14, 15:
"THE JOHNSTOWN FLOOD," with GEORGE O'BRIEN and FLORENCE GILBERT. Here is the big thrill drama of 1926. See the bursting of the dam that cost the lives of thousands and swept a thriving city off the map. See the female Paul Revere stirring the town to action in the path of the raging flood. See homes, churches, stores swept away by a cyclonic torrent. See the greatest disaster the world has ever known. And see the thrilling rescues in fire and flood. Matinees at the Scenic Tuesday and Wednesday. Our usual admission of 10 and 25 will prevail.

THIS FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.
"THE YANKEE SENIOR," with TOM MIX and MARGARET LIVINGSTONE. A drama of conflict and romance in Old Mexico. Also, Mack Sennett's side-splitting two reel comedy, "GOSH DARN MORTGAGE."
