Another Allegheny County Murderer Electrocuted Tuesday Morning.

Charles F. Steele, alias Alvin Case, convicted over a year ago in Allegheny county of being implicated in the murder of Dimitriv Nezovich, a bank-Rockview penitentiary on Tuesday morning. Ordinarily Steele would have gone to the chair on Monday morning but because that was a holiday he was given an extra day's lease of life and was not put to death until Tuesday morning. Only one contact of electricity was necessary and four minutes after Steele was placed in the chair he was pronounced dead by Dr. C. J. Newcomb. He was attended to the chair by the prison chaplain, Rev. C. E. Kalb, and Rev. S. C. Michaelfelder, of Carrick, who was his spiritual adviser in the Allegheny county jail.

Steele, who was only 26 years old, was the only man in Pennsylvania for whom commutation was recommended by the board of pardons which the Governor refused to confirm with his signature. His case was first taken before the board of pardons at its December meeting and clemency denied. It was again presented at the board at its meeting on February 17th, at which time commutation was recommended, three members of the board concurring and one dissenting. Nothing more was heard of the case until last Friday when the Governor announced that he would not approve the board's recommendation and that Steele must go to the chair. It was the first time in the history of the State that the Governor refused to join with the board of pardons.

Steele's only living relative in the north is a Mrs. Reynolds, an aunt, of New York city, who was at Rockview on Monday and made a last minute appeal to the Governor in behalf of her nephew but he declined to interfere. Steele's body was unclaimed and was buried in the penitentiary cemetery.
