Alfalfa in Nittany Valley.

Eight alfalfa fields in the Nittany Valley recently inspected by Nicholas Schmidtz and H. B. Musser, farm crops specialists of the Penna. State College, in connection with R. C. Blaney, county agent, revealed that time of seeding is not the most important thing in growing the popular legume.

A field on the farm of Thomas Beaver, seeded with oats in the spring of 1925, had a very good stand, as did a field on the farm of Roy Zimmerman, seeded the same way.

Harry Garbrick seeded a field in the last cultivation of corn last year. He had a good stand too. So did Harry Smith with the same way for seeding.

A. D. Smeltzer seeded one field to alfalfa without a nurse crop and another at the last cultivation of corn. Both developed good stands. A year ago Mr. Smeltzer plowed up an old stand of alfalfa which had been in eight years but was gradually running out. He reseeded this back to alfalfa, but did not get good results, so he plowed it up and expects to run a crop rotation and then seed back to alfalfa. The conclusions drawn from this are that it is well to seed alfalfa directly on a sod but it should follow cultivated crops.

Ward Krape got a fair stand seeding in winter wheat last spring. Wm. Clevenstine had some sowed in winter wheat and some in oats. Both developed into fair stands, however, the seeding in oats was approximately 15½ better than in wheat. John Stover seeded part of his alfalfa with winter wheat in the spring of 1925 and part by itself in August. With both methods he secured good stands.

According to the State College men the results show that time of seeding is not as important as the preparation of the soil and seed before sowing.

Recommendations given the men above included testing the soil for acidity, applying more lime if needed, using Northwestern-grown seed and giving the seed double innoculation.

The double innoculation consists of treating the seed with the bottled legume culture and the sifting of soil from an old alfalfa or sweet clover field over the seed while still damp. They are also urged to sow some clover with the alfalfa so if one failed because of weather conditions the other would be left. Strangely, the alfalfa fields seeded last year came through better than the clover.

—Most successful hog growers provide good pasture for their porkers. They have found that grass and legumes put meat on pigs profitably. Pastures are more sanitary, too, than dirty old pigpens.

Mercantile Appraisement.

Notice is hereby given that the following persons and firms in Centre County have been appraised and liable for mercantile taxes for the year 1926, which are due and payable May 1st, 1926.
