--- That our farmers are gradually discontinuing the practice of churning their own cream into butter has been evident for some years. Many farmers no longer churn even enough for their own use. They sell all their milk, either whole, or as cream, to the receiving stations and either get their butter there or, as in some cases we know of, actually buy oleo for home use. Statistics recently compiled reveal that in 1879 Centre county farmers made 629,366 pounds of butter. In 1899, the apparent peak of home production, they made 1,072,623 pounds. Then the practice of selling milk began and has increased steadily until last year only 318,290 pounds of butter were made by the farmers of Centre county.

FARMERS TRIUMPH

OVER KIWANIANS. Penns Valley Farmers and State College Kiwanians Meet at Boal Camp for Happy Day Together.

The first event of its kind in the State College community—the first annual Farmer-Kiwanian outingheld at the Boal Camp on Thursday of last week, was attended by a crowd estimated at over 500 people, mostly farmers from the Nittany and Penns valleys.

Aside from interest in the awarding of two silver trophy cups and a pair of pedigreed fowls in three of the listed contests, both the farmers and the State College Kiwanians were attracted by the special horse pulling contest scheduled for the occasion in which one of the two dynamometers operated by Pennsylvania State College was used.

Farmers gathered early at the camp, ready for a day of rest and pleasure. Thirty-five people including ten women, entered the dairy cattle judging contest which was held under the direction of Professor E. B. Fitts, of the college extension staff, and with cows donated for the occasion from the Boal Estate herd. Professor Fitts declared the contest one of the closest he had seen for a long while, and late in the afternoon it was

At noon the large tables erected for the occasion were filled with "real eats" from Centre county farms and State College homes, and the emptied baskets were soon joined by emptied tables and there was a lull while the big feed had a chance to settle. > Then came the tug-of-war with the rope used by the college students for their annual contest. It was laid across the stream at a shallow point and 25 farmer guests tugged against an equal number of Kiwanis hosts. At the signal the farmer team literally ran away with the business men, many of whom had to dash through the stream.

Centre County Bankers Hold Meeting in Bellefonte.

In compliance to a call of the president the Centre county Bankers' Association held a meeting in the court house, Bellefonte, at two o'clock last Saturday afternoon. Eight of the twelve banks in the county were represented.

In his opening remarks Charles M. McCurdy, president of the association, spoke of the growing need of closer co-operation in all lines of business and the benefits to be derived from organization of people interested in the same line of business. It was considered good policy on the well to the future and make no radical departure from long-established the executive council.

In order to complete the organization president McCurdy appointed the following executive committee: John E. Fryberger, cashier First National bank, Philipsburg: David F. Kapp. cashier First National bank, State College: S. Ward Gramley, trust officer Farmers National bank, Millheim; C. H. > Wool Growers Dispose of Their Fleeces.

Members of the Centre county Sheep and Wool Growers' association loaded their spring clip of fleeces at Bellefonte on Friday and Saturday, the total being 9,500 pounds, which was about 2.000 pounds less than the clip last year. Disposal of the wool was later than usual this year owing to low market conditions. The purchasers were Hirsch Bros., of Cumberland. Md., who paid approximately six cents a pound more than local dealers offered. A marked improvement was noticed in the clip this year. Last year rejections totaled twenty per cent., while this year they were down to five per cent.

Comrades of the G. A. R. Attention!

tre Hall, and Mrs. Ford L. Stump, of Caught at Stormstown While Attempting to Steal Another Car.

Clifford Guthrie, the Fayette county prisoner who made his escape from the Rockview penitentiary, last Thursday morning, while at work on the big impounding dam in McBride's gap, was captured at Stormstown on Saturday night after he had stolen ford for the month of August and during one automobile and was making an attempt to steal another car.

After making his escape Guthrie kept under cover in the underbrush on Nittany mountain until Thursday night when he went down to Linden Hall and stole the Chevrolet car of Mrs. Ruth Gearhart. In the car he traveled west through Pennsvalley and on to Warriorsmark but his ignorance of direction led him to make the wrong turn there and instead of continuing on to Tyrone he took the road leading up to Halfmoon valley. Just mother, Mrs. Foster Williams, at Atlantic as he neared Stormstown he ran out of gas and going to the barn on the Way farm managed to find a ten gallon can of gasoline which he stole and emptied into the tank of his stolen car. But try as he might he could not get the car started, which was probably in his favor, for had he been able to do so and continued his journey he would have arrived in Bellefonte about four o'clock Friday morning.

Guthrie kept under cover in the vinight when he visited the garage owned by George Harshberger and I. C. Second judging honors went to John principles of banking without first Thomas and made an attempt to steal going out caught Guthrie in the act of trying to start a car. He promptly took him in charge and believing him to be the escaped prisoner telephoned the penitentiary authorities and asto Stormstown and finding him to be county jail shortly after midnight.

tured on Thursday morning, was sentenced the same afternoon to an additional term of two to four years. When called for sentence he told the court that he was born in Florida, of Pennsylvania parents. He tired of the south and worked his way north finally landing in Cameron county. There he became sick and could not work. Out of a job and out of money he took the course of least resistance, broke into a house and stole ten doltor for medicine but was finally caught, convicted and given two to four years. This was in August, 1925. He was transferred to Rockview on July first of this year and on August 3rd made his escape. He admitted chance and would draw a double sento South America and reform. But fate was against him and he would take his medicine like a man.

Pioneers of Today.

The covered wagon has gone, the oxen's bones whiten on the prairies, the flint lock is rusty, but the spirit of the pioneer still lives in the heart of boyhood.

The prairies may be surveyed, the jungles may be pierced, the pole may be won, but adventure still beckons. Who would say that the spirit of Boone, of Carson, of Roosevelt, of Marconi or of Byrd is dying out?

Strong bodies, pliant supple muscles, keen eyes, sturdy hearts, high courage, dauntless daring, strength of character, deep trust, buoyant hope, steady plugging, all the qualities of the finest pioneer-still are needed.

Almost a million boys, the world over, are joining themselves together in this new pioneering into life. They find that the activities, the opportunities, the fellowship, that the Young Men's Christian Association offers is a true reflection of the pioneering spirit. There is fun, excitement, adventure. There is achievement, recognition, reward. There is growing strength, truth, manhood, and loyal citizenship ahead.

Perhaps you too-would go pioneering. If so, join the Y.

Edison wasn't enough excitement for a small town in one day George Ruhl dropped out of the clouds and landed here Tuesday morning just for a few hours' glimpse of the place that he once called home. We hadn't seen George for so long that we just nat-, urally thought he had reached the end of the trail without our having heard of it and that his present address was Heaven. Well, George was looking fine, in fact so little changed since we saw him so frequently in Philipsburg in the 90's that we recognized him instantly. He is living in Altoona now.

-Miss Mary Gross, of Axe Mann, was among the Saturday shoppers in Bellefonte and found time for a pleasant little call at this office. In the course of the chat with her we learned that Edgefonte is coming into general use as the name of their village, and that reminds us that years ago it was called "Boiling Springs" because of the bubbling waters in the corner of the old Mann homestead there. Then the Manns had a postoffice established there and because there is another Boiling Springs down in Cumberland county the name could not be duplicated in the postal records and that of Axe Mann was chosen for the postoffice. The axe works closed, the postoffice was abandoned and the Garmans came into possession of the Mann property. They converted it into a summer place for themselves and called it Edgefonte with the result that the name has been spreading until it will probably not be long until Boiling Springs and Axe Barley Mann are entirely forgotten.

-Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Capers and Mr. and Mrs. James Craig will go to Eagles Mere this week, for a week's stay.

Lyon, to Bellefonte last week, following a visit Mrs. Lyon had made with her daughter at her home at Westfield, N. J. Mr. Williams joined his wife here Tuesday, coming up to see his mother, Mrs. George Williams and to accompany Mrs. Williams on the drive back home. -Mrs. L. L. Lambert, of Johnstown, stopped in Bellefonte for a few hours Saturday, on the drive to her girlhood home at Mifflinburg, where the entire Shontz family spent the week-end together. Mrs. Lambert stopped again in Bellefonte on the return drive, and took with her Mary Katherine Bottorf, who will visit in Johnsown for a week or more.

-Mrs. James A. Fiedler and her son Carl arrived in Bellefonte Saturday afternoon, from Seattle, Wash., to spend the early fall with relatives and friends in the east. At present Mrs. Fiedler and her son, both former residents of Bellefonte, are guests of the former's brother, T. Clayton Brown and Mrs. Brown, at their home on Spring street, and will go from here to Williamsport, then on to see Mrs. Fiedler's Later they will spend some time at Washington and New York, before returning to the coast.

-Looking the part of the gentleman that he is Walter Gherrity was in town, Satur day morning, having in tow two friends from Akron, Ohio, who had been spending some time with him at his retreat in the Seven mountains. Walter is still following in the footsteps of his uncle Pat, who lived alone so many years on the farm on the top of the mountain and while some might have called him a recluse he was not that, for no one loved company more or showed greater hospitality to the sportsman who went to his place to hunt or fish. Walter told us that deer have become so plentiful about his place that they arouse no more of his interest than if they were his flock of sheep.

-Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Daggett and their voungest daughter. Caroline III, joined the three Daggett boys here this week. Mrs. Daggett and the child drove to Bellefonte with Miss Helen Stull, from the Stull summer home in the Poconos, and were guests of Judge and Mrs. Ellis L. Orvis until leaving yesterday to return to Wyncote, lars. He gave all the money to a doc- place, grew to like Bellefonte so much while Mr. Daggett remained with the boys until the expiration of their two week's visit with their grandmother and will then acompany them home. Mrs. Wells Daggett is contemplating a visit to Cleveland to be with her niece, Miss Georgie Daggett, who will be in charge of the Maynard Murch home during Mr. and Mrs. Murch's absence on a two month's trip to Europe.
