

Roadside Tree Planting, Mutual Interest of England and Japan.

The first roadside tree planting in England on an extensive scale has been accomplished by the County of Middlesex. Five miles of trees extend along the sides of the Great West Road, and 13 miles of trees have recently been planted on other new arterial roads such as the Great Cambridge Road, the North Circular Road, and the Great West Road Extension. Every mile of the Great West Road has a different kind of tree. In years to come, therefore, a magnificent avenue of varying foliage will be seen; of beech, maple, lime, chestnut and plane trees. They are planted 60 feet apart on a carpet of grass 25 feet wide. Some day, the planters hope, people will go to see that avenue of trees as they go to see the chestnuts in Bushey Park. The Middlesex authorities have tried to put color into their roadside vista. Along the other new arterial roads have been planted red and white chestnut trees, beech and copper beech, scarlet tipped limes, Norway maples, Cornish elms, scarlet oak, purkey oak, and common ash. Only forest trees have been planted, because of their slow growth. The planters do not want to have to lop their trees. People have wondered why laburnum and almond trees have not been chosen but their size makes them impossible even for a road 100 feet wide.

PLANTING IN TOKYO.

Tokyo, which has been planting trees in the streets since the beginning of the seventeenth century, held a conference in 1907 on the trees suitable for street planting. The superintendent of parks in Tokyo was in London recently and left the London County Council a report of his city's experience in planting street trees. He takes us back to the World Exposition in Vienna in 1875 when a visitor from Japan saw Trees of Heaven and locust trees and brought them to Tokyo. It was curious that he should have gone so far for the Heaven Tree for it belongs to China. The earthquake in 1923 destroyed 14,300 of Tokyo's trees, leaving 10,300. A partially new start could therefore be made and there are now 15,300 trees in the streets. They include two of the best English street trees—the plane and a tree similar to the English acacia—Sophora Japonica. The Heaven Tree also flourishes, and, of course, the flowering cherry. Last spring Tokyo sent London 30 specimens of flowering cherries and plums among nearly 1000 other trees, planted mostly in Pechham Rye Park. The Japanese plant the weeping willow in their streets, but it does not "weep" so much as the English variety. The trees are planted on the sidewalks 24 feet apart in roads over 18 feet wide. Some of the new roads have two or three lines of trees. But there is no grass at their roots; Japan cannot grow grass because of the dry climate.

ENGLISH OAKS SENT.

English oak trees found an admirer in the Japanese park superintendent, and 100 little oaks have been sent by the London County Council in exchange for the Japanese trees. These are for one of the parks. It was the superintendent's idea to have the British Ambassador plant them in one of the parks. English visitors to Japanese parks will also presently see their own flowers, such as Canterbury bells, delphinium, foxgloves, holly-hocks, honesty, clarkia, campanula, and asters. Altogether 271 English trees and shrubs in 21 varieties have gone to Tokyo and a large collection of seeds. Tokyo sent in exchange seeds of 55 varieties of trees and shrubs, and these are being cultivated at Kew Gardens and other botanical centers, as well as at the London County Council Nursery at Avery Hill.

Dave Lewis to Race at Altoona Again.

Dave Lewis, veteran race pilot, whose familiar smile has won its way into the hearts of thousands of race fans, has been numbered among the first to tender his entry in the coming June 11th classic in the great racing bowl at Altoona. Like his most intimate associate Earl Cooper, his seniority over the roster of leading American pilots represents a career as interesting and fascinating as romance. Lewis enjoys the distinction of fathering the front-drive Miller special built especially for his use. His demonstrated driving ability won the confidence of Harry A. Miller, famous engineer of Los Angeles. The reputation earned by Lewis and Miller last season through performance of this car, duly credited the record of pilot and manufacturer alike. The admission of the new design into the realm of racing is a crowning achievement and a pronounced success. The fact that Dave Lewis created a non-stop 250-mile record at Altoona last June in his mad dash over the pine boards, contributes a feat that is yet considered outstanding. Predictions are made that this pilot will again be favored as a possible victor in the June 11th classic.

Dog Law.

The Dog Law of 1921 reads as follows: "Any person may kill any dog which he sees in the act of pursuing, worrying or wounding any live stock, or wounding or killing any poultry, or attacking human beings, whether or not such bears the license tag required by the provisions of this act. There shall be no liability on such persons in damage or otherwise for such killing. Any unlicensed dog that enters any field shall constitute a private nuisance, and the owner or tenant or servant may kill such dog, while it is in the field, without any liability or responsibility of any nature for such killing."

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN.

DAILY THOUGHT.

God loves us all but He can only give grace to the good.

—Wire racks for hot dishes save many burned fingers.

—Kerosene and whiting will brighten the dullest zinc-covered table.

—A little lemon juice or cinnamon improves apples that lack flavor.

—Cheese is a hearty food and should not be served in the same meal with other hearty foods.

—"Tis said that baked ham with cider sauce is a dish to tempt a king.

—A double boiler insert for the teakettle makes one utensil do the work of two.

—Weather strips around the windows will keep down the coal bill by keeping the heat in the house.

—Rub leather covered furniture with neat's foot oil two or three times a year to keep the leather from cracking.

—Laundry chutes that are glass lined make sanitary, durable, economical and distinctive installations.

Heat insulation for houses involves a number of signal features about which concise information is desirable.

Electric fountains, in addition to beautifying the home, are an extremely healthful feature as well. Sash sustainers take the place of weights and insure many years of unbroken window operation.

Heat equipment provides a means of increasing the value of the house, and every builder should have complete information at hand.

Dumb-waiters and elevators stand for convenience and good-building policy in every building work today.

Tank fittings may now be had that insure noiseless water closet operation. Electrified eggs, guaranteed to keep for years, and designed to aid in keeping down the cost of living, have been placed on the British market. This invention by which eggs are sterilized by means of an electrically heated oil bath makes it possible, it is asserted, to keep eggs almost indefinitely.

—Sweaters are to be the thing for spring, there is no doubt about it, but it is a far cry from the staid and sturdy sweater of yesterday to the fascinating little frivolity that takes this name this season. It may be a fine, soft little combination of zephyr and silk, just enough silk to give it a delicious sparkle. Its neck will be in the crew style and it will be in alluring springlike shades. Already these new sweaters are seen on girls who know what's what and they are very smart to use under the clever little suits that spring is bringing forth.

Of course, georgette crepe and crepe de chine will be popular throughout the spring and summer. Gowns will be made in immense numbers of solid georgette and solid crepe de chine. And the combinations of the two will be almost numberless. Two different colors of crepe de chine will make some gowns, two different colors of georgette will make others, and many will be made of one of these materials and trimmed with the same shade of the other. The tendency to make a gown of one material and trim it with another material in the same shade is developing more and more.

Bear in mind, when considering the fullness of skirts which I have referred to, that this slight change will never at any time be allowed to interfere with the straight, slim line of the silhouette. Any changes that are made will for a long time have to be made with entire respect for this absolutely straight line. Nothing can possibly be done which alters that in the least.

—"Blue," say the cablegrams, "every shade of blue." Patou uses it, so do Descat, Goupy and Vionnet, Lelong and Lanvin. Blues, from turquoise to robin's egg, from ciel to cornflower. Blues like a starspangled sky, blues like autumn mists and smoke, blues for the Army and Navy and good old Eli! You'll be in fashion if you wear blue. And twice as much in style if you wear more than one shade.

Black-and-white is another success in every opening. Lanvin makes much of white, and presents many white costumes worn with the black beret she likes so well. Jersey and silk are favorite materials. The frocks are jumpers worn over a box-pleated skirt, frequently in a contrasting shade or color. Often the blouse is striped or is embroidered in floral patterns in an all-over design. Jersey cardigans worn with pleated skirts met with much applause.

—For the little patties of maitre d'hotel butter served with fish by the chef, rub two tablespoonfuls of butter to a cream and incorporate little by little two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and a tablespoonful of minced parsley. A teaspoonful of grated nutmeg may be used if it is wanted.

Fish salad is appropriately garnished with olives cut in half, stoned, and the cavity filled with anchovy paste.

Creamed salt codfish turned over toast is often appetizing in the spring of the year when everything else fails. Make a rich white sauce, being liberal with the butter, and turn in flaked shredded salt fish that has been washed and boiled up in the water once and drained to remove the surplus salt. A Spanish sweet pepper added to the fish improves it for some persons. Had-dock is served in the same way.

—Cheese is one of our most valuable protein foods; is concentrated and has very little waste. When the price is high compare it with meat, one of the other proteins which we all like, and notice the difference in waste.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE
When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

To Double Game Licenses.

The Isaac Walton League of Dubois is out to have a bill passed at this session of the Legislature to increase the cost of both hunting and fishing licenses throughout the State. It also wants all fees, penalties, etc., to go into a special fund to be used only for liquidation of claims for damages caused by game and for propagation and protection of wild game and fish. The text of the bill has been forwarded to Senator Scott, of the Centre-Clearfield district, and is as follows:

"Small game and fish licenses, resident, $2.50; non-resident, $5. "Big game, elk, deer and bear, resident, $2.50; non-resident, $25.

"All license fees, fines, penalties, etc., to go in a special fund to be held separate from all other State funds and to be used only for fish and game propagation, protection and conservation, and for the liquidation of damage claims caused by wild game within the State of Pennsylvania, payments to be made on warrants issued by the State Game Commissioner. "Each county of the Commonwealth shall be responsible for all damage claims caused by wild animals within its boundary lines. "Providing for a county game commission in each county to be composed of seven members, one of whom shall be an incumbent county auditor, one the head forester or warden of the county, and five others to be appointed by the judge of the county courts on recommendation of organized sportsmen. "Providing for a township board of appraisers to consist of three members to be appointed by the judge of the courts on recommendation of the organized sportsmen. "All claims to be submitted direct to the county game commission, which will then order a survey by the township board of appraisers. This board shall then make a personal survey and report in detail its findings and recommendations to the county commission for review and approval. After approval it will be delivered to the county commissioners with voucher authorizing payment. "Providing that at the close of each game season, when the record of kills has been completed and checked up, and before the first day of February following, the State Game Commission shall issue warrants payable to the county commissioners of the respective counties in such sums as shall be determined by multiplying the number of head of big game killed by twenty-five, and which number of dollars shall be available to the respective county game committee and disbursed on their order by the county commissioners. "Providing that if and when there shall remain in the hands of the county commissioners of any county in the game fund after all claims, allowances, expenses, etc., have been paid a balance or excess sum shall be available to and may be requisitioned and disbursed by the county game commission for the purpose of propagating fish and game, for feeding or conserving game, for stocking of game or fish, for elimination of stream pollution, all within the limits of the county, and all moneys so used shall be available and inure to the benefit of all licensed sportsmen. "Providing that members of county game committees not otherwise compensated shall receive $300 per year each and township boards of ap-
