Easter Sunrise Pilgrimage.

To the west of the beautiful city of Riverside in southern California, in the valley of the Santa Anna river, stands a little mountain named Mount Ribidoux, in perpetual commemoration of the name of the first white settler in these parts, Louis Ribidoux. This mountain rises 1,000 feet above the town, or 1,837 feet above the sea, and is unusual in that it is almost of solid granite, its summit being crowned with huge boulders. The local town folk have venerated this mountain and long ago wore a trail up it to enjoy the rare view from the top. Army engineers then built a driveway to the top, going one way and descending another. After this road was formally dedicated, a rough-hewn cross was erected on the highest point to preserve the memory of the crosses of the mission days and Junipero Serra, the founder of the California missions.

This gave birth to the thought that something in the way of a community religious occasion be instituted here, out of which grew the Easter morning pilgrimage which has attracted so much attention.

Easter sunrise is the greatest christian religious moment. It was reasoned, therefore, that if people saw a sunrise in connection with religious thought the two things would effect a marked religious stimulus for the community.

The first year but a little handful of persons gathered around the cross for this simple sunrise service. Eleven hundred automobiles were counted ascending the driveway to witness a recent service.

In Memoriam.

In sad and loving memory of our dear son, Donald Eugene Dann, who departed this life one year ago, April 12, 1926, and sadly missed by father, mother, one brother and two sisters. He slumbers so sweetly; let our loved one sleep on; Sickness is ended, his pain is all gone. Oh, think how he suffered Until God in his mercy came down from above And bore away in his arms the sweet one that we loved. Flowers on his grave may wither and decay. But love for our boy will ne'er fade away.

SHOOT MORE DEER. STATE BOARD URGES. Game Commissioners Seek Passage of Bill Making Open Season for Does. Natural Food Now Scarce.

The State Board of Game Commissioners have announced that there are too many deer in the State, and issued a statement calling attention to the bill of Senator Culbertson, of Mifflin county, which provides for an open season for doe deer and deer without visible antlers for a period of ten days in December. The board has power to close counties where it would be inadvisable to allow an open season of this kind.

The statement is issued to overcome the opposition among many sportsmen to killing female deer. In the last few years the commission has sold a limited number of special licenses for the killing of does. The licenses have not been in special favor among many sportsmen, and there have been cases where hunters have purchased several licenses, announcing that their action would prevent others from getting them and killing female deer.

"During the last few years," said the commission's statement, "the deer population of Pennsylvania has increased to such an extent that at the present time the female deer, which have been strictly protected, are becoming a nuisance in various sections. The natural food in several counties has become so scarce that the animals have been driven into the agricultural sections to seek food, greatly to the loss of the farmers."

"It is a well-known fact that wherever an excessive number of animals inhabit a restricted area nature automatically reduces the herd by means of disease. California has just had an epidemic, and it was necessary to kill, by actual count, 22,214 deer to prevent the spread of disease."

"During the last few weeks a large number of dead deer have been found in various sections of the State, seven-tenths being found dead in one county alone within a period of two weeks. As a protection to the sportsmen and the animals themselves, it is absolutely necessary that a material reduction be made in the herds in various parts of the State."

"The breeding ratio is also entirely out of line, and there are thousands of does which are useless in so far as propagation is concerned. The sportsmen's attention is directed to the fact that food conditions in the State are in a deplorable condition, and something must be done to relieve the situation."

Term Had Wide Meaning.

In the Scriptures the term "Gentiles" implies all peoples who did not accept the Jewish faith. They therefore comprised all nationalities except Jews.
