Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Goss, of Rural Boys Can Help Conserve Fur Animals.

There is a general belief that the majority of skins of fur-bearing animals trapped each year are taken by professional trappers. Although this was true 15 years ago, today farm boys contribute the larger number of pelts that swell the annual catch, ac-cording to the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture. Furthering the cooperation with the National Association of the fur industry, the Biological Survey and the Office of Cooperative Extension work desire to interest the youth of the nation in the conservation of fur-bearing animals, and to this end an attractive 32-page booklet, purely educational in nature, and entitled "Our Furry Friends," has been prepared for distribution among boys and girls. The booklet aims to teach the youth of the country that fur bearing animals represent a great natural resource, something to be guarded and preserved, so that the supply will always be maintained to the profit, pleasure and comfort of the American people. The publica-tion is illustrated in color with drawings of the muskrat, skunk, racoon, oppossum, fox, marten, mink, beaver, and otter. Copies may be obtained free from the National association of the fur industry, New York City.

Why Blotting Paper Drinks.

Did you ever stand a very small glass tube in a glass of water and watch the water rise in this tube above the level in the glass? It is this same principle that works in blotting paper on a small scale. Blotting paper is made up of a mass of tiny hairlike tubes through which any liquid rises by what the scientists call capillary attraction.

The discovery of the possibilities of blotting paper was an accident. One day, a little more than a hundred years ago, a young fellow was making orago, a young fellow was making or-dinary paper in a paper mill in Berk-shire, England. Whether he had more important things to occupy his thoughts, or whether he was just nat-urally careless, history does not say, but he forgot to put in the sizing. Now the sizing is a very important item in paper making—it is the gluey material put in to close up all the lit-tile tubes and give the paper a writing tle tubes and give the paper a writing surface. Without this, the whole surface. Without this, the whole batch of paper being made was considered ruined and it was cast aside. Shortly afterward, the angry proprietor sat down to write a note and took a piece of the damaged paper, thinking it would at least be good enough for his needs at that moment. To his increased annoyance the ink spread all over the paper. Then his eyes fell on the sand he had always used for drying ink, and he suddenly thought that this paper would serve as a substitute for that. Experiment proved that he was right, and he disposed of the entire lot of condemned paper under the name of blotting pa-

For a long time all the blotting paper was pink. This was not because the manufacturers thought it ornamental, but was a matter of thrift—it was made of red rags. Red was a fast color and very difficult to bleach, so it was of little value in the making of writing paper. For blotting purposes, however, it did not make any difference what color was used, and thus a method of utilizing apparently worthless material was developed

A Word With the Old Folks

Elderly People Are Learning Importance of Good Elimination.

N the later years of life there is apt to be a slowing up of the bodily functions. Good elimination, however, is just as essential to the old as to the young. Many old folks have learned the value of Doan's Pills when a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys is required. Scanty or burning passages of kidney secretions are often signs of improper kidney function. In most every community are scores of users and endorsers who acclaim the merit of Doan's. Ask your neighbor!
