FISHER.-Rev. Ira E. Fisher, a former pastor of the Pine Grove Mills charge of the Methodist church, died at his home at Wallaceton, Clearfield county, on Monday morning, following an illness of some months with a complication of diseases.

Rev. Fisher was a son of Samuel D. and Lillie J. Fisher and was born near Loveville, Centre county, fortythree years ago. His boyhood days were spent in that locality but while yet a youth his parents moved to Frankstown, Blair county, where he grew to manhood and received his preliminary education. He then studied for the ministry and was admitted as a member of the Central Pennsylvania Methodist conference. One of his first regular charges was at Pine Grove Mills where he preached several years and was well liked by his parishioners. He was then transferred to the Wallacetown charge where he had been located going on three years. That charge includes mination and built a larger and more substantial edifice, which was dedicated last fall.

Rev. Fisher is survived by his wife and two children; his father, living at Frankstown, three sisters and one brother, in Blair Co. Funeral services were held in the new church at Blue Ball yesterday afternoon by Rev. W. E. Watkins, superintendent of the Williamsport district, and the remains were taken to Halfmoon township for burial in the Friends cemetery.

STRAYER.-Mrs. R. K. Strayer died at the Mercy hospital, Altoona, on Sunday morning, following a brief illness with pneumonia. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Harpster and was born in Ferguson township, Centre county, forty-eight years ago. Most of her life was spent in that section but fourteen years ago the family moved to Juniata, where she had since lived.

She is survived by her husband and the following brothers: M. G. Harpster, of Mill Hall; D. P., in California; J. H., of Pennsylvania Furnace; T. E. of Johnstown; O. C., of California, and W. W., of Tyrone.

She was a member of the Lutheran church and her pastor had charge of the funeral services which were held at her late home in Juniata on Tuesday afternoon, the remains being taken to Gatesburg for buiral.
