U. S. MARKET SERVICE COVERS GREAT AREA

Million Dollar Bureau Gives Free Aid to Farmers

Washington.—Every farmer in the United States has access to a million-dollar information bureau.

It is Uncle Sam's market news service operated by congressional appropriation. Daily, throughout the country, it correlates the radio, ocean cables and miles of telephone and telegraph wires in distributing quotations. Allied with the titanic system, cooperative "listening posts," clearing houses of information, are supervised by the bureau of agriculture economics. The newest such institution has been established in San Francisco, at request of the California Vindictist association. It will gather data on prices, supply and distribution of grapes.

Lists Number of Carloads.
 The information will show the number of carloads of each variety and grade sold at different prices. Railroad will supply figures on the number of cars of each variety of grapes moved to the market. Eastern points will send supplemental reports every 25 hours on shipments received and distributed.

Similar plans for the citrus industry were discussed at a conference here between Secretary of Agriculture Jardine and Florida representatives. Georgia peach growers, and producers of other material crops in all parts of the United States may likewise avail themselves of governmental co-operation during the market season.

"These clearing houses for market information," economists say, "insure an even distribution of products and an even tenor in prices. By knowing where his produce is needed, the shipper is not faced with the probability of a flooded market one day and a skimmed one the next. Steady flow to the market solves the problem of individual overproduction and works to a better average price for each grower."

"Through the market news service any part of the country may know exactly how many barrels, bushels or pounds of farm products are rolling to market every hour in the day and the prices offered at all terminal points.

The Network of Wires.
 "Compilation of such vast knowledge is made possible through uniform operation of 7,351 miles of government-leased telegraph wires, working 12 hours a day. More than 2,000 market reporters supply detailed information from all principal centers in the United States and abroad. Cabled information is obtained from the International Institute at Rome, to which 90 countries subscribe.
 "By telephone at 38 relay points and through more than 100 radio stations every individual or institution in the land interested in any manner of produce market reports has constant access to the most complete quotations in the world."

Typhoid Germ Lives Years, Science Learns

San Francisco.—Disease-causing bacteria have many devices to perpetuate their kind in an adverse world. Bacteriologists of the Hooper foundation for medical research, University of California, have shown that tetanus spores may resist the temperature of boiling water for 90 minutes, botulinus in vegetable juices for 5 1/2 hours and those of a closely related but harmless species for 8 1/2 hours. Other workers have proved that typhoid and other organisms may remain alive for years at refrigerator or lower temperatures.
 This happy provision of nature—namely, that is, for the bacteria—constitutes a factor of great danger for man and animals which it is the function of scientific research to obviate, says Dr. George E. Coleman of the Hooper foundation. "The brilliant success," he states, "that has been attained already, in which the experimental use of mice and guinea pigs has played a large part, is constantly being proclaimed by statistical evidence of fewer food poisonings and typhoid fever outbreaks, as well as by increased protection from many of our other microscopic foes."

Spruce Lumber, Cut for War, to Be Used in Peace

Port Angeles, Wash.—Millions of feet of spruce lumber logged and sawed by government forces during the latter days of the World war are now in demand for building the airplanes of peace, according to numerous inquiries received here the last two weeks. The spruce lumber stored in the war basis sheds to season is in excellent condition for airplane needs while most of the logs lying in the assembly yards are sound as the day they were felled.

Old Salt Finds Lump of Ambergris Worth $12,500

Cape May, N. J.—A 28-pound lump of ambergris—nugget gold of the sea—was found about 15 miles off shore here by Jeremiah Pratt, seventy-four-year-old seaman of the fishing schooner Mary Ann of Gloucester, Mass. The old seaman said he had been offered $448 a pound, or about $12,500 for the foul smelling mass by a New York perfumer, and intended to use the money to retire and buy a chicken farm.

NEW-RICH OSAGES BUY CATTLE NOW

Wild Spending of Sudden Wealth Stops.

Pawhuska, Okla.—The Osage Indian, who has been groping around trying to find some satisfactory way to spend his oil riches, at last is achieving success.

Where seven years ago the Osage was bewilderedly surveying his bank book and trying to see how fast he could spend his mounting wealth on fancy motor cars, fine clothing and other gewgaws, he now is contentedly building fine homes, buying pure-bred live stock and reaping benefits from his millions.
 The shock of sudden wealth, which came when oil wells spouted black gold all over the hill-dotted Osage prairies, floored the tribe for nearly ten years. The government stepped in with a law restricting the disposal of Indian money to curb the spending orgy.

Two classes of Indians were established by this law—the competent and the incompetent. The competent Indian could draw his full allotment each quarter, while the incompetent could draw only $1,000 of his allotment, the remainder going into a trust fund at Washington.
 Under this law there were certain items, however, for which money could be withdrawn from the trust fund. One of these was for the purchase of live stock.

Since January 1 figures at the agency here reveal that more than $30,000 has been allotted to the restricted members of the tribe for the purchase of pure-bred live stock. This, however, is but a small portion of the total expenditure for this purpose, as thousands of dollars have been spent by the competent members of the tribe.
 Henry Tall Chief, a full blood, owns one of the finest herds of shorthorns in the state. He has 40 registered head that cost him $12,000. He owns a modern home and is one of the leaders in a movement to interest his tribesmen again in tilling the soil.

Fight for Healthier Cows Aids Dairy Farms

New York.—Ten years ago the Department of Agriculture inaugurated a campaign against bovine tuberculosis. Opposition was great. What is at least partial success, however, was reported by Dr. John R. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry, at a recent eastern states tuberculosis conference. While almost 1,000,000 dairy cattle out of 30,000,000 head tested have been destroyed because of their tubercular state, the industry today is in better condition than it was in 1917, Doctor Mohler said.
 Fear expressed by many persons in the beginning that the campaign would turn the public taste against milk consumption proved unfounded, according to Doctor Mohler, who says the annual consumption of milk in the United States has increased more than forty-nine quarts per capita since 1918. During 1926 the public consumed 56,000,000,000 pounds of milk and cream, an increase of 2,000,000,000 pounds over the quantity consumed in 1925.

Society Girl Heads Personnel Business

New York.—Miss Jessie Jerome Fanshawe, daughter of the late William S. Fanshawe, banker, and well-known socially, is heading a successful business venture of her own. It was learned.
 She maintains a bureau of personal service, with a force of workers.
 Miss Fanshawe's service is novel in that it does things for people that they ordinarily find troublesome to do themselves. For instance, she will close a town house or apartment, after a family has gone to Europe or Newport, and then set the house in order for their return.
 She provides chaperons for debutantes during the season in town, and also fills rush orders from hostesses who are giving dinners either at their town or country residences and who want some form of entertainment.
 Recently during a charity drive, Miss Fanshawe was called upon to follow up in some way the appeal that had been made to thousands by letter. She immediately put in three special telephones, engaged girls with "attractive" voices and 5,000 telephone calls were made.

Dublin.—A half-crown horse, a florin salmon, a shilling bull, a sixpenny Irish wolfhound, a threepenny hare, a penny hen with brood, a halfpenny pig with litter and a farthing woodcock are the designs emblematic of Ireland's products, which will be seen on the new Irish Free State coins shortly to be issued. But Ireland had to go out of the country for patterns, for a young Yorkshireman designed them.

The Value of an Insurance Trust

There is no longer any debate about the value of Life Insurance for men in every walk of life.

The value of an Insurance Trust whereby the beneficiary is spared the risk and trouble of investing an insurance fund, is also plain.

Invest in an ELGIN watch as you'd invest in a home

THE standing of substantial men and women in any community is judged, largely, by the homes and securities they own.

In a great many instances, they have found it advisable to make such purchases out of income rather than directly out of pocket.

You can follow their good example in the purchase of an Elgin Watch, a gilt-edge investment that pays daily dividends of service and satisfaction for a lifetime.

Through our Satisfied Owner Plan, you make only a small initial payment; the balance is divided over many satisfied months... you pay for your Elgin while you're enjoying it.
