and burned two boys that they died at the Centre County hospital between eleven and twelve o'clock the same morning, while a third boy is still in the hospital recovering from the burns he sustained.

The children were all sons of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Corage. The two who association on a good financial footing died were Joseph, aged 11 years, and Daniel, aged 5. The one in the hospital is Angelo, aged 9.

Just how the accident happened has not yet been revealed. The paint was being used on the roofs of the company's houses, standing in a row near the main plant. The men who were doing the painting were Wilbur Saxion and Harry Eckenroth. Asphalt paint is decidedly heavy and stiff and has to be heated before it is applied to the roof. For this purpose the men had a small fire some fifty feet or more distant from the barrel of paint. The barrel was lying on its side with the bung open. One of the men had poured out a bucket of the paint, heated it to the required temperature and just crawled up onto the roof when the explosion occurred. Both men described it as terrific. One end of the barrel was blown out and the empty barrel was blown entirely over the house on which the men were working, landing about a hundred feet away. The paint caught late Charles McClellan, has been leas- of the explosion were the agonized fire and mingled with the detonation cries of the burned children. Their clothing was on fire but the flames were quickly extinguished by the crowd of people attracted to the scene by the noise of the explosion. Tuesday morning, the desertion and Joseph and Daniel were terribly burned on the head, face, arms and upper portion of the body while Angelo's burns are mostly on his legs and the lower portion of the body. A hurry call was sent in for the ambulance and quickly as possible the burned children were brought to the hospital, but two of them were so badly burned that their lives could not be saved. Angelo, however, will likely recover. Just what caused the explosion of the barrel of paint has not been definitely determined. The three boys had been playing around the house on which the painters were working, which was occupied by Albert Alterio, and naturally were back and forth between the fire and the paint barrel.

There is a possibility that one of them may have lighted a match for the purpose of looking into the open bung of the barrel and thus ignited the accumalation of gas in it which then of her unique, modern version of Commission on November 14th, when ed in the Coll and later in the Eck- exploded. A Correction.

In the Watchman issue of October 14 we undertook to say something complimentary of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Workman, of Mingoville.

It appears to have been a badly bungled up attempt and expressed awkwardly enough to convey the impression to some that their living happily was dependent on the post-office down there.

Certainly we did not intend to convey any such an impression, for while the post-office at Mingoville is now a very well paying one the Workmans are by no means dependent on it.

Mrs. Workman was made post-mistress because she passed the civil service examination very high and had well-known publicity experts of the coungiven splendid service as clerk in the office for five years.

While it is true, as we stated, that 42-1t the phenomenal growth in the busishipments of baby-chicks from the Hockman hatchery there, Mr. and Mrs. Workman didn't solicit that business, as we stated. It went to their office voluntarily because it was most convenient and, besides, was
