

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

Centre county has three members in Pennsylvania's 400-bushel potato club.

Among those who will take examinations to qualify as life insurance agents, at Williamsport, tomorrow, is William F. Colyer, of Centre Hall.

While doing some work in the yard, at his home on east Curtin street on Monday, George C. Bingham slipped and fell, fracturing his collar bone.

The Brockerhoff house dining room will be closed over Christmas, from Friday evening until Tuesday morning, and no special Christmas dinner will be served.

Following the cold snap of last Friday and Saturday, when the mercury was down to within a few degrees of zero, it moderated sufficiently to rain all day on Sunday.

Orvis Richardson, of Spring Mills, was arrested last week on the charge of passing a worthless check with a forged signature. In default of $1,000 bail he was remanded to the Centre county jail.

Next Wednesday will be the shortest day in the year and the beginning of the winter season. "As the days lengthen the cold strengthens," is an old saw that invariably proves true.

Capt. W. Frederick Reynolds, yesterday morning, entered upon his duties as general manager of the Potter-Hoy hardware store, a new position created to relieve James H. Potter, the head of the firm, from so much responsibility.

The Bellefonte High school basketball season will open this evening when they will play Lewistown High, of the Mountain league, on the Y. M. C. A. floor. If the boys play as good a game in the cage as the football team did on the gridiron, they should have a successful season.

Miss Nina Lamb has resigned her position in the office of the Bellefonte silk mill, where she has worked for seven years to accept a clerkship in the First National Bank, a vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Miss Evaline Troup. She will begin work in her new position next week.

After having lived in his home at Hartford, Conn., for seventeen years George M. Armor, former Bellefonter, has been pushed out of it by the encroachment of business. A large office building is to be erected on the site and George has found a new home in another part of the city.

Frank B. Foster, owner and proprietor of Sycamore farms, Phoenixville, Pa., has presented the animal husbandry department of the Pennsylvania State College with a fine young Percheron stallion. The sire, "Lord Lact," placed third at the recent International livestock exhibition in Chicago and it was right from the show stall that Mr. Foster purchased him and turned him over to the College.

At a meeting of the executive board of Governor Fisher's cabinet, last Friday, the State Highway Department's plans for the reorganization of that department with the inauguration of the new year were approved in detail, which does not look as if the effort being put forth on the part of Bellefonte citizens to have the district offices retained here instead of moved to Clearfield has met with success.

Star gazers need not be surprised, next week, if they discover something unusual in the northern sky, as Skjellerup's comet is sailing rapidly toward the sun and, it is reported by astronomers, will be plainly visible to the naked eye beginning on Sunday and continuing through Christmas week. On Christmas day the position of the comet should be about forty-five degrees between the sun and the north star.

Most of the people in Bellefonte are naturally interested in their Christmas shopping but even that becomes wearisome if persisted in all the time, so why not take off your evenings and go to the scenic and watch the motion pictures. They will interest and amuse you and afford just the relaxation needed to relieve the strain of overwrought nerves. The biggest and best programs to be seen in Bellefonte are shown at the Scenic.

The Electric Supply Company, of Bellefonte, was one of the bidders on rewiring and installing new fixtures in the Central State Normal School building, at Lock Haven, and missed getting the contract when it was awarded, last week, by a matter of $375. To be exact they were just $370 higher than the low bid, which was $18,000 submitted by B. F. Ininger, of Lancaster, who got the job. The bids ranged all the way from $18,000 to $24,000.

Miss Mignot has been with the Sutton Engineering Co. for several years. Her position with the company has now been given to Miss Edith Olsen, of Boston, Mass.

THE 1927 DEER SEASON

CLOSED YESTERDAY

Game Wardens Estimate Biggest Kill Ever Made in This Section of State.

The 1927 deer hunting season closed last evening, and while it has been utterly impossible to get even a fairly accurate account of the number of deer killed in the county, game wardens proclaim it the best season ever known in this section of the State and declare that a complete record would probably show one thousand or more deer as having been the result of the two weeks' hunt. Of the hundreds of hunting parties that scoured every piece of woodland in Centre county it was quite noticeable that comparatively few, probably less than a dozen, failed to get at least one deer, while upwards of fifty camps got their limit of six. Dozens of others got four and five, and from that down to one and two.

The Foster crowd, at State College, got their limit and returned home early last week.

The McMullen-Yarnell party, hunted in Rag valley almost a week without getting anything, then on Tuesday of last week they bagged a deer, slaughtered a 250-pound bear on Wednesday and got another buck on Thursday.

On Saturday upwards of twenty automobiles passed through Bellefonte carrying hunters from the Seven mountains district to their homes in the western part of the State and every car had from one to three deer tied onto it. One car had a monster bull elk, four-pronged, tied on the running board, but the driver went through town so fast that his identity could not be learned, or where he had bagged the elk.

Additional reports from the western section of the county include the Dreihelbis party, 6 bucks.

- The Neidigh hunting club, 5.
- The Roosevelt club, 3.
- The Carl-Herman crowd, 2.
- The Rossman party, 2.
- The Washington hunt club, 3.
- The Gearhart party, 4.
- The Indiana camp, 2.
- The Bellwood camp, 3.

Among the day hunters who got their deer were Blanchard Parsons, a 4-point; Irvin Graham, 3-point; Lloyd Ripka, 4-point; Charles Cronemiller, 3-point; Mack Cronemiller, 4-point; Roy Shoemaker, 4-point; Frank Miller, 3-point; Lawrence Wieland, 4-point; Guy Wieland, 4-point; Russell Miller, 4-point; Frank Davis, 4-point; Joe Harpster, 3-point; Alfred Rossman, 3-point; R. E. Rossman, 4-point; Guy Rossman, 4-point; Frank Cronemiller, 3-point; Miss Ella Gummo, 3-point; Mrs. Emma Wertz, 4-point; Luther Carper, 3-point; O. A. Knight, 160-pound bear; Robert Campbell, an 18-pointer which weighed 200 pounds; David Slagle, a 20-pointer weighing 190 pounds; John Gummo, an 18-pointer which weighed over 200 pounds. W. D. Johnson wounded a big bear but failed to get him.

ACADEMY STUDENTS KILL BUCK.

Stories of the many deer that were being killed naturally excited a number of Bellefonte Academy students, who have hunting proclivities, and securing permission from headmaster James R. Hughes, nine of them organized a hunting party and went onto Nittany mountain, on Saturday morning in quest of the fleet-footed animals. Not being acquainted with the mountain the boys planned to drive along through the woods with in halting distance of one another but they soon became scattered and the drive became a personally conducted tour. About the middle of the forenoon one of the students, Harry Brewer, of Charleroi, espied a big buck coming his way and when it got within range he drew aim, fired and badly wounded the animal, sending two more bullets after it, which ended his supply of ammunition. The blood from the deer left a well-defined trail and he took up the chase, following it back and forth across the mountain until he had traveled some seven or eight miles, when the wounded buck finally took refuge in the impounding dam of Rockview penitentiary. Brewer had no more ammunition to shoot with but the buck was almost done for, so he managed to frighten him out of the water, then clubbed him to death with his gun. The buck had four prongs and weighed over 150 pounds. A guard at the penitentiary telephoned the Academy of Brewer's success and requested that a car be sent out to bring the deer to Bellefonte, which was done.

As Brewer had become separated from all the others in the party none of them knew of his exploit until they returned home about noontime, but they all shared in the venison dinner this week.

In addition to being hunters two Academy students are proving quite adept at trapping fur-bearing animals. They are Baird Hershey, of Pittsburgh, and Thomas Cerselmo, of Philadelphia, who in just twenty-one days trapped twenty-one animals—muskrats, opossums and skunks—and have their pelts all nailed up drying.

And now that the hunting season is over a little retrospection on the financial cost of same might be interesting. County treasurer J. O. Heverly issued 6,230 resident hunters' licenses which at two dollars per amount to $12,460. He also issued 85 non-resident licenses at $15 per, a total of $1,275, which made a grand total of $13,735 spent for licenses before the hunter ever started to the woods. Concluding that the hunter owned his gun he had to purchase ammunition, which would probably cost him another two dollars. Then he had his camp expenses, which various hunters informed the writer were approximately ten dollars a week, not counting transportation. While every hunter who took out a license did not go out for deer it is a conservative estimate that at least five thousand of them did, and the ammunition and camp expenses of that number would foot up $60,000. Of course a large number of the hunters are farmers and most of their eatables they took from their own larder, so that the actual cost to them would not be so great.

Hassell B. Martin, son of Mrs. Ely Martin, and Orvis N. Morrison, son of Mrs. Edna Morrison, both of Bellefonte, have enlisted in the regular army and were sent from New York to Galveston, Texas, on the army transport "Chateau Thierry."

While trout fishing on Benner run, early last summer, Harold Harvey, of Nanty-Glo, lost a valuable gold watch. He posted a notice of his loss on the camp of the Unionville Rod and Gun club. Members of the club occupied the camp during the first week of the hunting season and one day while out on the trail J. N. Holt found Mr. Harvey's watch and will return it to the owner if he has not already done so.

The grand jury for the December term of court will convene on Monday morning to begin its work upon the various bills of indictment to be presented by district attorney John G. Love, in order to have cases ready for trial when court convenes on Tuesday morning. While there are a number of cases on the docket to be disposed of none of them is of a very serious nature and should not take a great deal of time. Only four common pleas cases are down for trial at the December sessions, so that both the first and second week of court are not likely to last over three or four days.

Motorists on the Nittany Valley highway, last Saturday evening, ran into a trap in the shape of a big plank laid across the road down near the old Gatesburg mine bank. Eight cars went over the plank before it was removed, five of them being slightly damaged. An investigation disclosed the fact that the plank had been placed there by Joe Gailicki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Gailicki, who live at the old Gatesburg bank. The lad is sixteen years old and because some of the family came to Bellefonte to attend the movies and would not bring him along he became piqued and dragged the plank across the road. The lad was arrested and at a hearing before Squire S. Kline Woodring was held for action by the Juvenile court.

PENN STATE STUDENT

DIES OF PISTOL SHOT

Playfully Pulls Trigger of Gun and Shoots Self in Head.

Clarence M. Pierson, aged 19 years, a Sophomore at State College, died at the Centre County hospital, at 5:20 o'clock on Wednesday evening as the result of a revolver shot in the head, self-inflicted. Pierson roomed at the home of Frank Miller, with another Sophomore, Russell O'Neil, of Johnstown. The young men were in their room, about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when Pierson decided to examine a revolver which he had purchased six weeks ago to see what made the cylinder stick. He supposed the weapon unloaded and playfully placed the muzzle to his right temple he remarked, "Now we'll see if it works." He pulled the trigger, there was a loud report and Pierson sank to the floor, the bullet having passed through his head.

He was quickly brought to the Centre County hospital, but passed away at 5:20 o'clock without regaining consciousness. An inquest was held by justice of the peace John M. Keichline, on Wednesday evening, the jury deciding that the young man came to his death as the result of a revolver shot in the head, self-inflicted.

Pierson was enrolled in the course in chemistry and according to the college authorities had a good record. The body was prepared for burial and sent to his home at Lansdowne.
