"KING OF KINGS"

SCORES TRIUMPH

Begins Its Second and Last Week at Nixon, in Pittsburgh on Monday. Matinee, January 9.

Cecil B. DeMille's "King of Kings," which on New Years Day opened an engagement at the Nixon, Pittsburgh. justifies all the praise that has been given of it. So great was the demand to see the tremendous spectacle that its engagement has been extended one about in Matthew, Mark, Luke and John are easily recognizable by each spectator, even without the accompanying titles on the screen. Unquestionably the grandest characterization is H. B. Warner in the role of Jesus of Nazareth, first portrayed as the artisan Healer in Galilee, next as the Divine Man Who cleansed the Temple, finally identified by His disciples and by the centurion who saw Him dying on the Cross: "Truly, This was the Son of God!" Mr. Warner acts the greatest of historical roles with a fine reverence and sympathy and yet with a true humanity not devoid of glints of humor. Ernest Torrence is a wonderful St. Peter, while Joseph Schildkraut contributes a marvelous study of Judas the false disciple who betrays his Master for thirty pieces of silver. Set against the portrayal of the Divine Man by Warner are two powerful worldly characters, the High Priest Caiaphas portrayed by Rudolph Schildkraut and the Roman Governor Pilate, portrayed by Victor Varconi. These are likewise grand studies, the one of cruel craftiness, the other of imperious Pagan authority with which, however, doubt and hesitation law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Showers, of Lock Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Mingle were recent guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George McCormick, at Potters Mills.

Mrs. George Weaver went to Bellefonte, Saturday, where she remained until Monday, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Ellsworth E. Ardery.

Mrs. J. G. Eisenhauer had as brief callers her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Grove and two small daughters, of Williamsport.

Mrs. N. J. Krape and son, H. D. Krape, gave a dinner on New Years. Mr. and Mrs. William Hosterman and family and John F. Krape and family were present.

Charles Summers came up from Williamsport and spent Christmas with his two sisters, Mrs. John Wolf and Miss Eliza Summers, and brother, D. K. Summers, and brother, T. K. Summers.
