

SCENIC THEATRE

HOME OF BELLEFONTE'S GREATEST PHOTOPLAYS

The Scenic, beginning next week, presents an entirely new program planned long ago, to become effective on completion of the New State Theatre. It will give a good show at a reduced rate to conform to all pocketbooks and wishes. A line of good features, with extras not at 25 and 35 cent prices, but 10 and 15 cent, where they properly belong.

We have been compelled to ask higher prices for the superior shows we have been giving the people because the costs and requirements demanded it and now that we will have a splendid new Theatre in which to run these shows the people will get the regular entertainment they have been having at the proper prices so as to fit every need. With nightly change of show consisting of Feature, Comedy and Single Reels all for fifteen cents we feel sure the movie patrons will be highly pleased at our efforts to meet their demands.

The miscellaneous shower given at the E. T. Parsons home, last Thursday evening, for Mr. and Mrs. John J. Donley was a success in every particular. The young people received an abundant supply of kitchen utensils as well as many other things which will help equip their future home. Refreshments were served during the evening and everybody had a most enjoyable time.

—One of the demonstrations in poultry, given at the farm show in Harrisburg, on Monday, was by three boys from Gregg township, Centre county, John Stover, Rufus Hettinger and Lester Rossman.

Escaped Convict Surrenders to Police in Philadelphia.

William Baker, 21 years old, who escaped from Rockview penitentiary on December 4th, 1924, voluntarily surrendered to the police in Philadelphia on Sunday. Baker had been sent up from Mifflin county for three and a half to seven years for larceny and jail breaking. Penitentiary authorities had no trace of him from the night of his escape until they received notice of his voluntary surrender in Philadelphia on Sunday. Baker was brought to Bellefonte on Tuesday afternoon.

When the man was brought before Judge Fleming for sentence, on Wednesday morning, he stated that he was assisted in his escape by a young man from Lewistown with a motorcycle. That he had been sent up for assisting the young man in question in breaking out of the Mifflin county jail and he was paying the debt by helping him get away from Rockview. Judge Fleming gave him an extra three years and nine months to seven and a half years. In the meantime authorities are after the man who helped him escape.
