

After Winter's Colds

It is Wise to Check Up on the Kidneys.

WATCH your kidneys after colds and grip! When the kidneys slow up, impurities remain in the blood and are apt to make one tired and achy with headaches, dizziness and often nagging backache. A common warning is scanty or burning secretions. Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and aid in the elimination of waste impurities. Are endorsed by users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Get $260,000 From Defaulting Gas Dealers.

Due to an intensive drive which the gasoline bureau of the auditor general's department is making against defaulting gasoline station owners, collection of delinquent taxes is expected to exceed $260,000 for the past two months, General Edward Martin, said today.

Immediately after the appointment of C. E. Carothers to head the bureau the movement to collect gasoline taxes retained by dishonest dealers was started. Keeping a close check on frequent changes in ownership of the stations and starting legal action immediately when other methods fail has made the present collection rate possible, Carothers said.

Fishing License to Cost More.

Fishing licenses will cost the purchaser fifty cents more this year than in previous years. The extra 50 cents will be used to restock streams, it is claimed.

Anglers, who have so far procured licenses have not complained of paying the increase and think the idea a good one, as the streams, especially in this locality, need restocking.

The fee is now $1.60 for resident licenses. Non-resident fishing license fee is reciprocal, but in no instance is the fee to be less than $2.50.

ARTIFICIAL HEAT SAVES ORCHARDS.

The weather bureau's frost forecasting service in the Pacific coast fruit belt, which enables orchardists to light their oil heaters and save their crops, is being extended to "smoke" forecasting for the benefit of nearby cities.

With the demonstration in recent years of the amazing accuracy of the frost forecasting service, which is maintained jointly by the weather bureau and the orchardists, confidence in the artificial heating of orchards has grown until now it is utilized on a tremendous scale.

In the citrus industries alone, which brings California $100,000,000 a year, 2,500,000 oil heaters are used to protect about 50,000 acres of orange and lemon trees. Although these heaters have been greatly improved in the last few years, they give off clouds of soot which, drifting into cities, cause anguish to housewives and financial loss to merchants.

Although thousands of suggestions have been made and numerous patents obtained, the records in the office of J. B. Kincer, chief of the division of agricultural meteorology of the weather bureau, show no satisfactory substitute for the oil heaters. So the new smoke forecasting service has been undertaken to make the best of what appears to be a necessary evil.

The frost and smoke forecasts are issued late in the day whenever dangerous temperatures are indicated and are distributed by telephone and radio in ample time to permit the orchardists to light their heaters.

Eight experts are employed in this forecasting, under the direction of F. D. Young, the meteorologist who began it single handed. They base their calculations on study of the regular daily weather map in conjunction with a hygrometric formula which takes into consideration local humidity and temperature conditions.

In one season, during which he issued 96 forecasts, Young has been within two degrees of accuracy 94 per cent of the time. Many of his warnings predicted low temperatures in terms of fractions—27.1 degrees, for instance—and 68 of the 96 were precisely accurate, while 15 others were less than one degree away from the actual point at which the mercury stopped descending in the thermometer. His largest error in that year was five degrees, and that is one incident in his life which he finds it hard to forget.

Most of the cold snaps which threaten the California fruit crop develop when an area of low pressure moves out of Arizona or southern California and an era of high pressure from Nevada swings in. The frost forecasters remain in this region until the danger passes in February, and then they move north into the deciduous fruit section of Washington and Oregon.

85 Per Cent of Criminals Use Automobiles to Carry on Crime.

That the automobile is a prime necessity in a life of crime was revealed in an examination of prison records recently, in California.

More than 85 per cent of the 4,000 inmates of San Quentin used an automobile to assist them in committing the offenses for which they are imprisoned, "histories" on file there show.

Highwaymen head the list. Almost without exception they used automobiles for the holdup and quick getaway.

Check passers find automobiles essential to the "profession." The open highway beckons to all "paper hangers" after cleaning up a town.

Burglary records show that in almost every case the loot was recovered in automobiles.

Few prisoners were captured on trains or used them as a means of escape. Some arrests occurred on debarkation from steamers. But records show invariably the automobile was turned to as a means of escape.

Long Distance Drive is Error of Many Golfers.

The worst peril to the average golfer is the temptation of distance. He feels that he must hit the ball hard to make it travel—and the result is often that he loses the rhythm of his stroke.

Co-ordinating power with the rhythm, says the American Golfer, is the trick that one must learn to achieve maximum driving. Correct form is essential. But the emphasis on distance, even so, is often overstressed.

The outstanding difference between the good amateur and the professional, says Vivien Doran, author of the article, is that the professional's consistency from the tee offsets the amateur's frequent superiority on the green. The reason for this is simply that the money player doesn't take his tee shot too seriously. He knows the distance he can make, and what little advantage his opponent may have in that department he will attempt to offset by more careful approach shots.

Alaska Seeks Patrol Like Canadian Police.

Agitation for a patrol system like that of the Canadian mounted police has grown out of the recent disappearance of two old-time prospectors.

Kris Kline, one of the missing men, was traced to a crevasse across the glacier trail. The other, Mike Trappe, disappeared while journeying from Talkeetna to Susitna, a distance of 60 miles. Both are believed to have perished.

It developed that regulations do not permit a marshal or deputy marshal to leave the beaten highways to investigate alleged crime or to give aid to men in distress, unless so ordered by the district court and by it provided with funds to defray expenses.

A force patterned after the Canadian organization, it is pointed out, would find much useful service to perform in this territory, searching out lost men and running down fugitives.
