HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

Parts for Old Model Fords to be Made Until the Last One Has Gone to the Boneyard.

The manufacture of replacement parts for the millions of Model "T" Fords still in daily use continues to demand nearly one third the production capacity of Ford plants in Detroit.

Ford officials estimate, from reports of dealers all over the country, that there are still approximately eight millions of the Model "T" cars in constant use in the United States. Some of these cars are many years old. Every now and then there are reports of Ford cars of the old brass-bound radiator types of twelve or fourteen years ago, still running after more than a hundred thousand miles of service.

The newest of the Model "T" Fords is now nearly a year old, for the production of assembled Model "T" cars was suspended in May 1927, to make way for the new Model "A."

This suspension of assembled Model "T" cars did not affect the production schedule of Model "T" replacement parts, however. Throughout the past year the manufacture of Model "T" parts continued to occupy about one third the production capacity of the Ford plants.

A few days ago newspaper correspondents at Detroit asked Henry Ford how long he expected to continue making parts for Model "T" cars.

"Until the last Model 'T' is off the roads," Mr. Ford replied promptly. Then he added: "That may be ten years, but we do not intend to allow any Ford car ever to become obsolete as long as it can be made useful with reasonable replacements."

Ford engineers, from tests and observations made over a long period of years, have estimated that the average useful life of a Model "T" Ford car is about seven years.

Home Needs Compel 2,000,000 Wives to Seek Gainful Work.

One out of every 11 married women in the United States is now working—from sheer necessity, except in a few isolated cases, according to a recent news dispatch.

Miss Mary Anderson, head of the Women's Bureau of the Labor Department states that 93 per cent of the 2,000,000 married women gainfully employed, work to assist in supplying their families with food, shelter and clothing.

"Very few women choose to carry two jobs for the pleasure of doing it," Miss Anderson said. "Only about two per cent of the employed married women work for luxuries or a career."

There are now more than 8,500,000 employed women in the United States. One out of every four of the women wage earners is married. Women are in American industry to

They take to employment young—when they leave school, and if they stop work to get married, it is only a short time before circumstances force them back to their tasks again. Failure of husbands to make adequate incomes is the cause.

Miss Anderson said that the Labor Department lists 572 gainful occupations and that women are employed in all but 35 of these. She said the largest percentage of employed married women are engaged in agriculture, domestic, manufacturing, clerical and saleslady pursuits.
