

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

The trout will now have a rest until the fifteenth of next April.

October 15th is the date set for the opening of the Centre county teachers' institute this year.

Bellefonte firemen were not largely represented at the district firemen's convention held at Clearfield Wednesday and yesterday.

William Garman Jr., is the name given to the little son born Tuesday night, to Mr. and Mrs. John Garman of Howard street. The lad is their first son, but second child.

Mrs. S. D. Burris, of Centre Hall, suffered a stroke of paralysis, last Friday, and her condition since has been of such a serious nature that her children have all been summoned home.

Helen Tressler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tressler, who live out near the aviation field, broke the bones in one of her ankles on the sliding board at Hecla park, last Thursday afternoon.

The Delphian clubs, of Tyrone and Altoona, numbering over one hundred women, will be guests of Mrs. Robert Garman at Edgefonte, today. The Robert Garman family, of Tyrone, are occupying Edgefonte for a part of the month of August.

At a well attended meeting of the Centre County Motor Club, last Wednesday evening, a resolution was passed reducing the annual dues from $6.75 to $5.00. It was the opinion of the motorists that the reduction would result in an increased membership.

In order to experience the delights of outdoor life without actually camping in the mountains where the snakes and wild animals hold forth, Walter C. Cohen has leased the old eating house, on Hecla park, and will spend a fortnight there with his family.

The Nighthart barber shop in the Odd Fellows building was cleaned out, on Monday, and the room turned over to the Central Pennsylvania Gas company. The Maytag company, however, will retain possession of the room they occupy until the first of next April.

For several weeks past new potatoes have been selling in Bellefonte at less than a dollar a bushel, to be exact, at 23 cents the peck. This is the lowest price for this time of year in many years. If the late crop is as prolific as the early potatoes there will be no dearth of tubers this year.

The Zeigler family reunion will be held at Hecla park on Tuesday of next week, August 7th. The original date for this gathering was Wednesday, the 8th, but because of a mix-up in dates in the park schedule it has been necessary to change the day to the 7th. Members of the clan will please note the change.

William J. Parker, of Bellefonte, is under one thousand dollars bail for his appearance before the Lycoming county court to answer to the charge of illegal possession and transportation of intoxicating liquor. Parker was arrested near Williamsport, last Friday, while hauling a truck load of supposed beer.

Wetzler's Junior band, of Milesburg, proved such a big drawing card at its Sunday afternoon concert at Hecla park about a month ago that it has been scheduled for another concert on Sunday afternoon. If there is anybody in Centre county who has not heard this band they can go to the park, on Sunday, and hear the boys play.

Woodring & Spotts, garage proprietors of Port Matilda, are the possessors of a big moving van fashioned out of one of the old trolley cars of the abandoned Centre and Clearfield Railway company, at Phillipsburg. While it is large enough for most any purpose it is somewhat unwieldy and hard to navigate around sharp curves.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Wynn Fredericks, of Lock Haven, are receiving congratulations on the birth of their first daughter, born Friday July 27th. The child, who is the sixth great-grand child of Mrs. Samuel Sheffer, of Bellefonte, will be named Marion, for its maternal grandmother, Mrs. Fredericks being the elder daughter of Mrs. Paul Sheffer.

Ninety-eight examinations were made at the extension chest clinic, held in the public building, on Howard street, on Wednesday, and about fifty people had to be turned away because of lack of time to make the examinations. The examining physicians were Dr. A. S. Keck, of Altoona; Dr. H. C. Frantz, of Huntingdon, and Dr. C. C. Cresson, of State College. They were assisted by Miss Emma Cross, local state nurse, and Miss Rose Prendegast, of Harrisburg.

In digging the ditch for the street mains of the Central Pennsylvania Gas company, at the intersection of High and Spring streets, last Thursday, workmen uncovered what they believed on old gas pipe and almost cut it in two before they discovered it to be the underground electric cable which supplies current to the boulevard lights. As there was no current in the cable at the time the men escaped a shock and the damage was repaired in time for turning on the lights in the evening.

CENTRAL PENNA. GAS CO. MAKING MARKED PROGRESS. Big Plant Shaping Up and Distribution System Being Rushed to Completion.

Marked progress is daily noted in the development of the new gas company in all its phases—construction of the gas manufacturing plant, high pressure transmission line, distribution system, service connection, and of the commercial department. To obtain a picture of the situation as it stands today one must take a trip through the territory covered. The place where the gas will be manufactured should be the first object of inspection. Near the plant site at Axe Mann workmen of the Pennsylvania Railroad company can be seen cutting the main track on the Lewisburg branch and placing a switch for a siding, over which coal and oil, the raw materials for gas manufacture, will be delivered to the plant after being shipped in from western Pennsylvania fields. A concrete retaining wall and piers for an elevated trestle is being erected by the gas company's crew. It is already easy to visualize how the coal will be dumped from the cars between the piers.

Two separate building operations attract the visitor's attention. The larger one, next to the trestle, will carry the "generator building," in which the gas generators and also the boilers will be housed. As a matter of fact, and this will be surprising to many, the principle raw product for the gas to be made will be water, not coal. It will be the main task of the boilers to produce the necessary steam which, in the generators, will be decomposed into hydrogen and oxygen upon coming in contact with hot coal. On the western end of the generator building the foundation for a high brick stack is being built, and beyond this a flat, round cake of concrete excites the inquisitive mind. A steel holder, 52 feet in diameter and 45 feet high will be placed on top of this cake to serve as a recipient for the raw, hot gas as it leaves the generators.

Next in order is a smaller unit, the "machinery building," constructed of steel and masonry, and which is now in course of erection. After leaving the above mentioned holder, which the engineer in charge terms a "relief holder," the gas passes through a cooler and condenser, which will be built close to the holder, then enters the smaller building. There the gas will go through a thorough washing and cleansing process, then leaves the building to pass through a purifier in which the sulphur will be removed from the gas. This purifier will have an unusually large capacity, to exclude any possibility of odor in rooms where gas is burning.

Then the gas will again enter the machinery building where it will be metered and finally go over to the storage holder. The foundation for this holder is on the rear end of the lot and will have a diameter of 76 feet. It might here be mentioned that 655 bags of cement were used in the concrete for the big cake foundation for the holder. The steel tank on this foundation will extend 80 feet in the air and will consist of three telescoping sections. The gas in this holder will be of little more than atmospheric pressure, and the pipes which are to convey the gas to Bellefonte and State College would have to be more than a foot in diameter if the gas would be transmitted at this pressure. So, after leaving the storage holder the gas is returned to the machinery building and compressed to whatever pressure may be necessary to send it through the six inch mains to Bellefonte and State College. In order to insure absolute continuity of service once the gas is turned on all machinery and equipment at the plant will be provided in duplicate.

From the plant one can follow the path the gas will take along the highway to Bellefonte. This part of the transmission pipe line has already been installed and tested, and will be connected with the Bellefonte distribution system at a point near Wagner's flouring mill. There the pressure will be reduced to the amount necessary for ranges and other home appliances.

Before going into Bellefonte turn around and follow the transmission line past the plant to Pleasant Gap and on its way to State College. At Pleasant Gap a short tap extends through the village to supply gas to the residents there and eventually to extend across the mountain to Centre Hall. Continuing the trip toward State College the crew laying the transmission line is finally overtaken at Lemont, having completed their work that far. The laying of this line is in charge of the Rich Pipe Line company, of Bradford, and the speed with which they are doing the work has never been known in this part of the country. The work is being done under the inspection of the State Highway Department, and so far has met all the high pressure tests conducted by the gas company. The Rich company will also have charge of laying all the main piping system in State College.

The gas company has secured a display room in the Packard garage, at State College, where a courteous attendant is on hand to explain the different sizes and makes of hot water heaters, ranges and other gas appliances.

The Bellefonte distribution system is being laid by the gas company's own crew. Anyone driving through the streets and alleys of Bellefonte don't have to detour on account of the digging operations, as all crossings are kept free, and at times of heavy traffic an employee of the company directs cars with all the seriousness of a traffic policeman.

The opinion has been expressed that in years to come settling will occur where the pipes have been laid. It might here be mentioned that road material has been ordered which, it is claimed, will make a solid cover. This material will be applied after the ground has had reasonable natural settling. Any eventual later settling in the streets will naturally be taken care of immediately by the gas company.

Service lines have already been installed in houses in Bellefonte for which applications have been filed. The rate at which these applications are coming in is astonishing. Three hundred people have already signed the red application card, and an average of thirty cards are being received daily.

A question has been brought up as to when charges will begin. The company will commence to charge a consumer with the day he actually receives gas service and bills will be rendered the following month.

A permanent sales office has finally been secured in Bellefonte. The former Nighthart barber shop, on the Diamond, was considered the best location obtainable. Before the remodeling program will be carried through the store will serve as a display room for all kinds of gas appliances. In addition to beautiful designs of gas ranges, hot water heaters, hot plates, radiant heaters, which give the home the romance of the old fire place, there will be a few new achievements of present day technique, such as gas house heating furnaces and gas refrigerators, which will be on display. The public is invited to "come in and look them over."

There are now 150 men working on the construction of this gas property only a very few of whom are from outside of Centre county. The benefit the town will derive from this activity, not counting the direct business placed with local dealers, should not be considered in figures but primarily from a national standpoint. Just as an active member of a gang of workmen is of value to the boss, so is the entire company of value to the community, and the community in turn can consider itself as a helpful part collaborating in the country's progress.

Brungard Family will Picnic at Hecla Park August 18th.

The fifth annual reunion of the Brungard family will be held at Hecla park on Saturday, August 18th. This will be one of the largest clan gatherings in Centre county as the "Freundschaft" includes more than twelve hundred members. Arrangements for the outing are in the hands of the executive committee and a very attractive program is being prepared.

The officers of the association are J. B. Brungard, of Rebersburg, president and genealogist; Miss Vera Catharine Brungard, Washington, D. C., historian; vice president, W. Harrison Walker, Bellefonte; Dr. G. S. Frank and J. C. Hosterman, Millheim; John Wert, Tusseyville; Noah Kremer, Loganton; Luther M. Brungard and Alice McKibben, Salona; Wallace Brungard, Glen Rock, and A. Frank Hockman, Mingoville. Dr. Fred E. Gutelins, of Millheim, is secretary, and C. M. Bierly, Rebersburg, treasurer.

Fair and Festival Nets $650.00 for Wetzler Junior Band.

The treasury of the Wetzler Junior band has been enriched to the amount of $650.00 by the big fair and festival held at Milesburg last Friday and Saturday evenings by the band auxiliary. The total receipts were in excess of nine hundred dollars but the expenses were quite heavy. When all are in and paid, however, the net will be the sum above named.

Just at this point we want to say that Mr. Wetzler now bids fair to achieve his long cherished ambition, to have the biggest and best boys and girls band in the State. But in accomplishing that result he has also outgrown the capacity of the Odd Fellows hall, in Milesburg, which the band has used to practice in. He is now up against the proposition of erecting a building big enough to hold his band, and this is the object now in view.

Centre County Threshermen will Meet Tomorrow.

A meeting of the Centre county Threshermen and Farmers' Protective association will be held in the grand jury room in the court house at 10 o'clock a. m., Saturday, August 4th. Important business will be considered at this meeting and a full attendance is desired. The very latest rulings upon compensation insurance and boiler inspection will be discussed at this meeting by competent authorities.

While playing at Hecla park, on Sunday afternoon, Ronald Houck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Houck, fell and broke his left arm between the wrist and the elbow.

BELLEFONTE COUNCIL MEETS GAMBLE MILL PROPERTY.

Bonafile Offer for Purchase of Same Made to Referee in Bankruptcy.

Some ten days or two weeks ago Lee Francis Lybarger, of Mifflinburg, referee in bankruptcy in charge of the affairs of Frank Mayer, confessed bankrupt, and formerly of Bellefonte, sent out notices of a meeting to be held at the offices of W. Harrison Walker, Bellefonte, at 10 o'clock a. m., July 31st, when the offer of Ush & Bashoar to take over the property of Mr. Mayer at their offer of $28,500 would be considered, and if no objections were filed by creditors the sale would be confirmed. The property in question is what is best known as the Gamble mill. It was originally sold by the late George M. Gamble to Ush & Bashoar, of Millersburg, who operated the plant less than a year then sold it to Frank Mayer. Mr. Mayer in due time became financially involved and went into bankruptcy, and the property is naturally up for disposition for the benefit of the creditors.

John Curtin is the trustee in bankruptcy and a few weeks ago put the property up at public sale. At that time the best bid received was $27,600, and the trustee refused to let the property go for that sum. Mrs. Gamble holds a mortgage against the property for $25,000 which with unpaid interest, etc., now totals about $28,500. Ush & Bashoar have a second mortgage for $10,000.

When the latter made their offer of $28,500 for the property it was with no thought of saving their own investment. They had a verbal offer from John McCoy to take the land and the water right for $22,500, while C. Y. Wagner offered to pay $5,000 for the machinery in the mill and $2,500 for the mill building.

For some years past members of the borough council have considered the advisability of purchasing the property, not so much for the intrinsic value of the plant but because it will give the town complete control of the water rights through the borough, both the race and Spring creek. The question of the purchase was discussed from all angles at two special meetings of council held last week, with the result that borough solicitor N. B. Spangler was empowered to go before Mr. Lybarger, on Tuesday, and make a tentative offer of $38,500 for the property. As the offer was very much better than the one from Ush & Bashoar, Mr. Lybarger continued final disposition of the matter until next Tuesday. In the meantime Mr. Spangler is engaged in solving the question as to the borough's legal status in making the purchase.

Should the borough get the property it is the purpose to utilize the power there to generate electricity to operate the pumps at the big spring. Councilmen are of the opinion that this can be done at a saving over the present cost of pumping. As there will be more power than the borough will be able to utilize to pump the water another scheme is to get the Bellefonte merchants to form a co-operative association and use the mill property as a cold storage plant. The excess water power would be ample to furnish constant refrigeration. Mr. Lybarger will be in Bellefonte again next Tuesday and by that time borough officials hope to have in concrete form ways and means to back up their offer of $38,500 for the property.

Seventeen Dozen Trout was Joe Thal's Record for Season.

Joe Thal, one of Bellefonte's most consistent trout fishermen, wound up his season's sport on Monday morning with a catch of seven nice trout, which made an even seventeen dozen, or 204 trout, he caught from April 15th to his last outing on Monday. The smallest trout he caught during the season measured nine inches and the largest seventeen.

Joe is a bait fisherman, never using the fly rod. His principal bait is the minnow. He knows every good fishing hole on Spring creek and Logan's branch, places where the big fellows are the most likely to be found. His reasons for preferring live bait to fly are that the small trout will take the fly and the big ones are wary about doing so. On the other hand the little fellows rarely go after a minnow while the big ones just eat 'em alive. That there is logic in Joe's reasoning is evidenced by his season's catch.

At a luncheon given by Mrs. J. M. Curtin, of Pittsburgh, last week, at the Harry Keller home on east Linn street, six of her neighborhood girl friends of High street, were the guests. The party included Mrs. Curtin and her sister, Mrs. John M. Shugert, who were born and spent all their earlier life in the Curtin home, now the Elks home; Mrs. Hiram M. Hiller, as Miss Blanche Hays, being a member of the William P. Wilson family, whose property was that now occupied by the Richelieu and Ritz theatres, while the Misses Anna and Mary Hoy and Mrs. Reynolds, were born and lived in the stone house owned by Roy Witmer and used by the Witmer Electrical supply home.

State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis, on Wednesday, sent out checks to all fourth-class schools in the State for the last semi-annual period of the State appropriation. The total amount received by Centre county schools was $92,963.
