

PENN STATE MEETS OLDEST RIVAL TOMORROW.

The oldest intercollegiate football rival of the Pennsylvania State College, Bucknell University, will bring its team to State College tomorrow, (Saturday), October 13, for the twenty second meeting of these institutions on the gridiron. Bucknell was the first opponent for Penn State, playing two football games in the season of 1887, and has since appeared frequently on the schedule of the Lion.

Of the 21 previous meetings Penn State has won 16, and Bucknell 4, while one ended without either side claiming a victory. An account of this game, which was played in 1888, appears in the Penn State record books without a score and with the brief comment that "the game ended in dispute over the referee's decision." Although Penn State has a much better record in victories for the entire period, recent scores have been close and last year the Bison surprised the football world by defeating the Nittany eleven 13 to 7.

With virtually the same team again in harness for this fall, Penn State will give Penn State one of the hardest games she has been called on to play so early in the season. Captain Wally Diehl, who got into the game last year but who did not figure in the scoring, McCormick, and Trimmer, are the only men from the Bison line-up of 1927 who will be missing this week. The rest of the team is made up of experienced veterans. To match this powerful team Penn State must depend on a team with six lettermen as a nucleus and reinforced with sophomores and one junior, Johnny Roepke, Lungren, Lesko, and Mahoney, four first string regulars last year, were lost through graduation in addition to eight other men who played in the Bucknell game but are no longer in college.

Marriage Licenses.

John Tutokey, and Sue Kalena, both of Hawk Run.

David Garrett Hill, of Crystal City, Mo., and Eleanor Campbell Musser, of State College.

Forrest A. Burrell, of State College, and Mabel E. Hillard, of Penna. Furnace.

Melvin David Lucas, of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, and Sue Elizabeth Newman, of Milesburg.

Merrill E. Young, and Violet M. Miller, both of Howard.

A meeting was held at Milesburg, yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of interesting the women in that section in a home economics extension project under the supervision of Miss Reynolds, Centre county representative. There will be no charge for the course and the women have the option of either one or all of the following projects: Food selection and preparation, meal planning and serving, household management, etc.

No Service Charge

Due to the wonderful response we have received from the public it is now possible for us to effect a reduction in charges, which will especially benefit the consumer of small quantities of Gas. The service charge of our previous rate schedule has been removed. A minimum of One Dollar per month will be charged, however.

An extension of our rate has further been prepared to reduce the cost of Gas for large consumers to as low as $1.00 per thousand cubic feet. The House Heating Rate, as announced sometime ago, will also be effective with the beginning of our operation.

Detailed information about all questions pertaining to Gas Service can be obtained in our office.

Application for the above changes and additions is being forwarded to the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, in Harrisburg, and pending the Commission's approval, this new Schedule will go into effect the first day that Gas will be delivered.
