

Shining Example of Art "Made to Order"

A painter in Raphael's or Rubens' time, must have been a singularly in-artistic person, judged by modern standards. He generally began his career as an apprentice, grinding colors and stretching canvases or preparing panels for some eminent employer. Later, he was allowed to work on the less important portions of his master's works, and still later, he opened a studio of his own. But he didn't call it a studio. It was a shop, equipped to turn out art by the piece or on time. Its proprietor was ready and willing to furnish whatever was wanted, from a sign for another shop to the ceiling of a chapel. His main concern was to please his customers, make as much money as possible, and turn out a good job. And because self-expression, in its only true sense, is almost as involuntary a process as the growth of a man's hair or the coloring of his eyes, he managed, in the course of a busy life, to stamp his work with an individuality before which we still stand in admiration. Haydn ground out over a hundred symphonies because his chief job, under Prince Esterhazy, was to furnish symphonies; Bach wrote his church cantatas because he would have lost his job if he hadn't. Mozart wrote his Requiem mass because a customer came along who wanted one. Shakespeare wrote his plays because the stock company he was working for needed things to act.—Vanity Fair Magazine.

Embroidery Art Goes Far Back in History

The making of embroidery was an established industry in China centuries before the visit of Marco Polo. The earliest extant specimen is assigned to the Eighth century, but it is certain that this art was followed at a very much earlier date. The impermanence of the materials used is alone responsible for the non-existence of very ancient Chinese embroidery.

Embroidery made in China for the western market on European patterns is a recent development, having been first introduced and fostered by the missionaries about thirty years ago. Certain kinds of embroidery the Chinese have not as yet duplicated, such as those of Madeira and Cyprus, although reports from Madeira indicate that several houses there have turned their attention to China as a field for future production.—New York Times.

Explaining the Wind

The blowing of the wind is owing to the presence of more air at one place than at others. This causes a push from the places of more air toward those of less, and the greater this difference in quantity of air the greater the push, and the faster the winds. Now, it is difference in temperature that causes the difference in the accumulation of air; in March the difference in temperature between the southern and northern portions of the United States is greater than at any other time of the year, hence the difference in atmospheric pressure between these regions is then greatest and the resulting winds strongest. These winds are not mainly north and south, as the pressure is, but from west to east. This is owing to the effect of the rotation of the earth, in a way fully understood, but not capable of brief explanation.

Artificial Lace

There is no weaving employed in the production of artificial lace. The manufacturing is done by a machine, which consists in its essential parts of a receptacle containing a cuproammoniacal solution of cellulose, a metallic cylinder upon which is engraved the negative of the design and a coagulation vat. A rotary motion is given the cylinder, over which flows the solution, which, entering the interstices of the engraved pattern, fixes itself immediately in the coagulating liquid, out of which emerges the texture ready to be dyed and dressed. Artificial lace is both beautiful and unalterable. It will wear well and is less combustible than ordinary lace and is waterproof.

Try This for Amusement

Here is a little problem to try when you are lonesome. It is more than odd and interesting. Set down these figures—1 2 3 4 5 6 7 9, leaving out 8. Choose one of these figures and multiply it by 9. Then multiply 12345679 by the result. To your surprise the final result will be made of nothing but the first figure chosen. For example, suppose you choose figure 5. Multiplying 5 by 9 gives 45. Multiplying 12345679 by 45 gives 555555555. And no matter which figure is chosen to begin with the final result will always contain 9 duplicates.—Pathfinder Magazine.

No Splinters

Little four-year-old Tommie, with his parents, was spending the weekend at the home of his aunt and uncle. The aunt, who is an excellent cook, had prepared a number of appetizing dishes, among them a delicious pudding flavored with coconut. When the Sunday evening lunch was being served, Tommie said in a low voice to his mother: "I don't want any more of that pudding with splinters in it."

Gov. Smith Says...

The way he wants to relieve the farmer is to destroy him.

Mr. Hoover, as the chief adviser of the last two administrations, upon the subject of agriculture, assumed a direct responsibility for the hostility and inaction of the Administration, and continues to assume the responsibility by his fulsome indorsement of the record of Coolidge policies.

"Do you believe that liquor is the great issue of this campaign?" I certainly do not.

The absolute separation of state and church is part of the fundamental basis of our Constitution. I believe in that separation and in all that it implies.

I can think of no greater disaster to this country than to have the voters of it divided upon religious lines.

If there is any citizen of this country who believes that I can promote its welfare, that I am capable of steering the ship of state safely through the next four years, and then votes against me because of my religion, he is not a real, pure, genuine American.

The Farmer Finds A Real Champion

Governor Smith's speech on the farm question at Omaha, has set the western prairies on fire with enthusiasm for the Democratic candidate. That in Governor Smith the farmers have at last found a champion who is jumping into the fight for agricultural justice on their side is the keynote of all unbiased comment coming from the Western states.

Governor Smith went to Omaha, in the heart of America's great, farming empire, to tell the farmers that he is prepared immediately on election to take the leadership in getting the kind of agricultural legislation they have been vainly demanding from the Republicans for the past eight years. The response to this offer of friendship and action has been electric.

The people who till the soil and supply the nation with its food are now assured that if Governor Smith is elected they will see the standard of "Equality for Agriculture" hoisted to the flagstaff of the White House. They are expressing their enthusiasm in no uncertain terms.

Especially telling has been the contrast drawn between Governor Smith's pledges for the farmer and Herbert Hoover's policy of evasion. Hoover's hostility to Agriculture has been well known ever since his days as war-time Food Administrator. Now as Republican candidate he is trying desperately hard to cover up his bad past record, but his heart remains the same as before, and his only plan to solve the problem of the surplus crop is to starve the farmers out until there is no more surplus.

On such cruel and unjust policies, Governor Smith has turned his back. He offers the farmer prosperity and equality through the McNary-Haugen principles and the farmers are showing that they know him now as their best friend and chief hope.

Your Vote-- And Your Radio

Your vote will not make you a king. But it will, if used intelligently, give you rights and privileges which you do not now enjoy.

Your vote, with the votes of your fellow citizens, can bring about conditions which will make your home a happier one. It can enable your children to get a better education, a better chance in life. You can use it, with other clear-sighted men and women, to shorten your working hours, to increase your income, to decrease the cost of living. You can make it bring you the full value of your crops.

As a voter, you are today in an advantageous position. By turning the dial on your radio set, you can bring into your own living room the voices—and the opinions and experience—of the Nation's most distinguished speakers, thinkers and legislators. You can hear them discuss the candidates and the campaign issues.

You will want to know why so many eminent business men, educators, social workers, philanthropists, labor leaders and farm experts are breaking party ties to help elect "the most constructive, fearless, honest and human candidate since Lincoln."

You will want to know—and he wants you to know—his record and his pledges on the issues which are of vital importance to you—such issues as farm relief, the tariff, labor legislation, educational reforms, the correction of laws which cannot be enforced.

A gigantic radio hook-up has been arranged to give you that information. From scores of radio stations, six times each week, will come informative talks which will acquaint you fully with the tremendous questions to be determined by this election.

These radio stations are listed below. The schedule will be followed until election day. CUT OUT THE LIST. KEEP IT NEAR YOUR RADIO. BE SURE TO LISTEN IN. Know what you are voting for.

Iowa Farmers Endorse Smith, Condemn Hoover, While G. O. P. Senator Protests

DES MOINES, Iowa.—Still another Middle Western farm organization, the Farmers' Union of Iowa, with 15,000 members, has come out for Governor Smith.

Unqualifiedly endorsing the Corn Belt Committee resolution endorsing the Democratic platform and candidate, despite an earnest plea for

Hoover by Senator Brookhart, it adopted a resolution of its own which said:

"The nomination of Herbert Hoover, pledged as he is to carrying out the Coolidge policy and with his record of injustice to Agriculture, should be resented at the polls by every farmer of the Middle West."

Successful Only in West

The English walnut originated in southwestern Asia and has been under important cultivation in the United States since 1890. It is successful only in the far western states, mainly in California, Oregon and southwestern Washington. The principal center is around Los Angeles in southern California. Planting is constantly being increased in central California, northwestern Oregon and contiguous territory north of Portland. It should be grown under 2,000 feet of altitude. The climate requirements are moderate but uniform temperatures, considerable moisture, and freedom from radical drops in temperature.

Youthful Diagnostician

Helen Jeanne, the two-year-old daughter of a physician, deemed herself an efficient authority on medicine. One afternoon she sat in her rocking chair, crooning to her curly, blond-headed baby doll. Finally a disgusted look clouded her face. She exclaimed, "My baby doesn't give me any patience 'a tall,'" and rocked more furiously than ever.

Hawk Farmer's Friend

Biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture points out that some hawks are highly beneficial to the farmer, preying almost entirely upon small mammals, such as mice, ground squirrels and rabbits. Food of other hawks consists chiefly of birds. The bird eaters should be killed at every opportunity, but it is equally important that the others be spared, for they destroy many small animal pests of the farmer. The bird-eating hawks include the Cooper hawk, and the sharp-shinned hawk.

Yum, Yum!

Angry Customer (tossing a package on the counter)—Makes washing a pleasure, does it? Does the washing while you wait, does it? It's the little flakes of soap that—

Grocer—Madam, one moment please. This is not soap.

Angry Customer—Not soap? Not soap?

"No. Your daughter asked for a half-pound of grated cheese and a half-pound of soap flakes. This is the cheese."

"My stars! And last night I made a pudding."—Progressive Grocer.

Sounded the Same

"I've broken by favorite jazz record right in two," said the flapper mournfully. "Guess I can fix it, though." Then she carefully glued the two parts together, putting the glue on the back side, the side that she didn't care for. Then she played it—and found she had glued a back side and a front side together. "What shall I do?" she exclaimed.

"Never mind," said the cynical parent, "It sounds just about the same as if you had glued it right."—Springfield Union.

THE RAINY DAY.

The day is cold, and dark, and dreary; It rains, and the wind is never weary; The vine still clings to the moulding wall But at every gust the dead leaves fall, And the day is dark and dreary.

My life is cold, and dark and dreary; It rains, and the wind is never weary; My thoughts still cling to the moulding past, But the hopes of youth fall thick in the blast, And the days are dark and dreary.

Be still, sad heart! and cease repining; Behind the clouds is the sun still shining; Thy fate is the common fate of all, Into each life some rain must fall, Some days must be dark and dreary.

WIT AND HUMOR.

Teacher—"Ralph, didn't your conscience tell you that was wrong?"

Ralph Haag—"Well, you see I don't believe everything I hear."

Mr. Dale—"What was the punishment for a monk that disobeyed laws of the monastery?"

R. Wasson—"Four to five for a week and 200 lines."

Miss Skyles—"Ned, what is a melodrama?"

Ned—"A drama that is so mellow that it's rotten."
