THREE MEN ELECTROCUTED AT ROCKVIEW MONDAY.

The strong arm of the law was vindicated to the extent of three murderers who were electrocuted at Rockview penitentiary in just nineteen minutes on Monday morning. The men were Tony Lucitti, of Washington county, who went to the chair at 7:01 and was pronounced dead at 7:05. Charles F. Mellor, of Philadelphia, was second at 7:08 and pronounced dead at 7:13, while the third man, Benjamin Damarowski, went to the chair at 7:16 and was pronounced dead at 7.20. All the men were accompanied to the chair by Rev. Francis P. McCreesh, Catholic chaplain at the penitentiary, while Dr. Asa Hickok was the physician in charge. The bodies of Lucitti and Damarowski were claimed while Mellor was buried in the pentitentiary cemetery. Lucitti, who was 33 years old, was convicted of the murder of Louis O. Knapp and Paul B. Fox, two coal and iron policemen on February 7th, 1927, when the officers caught him in the act of delivering a cargo of liquor to miners. Mellor was convicted of the murder of Max T. Harrison, assistant manager of the Cross Keys theatre, Philadelphia, on the night of March 23rd, 1928, in an attempt to rob him of the day's receipts, and at the same time inflicting a fatal wound on 17-yearold Martha Yetter.

Damarowski killed his wife on the night of April 23rd, 1928, left her body lying on the kitchen floor and fled the city. He was captured in Detroit a month later, was taken back to Philadelphia, tried and convicted.

Destructive Fire at Clarence On Tuesday Night.

About eleven o'clock on Tuesday night fire was discovered in the large frame wareroom of the Frank Jerick general store at Clarence, and before the flames could be checked the wareroom and all its contents were destroyed, as well as a garage, stable, and several sheds and outbuildings. The property at one time belonged to Oscar Harm but was sold by him to a party in Harrisburg. Mr. Jerick was lessee of the property and conducted a general store. The loss on buildings and contents is estimat-

by insurance. When the fire was discovered it had already assumed a dangerous character and a call was sent to both Philipsburg and Bellefonte for help. One company from Philipsburg responded but their pumper froze on the way and they returned home. The Logans, of Bellefonte, went out with their pumper and squad wagon. The temperature at Clarence was fourteen degrees blow zero and the men almost perished with cold. By the time they reached Clarence the big chemical tank was frozen and could not be used. There was no water there for use of the pumper but by using the hand chemicals the firemen helped to save adjoining buildings that might have burned. On Wednesday forenoon the Logans received another call when fire was discovered in one of Mr. Coldren's eating cars on the top of Nittany mountain. But when the firemen reached Pleasant Gap they were flagged and sent back as the fire had been extinguished.
