"THE THREE MUSKETEERS" AT NIXON IN PITTSBURGH.

Florenz Ziegfeld's Sensational Musical Interpretation of the Du-mas Classic in Pittsburgh Next Week.

The mere announcement that Florenz Ziegfeld will present one of his famous attractions at the Nixon Theatre is sufficient to pack the famous Pittsburgh playhouse to the doors. So great things are expected next week beginning Monday, January 28th, for Mr. Ziegfeld's own favorite, "The Three Musketeers," with Dennis King in the star role, will be the unusual attraction. After 46 record-breaking weeks on Broadway this glorious musical comedy romance now goes there with the famous New York cast and production intact.

As "Rosalie" differed from "Show Boat," "Rio Rita" or "Whoopie," "The Three Musketeers" differs from the other big Ziegfeld hits. It is a gorgeous, swashbuckling operetta of the time of Louis XIII, a modernized version by Wm. Anthony McGuire of Dummes' celebrated classic and fairly brimming over with lilting melodies and stirring choruses as only Rudolf Friml can compose them.

The cast is one of the most brilliant ever assembled for a Ziegfeld production. In the star role is Dennis King as D'Artagnan of Gascony—"the finest swordsman and the greatest lover in all France." Local theatre and music lovers will welcome the chance to see this great and talented young star who has so captured the hearts of New York and Chicago. It will be recalled that he created the title role in the original New York company of "The Vagabond King,"—a role he played only on Broadway and in Chicago. He was kept on Broadway so long that road companies were sent on tour with others in the role he created.

But as theatre-goers are aware, it is different with Ziegfeld productions. There are no No. 2 road companies, and those at the Nixon next week will have their first opportunity to see Dennis King and the entire company just as this glorious musical was presented for 46 weeks at the Lyric theatre in New York city.

No romantic story is better known than that of D'Artagnan, Athos, Portos and Aramis and their spirited adventures. It remained for Florenz Ziegfeld to transform it to the stage and make visible all the color, the bravery of costume and incident, the rush of events, the high politics of courts, the sword play, the flaming loves and jealousies, the humor and comedy, the flash and sparkle of life in a high-spirited age and to saturate all this in delightful music and dress it with unflinching loveliness.

Then, there is not to be forgotten the Albertina Rasch 16 solo dancers, trained choruses, both male and female, glorified Ziegfeld beauties in the ensembles, magnificent urban scenery and gorgeous period costumes and an orchestra of the first water. Altogether, it promises to be one of the outstanding weeks in the theatrical history of that city. Special attention will be paid to mail orders from out-of-town patrons when accompanied by check or money order and self-addressed stamped envelope. Full details will be found in the dramatic columns of the Sunday Pittsburgh papers.

One Good Trait That Village Bad Man Had

The late Chauncey M. Depew was reproving a young critic one day for a harsh criticism.

"I'd like to see more of the Kin Kincaid spirit in your work, my boy," the great man said.

"Kin Kincaid, you know, was noted for his charity and loving kindness. Never a slanderous word passed his lips.

"Well, the bad man of the village died in due course, and they all roared at him at the general store the afternoon of the funeral. They roasted him hard. They pointed out that he was a drunkard and a miser, a wife beater and a liar, a thief and a scandal-monger, a coward, a usurer and a rake.

"Kin Kincaid listened to all that talk with a little smile of disapproval, and finally the general storekeeper said to him:

"Now, Kin, don't you look so hurt. Ain't everything wot's been said about that old cuss true? Can you name one meritorious trait, jest one, that he ever showed?"

"Well," said Kin, "you boys'll have to admit that he certainly had a good appetite."

New Calendar's Holidays for 1929.

On Tuesday a new calendar went into effect and a study of its monthly tables shows that only twice in 1929 will black Friday—Friday the 13th, be encountered. These two unlucky dates occur in September and December.

The main holidays of the year all come in the middle of the week so that there will be no double holidays as occur when they come at the end of the week and are made to include Sunday.

The longest day of the year, June 21, falls on Friday and the shortest day, December 21, falls on Saturday. Jackson day, January 8, falls on Tuesday.

Groundhog day, February 2, falls on Saturday. Lincoln's birthday, February 12, falls on Tuesday.

Washington's birthday, February 22, falls on Friday. Good Friday comes on March 29. Easter Sunday comes on March 31. All Fool's day, April 1, falls on Monday.

Flag day, June 14, will be observed on a Friday. The Fourth of July comes on Thursday.

Saturday, October 5, will be the Jewish New Year's day. Columbus day, October 12, comes on Saturday.

Hallowe'en, October 31, comes on Thursday. Election day will be on Tuesday, November 5. Armistice day, November 11, falls on Monday.

Thanksgiving day will be Thursday, November 28. Christmas, December 25, comes on Wednesday.

It is noticeable that not one of the above holidays and days notable for other seasons except these which are essentially Sunday holidays, as Easter and Mother's Day, falls on Sunday in 1929.

—At an International Congress of Entomology held at Ithaca, N. Y., one Dr. W. J. Baerg of Arkansas assured the delegates that the bites of many insects are not half so painful or deadly as is commonly supposed. Even some scorpions were "really quite harmless," he explained—the effect of their bite is largely "a mental illusion." This prompts one in The Manchester Guardian to write: Observed a young man in confusion. "Hi! Look at this lump (or contusion)!" I've been stung by a hornet!" They said, "You should scorn it—it's only a mental illusion."
