HORSE SHOE PITCHERS TO BE AT EXPOSITION.

Under the rules of the national association horse shoe pitchers in West-ern and Central Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio, and West Virginia will have a chance to compete for valuable money prizes or trophies on July 1 the opening day of the great Cambria County Industrial Exposition at Ebensburg, Pa. This tournament will be between teams of two men or two women, the male teams to pitch a distance of forty and the women, thirty fest. Copies of the rules of the national association and also Tentry blanks, with all additional informa-tion, can be obtained by applying to Secretary H. Frank Dorr, at Ebensburg. It is known already that many of the locally prominent teams in Western Pennsylvania are going to take part in this contest. The bench show executive committee of the exposition is to meet in Ebensburg next week to determine the rules that will govern locally, although not to conflict with those of the American Kennel Club, under license of which the Dog show will be held. These rulese and regulations will mostly be in connection with the prizes to be awarded. The executive committee will also appoint working committees. George Keener, of Johnstown will be at this meeting and will be ably assisted by Ralph English of Port Matilda, Pa., a nationally known authority on dogs and bench shows. The executive committee consists of 25 members. The executive committee of the Volunteer Firemen's Association of Central Pennsylvania met, last week, in Barnesboro and appointed the committees that will have charge of the great annual convention, which is to be held at Ebensburg, July 1 and 2 when the Dauntless Fire Company of the county seat of Cambria County, will be hosts to the conventions

FLOWERING TIME FOR TREES AND SHRUBS.

"What time of year do flowers appear on the forest trees and shrubs of Pennsylvania?" is very frequently asked of the Pennsylvania Depart-ment of Forest and Waters by school teachers, students. Boys and Girls scouts, hiking clubs, nature students, botanists and lovers of the outdoor in general.

The difference in the time of tree flowers may amount to from one to two weeks in the case of a single species found in both the northern and southern parts of the State. Trees planted near buildings in towns and cities frequently blossom several days to a week before the same species under exposed conditions in the country. To meet the demand for this information the following table has been prepared in which the relative position of the tree makes it applicable to any locality in Pennsylvania, The species listed as this month, May and May-June indicate that the time of flowering extends from the latter part of one month into the beginning of the succeeding month.

March—Pussy Willow. March—April—Black willow, silver maple, red maple, elm, cottonwood, alder, Redbud.

April-Aspens, birches, ash-leaved maple, dogwood, shad bush, sweet gum, beech.

April-May-Sugar maple, hazlenut, papaw, buskeyes.

April—June—Cucumber, holly. May-Walnuts, hickories, hackberry, sassafras, ashes, black haw, choke cherry, fire cherry, oaks, black locust. May —June—Striped maple, wild black cherry, crab apple, honey locust, red mulberry, black gum, persimmon moutain laurel, fringe tree, chinquapin, tulip tree.

June-Rhododendron, maple, common basswood, hawthorns, ailanthus, Kentucky coffee tree, osage orange. June-July-White basswood, catalpa, chestnut, laurel magnolia.

October- November-Witch Hazel.

June-August-Hercules Club.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN.

Daily Thought.

There blooms a rose for every rose, And dewdrops joy in weeping; For every heart there lives a heart Somewhere, that love is keeping.

-The Bohemian The long and the short of the spring coat problem is just that—the long and the short of it! Judging by the fashion parade down Park Ave. any of these fair days, the chic woman may have her coat anywhere from her hips to her heels and its all right, socially and sartorially speaking.

Smart women like Mrs. Sherburn M. Becker, Jr., Betty Gerard, Hope Bennett and a number of others look exceedingly jaunty in the spring suit that cuts its coat smartly at the hip-

Many flowers bloom along the avenue now. I do not mean just the lovely window boxes of geraniums, daffs, crocuses and so on. Katherine Tod wears her orchids or gardenias every day I have seen her recently—just one or two which are charming against her fox fur or the soft kasha of one of her new suits

Floral patterns in fabrics are receiving the praise of being chosen by smart social registrites this spring. Cornelia Grant has a lovely little rose print blouse with a black suit. Mrs. Lewis Latham Clarke wore a very springlike foulard patterned in green. beige and black flowers and made with the most feminine ruffles here and ruffles there.

The vogue for the fitted fashions grow apace. I noticed Mrs. Irving Berlin wearing a heavy off-white sat-in at the Embassy Club last week that was intricately cut and fitted to her slim figure. The beautiful simplicity was a perfect setting for the former Elin Mackay's lovely charm.

Emma Cudahy is another who wears fitted things perfectly. At Pierre's the other day she wore gorgeous black velvet ensemble with princess lines to the coat and a sweetoff-white chiffon blouse. The coat was collared in lynx and she wore atop her costume a metal broceded turban that added a regal note.

It is noticeable that as costumes grow more intricate and dressy, gloves run in the other direction. The authentic glove, the one every nine out of ten is wearing, is the pull-on of delicate hue, with neither button nor decoration save stitching. Mrs. Robert M. Byrne, the former Marion Gould is one who wears fawn or other delicate shades with all her street things and thereby puts the finishing touch on her chic costume. Incidentally, she has a sweet new little suit of the "dressmaker" type, of pae grey kasha with rounding neckline and one The total number of deaths in-cluded 134 civilians and 55 federal of those open-worked very fine sweat-er blouses that tuck into the skirt.

R. HENRY FORD, who is a great manufacturer, but who has some peculiar ideas about economics, says, that young people ought to spend their money, and not save it.

This advice is not needed, for young people usually are good spenders. They want to have what they call a good time

Yet there is an element of truth in what Mr. Ford says. A stingy young person is not a pleasing object, and one who saves every penny he gets, is in a fair way of giving an undue value to

On the other hand, money is one of the most cheerful possessions in the world. It gives one a sense of security, of power, that nothing else imparts. Money is saved only by the exercise of prudence and self-denial-qualities that will count largely for future

This sounds like a quotation from Poor Richard's Almanac, a little book that those who are of Franklin's opinion, as to what constitutes success in life, may do well to read. We think young people ought to save part of what they get, and spend part. They will be pretty old before they cease wanting to have a good time. And the man who does not save, is doomed to failure.
