Only ten more days after today and trout fishing will be a sport of the past for this year.

Simple Questions That Often Prove Pitfalls

Why is winter colder than summer? How deep does a scuttled ship sink, and why does air in a closed room get bad?

A recent examination of presumably well-informed people revealed that many a man of more than average education can be caught in pitfalls of ignorance.

Most people were caught over the first question. More than four-fifths said that winter is colder than summer because the sun is then farther away. This, of course, is wrong, the sun being nearer in winter. The real reason lies in the earth's changing slant, which brings the sun directly overhead in summer and lower in the sky in winter.

Surprisingly common, too, was the idea that sunken ships do not go to the bottom, but float at some midway level. Heavy objects sink because they are denser than water. A ship sinks to the bottom because water's density remains virtually unchanged despite the enormous pressures encountered at great depths.

Air in a closed room gets bad because of the gradual exhaustion of the oxygen contained in the air, and not, as many people suppose, because of carbon dioxide gas exhaled by its occupants.

Idea, Foundation of Law, Traced to Democritus

In 1720 Francis Hutcheson, in his "Inquiry into the Original of our Ideas of Beauty and Virtue," wrote: "That action is best which procures the greatest happiness for the greatest numbers; and that worst, which, in like manner, occasions misery." This is the earliest known use of the phrase "the greatest happiness of the greatest numbers." It was used by Cesare Beccaria in his "Treatise on Crimes and Punishments," first published in 1764. Later Jeremy Bentham, the English political philosopher, wrote: "Priestly was the first (unless it was Beccaria) who taught my lips to pronounce this sacred truth—that the greatest happiness of the greatest number is the foundation of morals and legislation." The general idea conveyed by the phrase, however, is found in the writings of some of the ancients, notably Democritus—Pathfinder Magazine.

Term of Uncertain Origin

Authorities have never definitely traced the origin of the term "grass widow." It is to be found in many languages. Some believe that it is a corrupted form of "grace-widow"—that is, "widow by the grace of circumstances." There are no facts to substantiate this belief, however. According to Doctor Brewer, the modern use of the term seems to have originated among Anglo-Indians about the middle of the Nineteenth century from the practice of European husbands sending wives to the hills during the hot season in India. In this section the grass is plentiful.

First Excursion Train

On July 5, 1841, when a "Puffing Billy" hauling two dozen open rail- way "carriages"—they were called "tubs" at that time—steamed out of the station at Leicester, England, bound for Loughborough, 11 miles away, it marked an occasion memorable in railway annals, for it was the first excursion train ever run.

The train carried 570 passengers to a temperance meeting, and the organizer of the excursion was Thomas Cook, then a young printer of Market Harborough, later to become famous as the promoter of Cook's tours.—Detroit News.

On Friendly Terms

He had never been outside England, and neither had she, but both were recounting their experiences abroad. "And Asia! Ah! Wonderful Asia! Never shall I forget Turkey, India, Japan—all of them. And most of all China, the celestial kingdom! How I loved it!" She held her ground. "And the pagodas—did you see them?" "Did I see them?" She powdered her nose. "My dear, I had dinner with them."—London Tit-Bits.

Reward

When Admiral Hussey spoke his piece at the luncheon of the Women's Republican club, he opened up with this story:

"In a western town, a man rushed into the sheriff's office and demanded a warrant for the arrest of a murderer.

"Whom did he kill?" demanded the sheriff.

"A public speaker."

"What you want," replied the sheriff, "is not a warrant for anybody's arrest but an order on the county clerk."—Los Angeles Times.

The Helping Hand

Sergeant Stimpson was talking seriously to a new recruit.

"Under comradeship," he continued, "we put all that one man would do for another. For example, Smith, what would you do if your chum had his breakfast on the table, his buttons not cleaned and the bugle went for parade?"

Smith had the answer ready. "Well," he said, "I'd eat his breakfast so's he could clean them buttons all right!"

BELLEFONTE COOKS ELECTRICALLY . . here is why!

. . The kitchen with an electric range is always ready for guests

You need never hesitate to take company through your kitchen when you cook electrically. There is no smudged spot back of the range, no soot on the ceiling, no cooking odors or disagreeable fumes. Electricity gives such clean heat that cooking utensils stay bright and shining without constant scouring. Kitchen curtains keep their crisp freshness longer. Even on baking day, the kitchen is comfortably cool. For the electric oven keeps the heat where it belongs—inside the oven. An electric range makes your kitchen "always ready for guests" in still another way. It automatically takes entire charge of cooking delicious meals while you entertain. Elaborate brown roasts, delicate souffles, fancy pastries are very little more effort than every-day dishes when a heat regulator takes all guesswork from their cooking. Cook electrically for economy!
