Belleville, Pa., July 19, 1929.

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

Centre county's milk, eggs, wool and honey crop for 1928 amounted to $2,083,550.

Anyone having a secondhand piano to dispose of cheap or donate to a worthy small church will please communicate with C. C. Shuey, Belleville, Pa.

A cool wave followed Sunday's rain storms and on Tuesday morning the temperature was down to 54 degrees above zero, which was rather chilly for this time of year.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schlow entertained at dinner, at the Nittany country club, Tuesday evening, their guests including the employees of their Belleville, State College and Lewisburg stores.

On Monday Judge Albert W. Johnson of the federal court, signed a decree in which the Centre County Banking company was formally adjudged a bankrupt. It is quite likely a trustee will be selected in the near future to wind up the bank's affairs.

Announcement has been made by Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Olin Glenn, of Bradford, of the marriage of their daughter, Elizabeth Meek Glenn and Charles Pirmann Kindred second, of Philadelphia, the marriage having taken place in Belleville, on the thirtieth of October, 1928. Both Mr. and Mrs. Kindred are graduates of Penn State.

On Wednesday afternoon former county commissioner D. A. Grover motored to Tangletown, near Milesburg, on a little business mission. On the return trip his Franklin sedan stalled on the railroad crossing with a freight train in view, running backwards toward Belleville. Fortunately the train was not running fast and the flagman was able to give the stop signal in time to bring the train to a stop before it hit the machine.

On Wednesday morning Donald Lucas, ten year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lucas, of Howard, ran from behind his father's milk truck right in front of an automobile being driven by Clarence Yearick. He was struck on the hip by the bumper, while one of the headlights was broken on the lad's head. He was brought to the Centre County hospital by Balser Weber, and while he is suffering with head injuries, cuts and bruises no really serious complications have developed.

The Belleville Presbyterian Sunday school picnic at Hecla park, last Friday, which in itself is merely a current news item, but an interesting fact in connection therewith is that Charles Gilmour was among those present. And this is news because it was his first visit to the park since his last trip as engineer on old Ne-has-sa-nee in October, 1918, when the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania passed into history. Naturally Mr. Gilmour could hardly reconcile the park of today with the more natural conditions that prevailed there eleven years ago.

John McCoy has not only fixed up the old stone house, at the McCoy works, in a palatial manner but has had the barn gone over and, as a housewarming for the latter his niece, Miss Rachel VanPelt, gave an old-fashioned barn dance there on Wednesday night of last week. Included in the party, in addition to Miss VanPelt, were Misses Kathryn Irwin, Louise Meyer, Emily Wilkinson, Dorothy Runkle, Patty Lane Fay, Mary Pennington, Mary Curtin, Eliza Curtin, and Jacob Bottorf, Philip Witcraft, Peter Meek, Alexander Morris, William Curtin, Orvis Harvey, Eugene Robb, Jack Montgomery, Maxwell Kelly and Paul Crust.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron M. Cobb have received the gratifying announcement of the promotion of their son, Arnold C. Cobb. The young man graduated at State College with the class of 1924, in the mechanical engineering course, and within ten days had gone to work for the Nickel Plate railroad in the company's roundhouse, at Conneaut, Ohio. His job was that of trouble hunter and first aid repair man on crippled locomotives. There was no high-sounding title to the position but it was one of decided importance in keeping the rolling stock in proper condition. Mr. Cobb did his work carefully and thoroughly and the result is that he has been promoted to night foreman of the company's big shops and roundhouse, at Indianapolis, Ind.

Last Thursday evening a party of gentlemen, which included two captains in the ranks of State highway patrolmen, were standing on the pavement in front of the uptown A. & P. store when an automobile stopped on the opposite side of the street, in front of the Belleville Trust company. Two men got out and started across the street towards the Brookershoff house. In the middle of the street one of them stopped suddenly and made a grab at his coat tail with both hands but he missed it and a quart bottle slipped from under his coat and crashed to pieces on the pavement. Neither of the men stopped to mourn the departed but with quickened footsteps made their way across the street and into the hotel. The license tag on the car showed it to have been from Williamsport.

ONE MAN SENTENCED, TWO PAROLES GRANTED.

At a brief session of court, on Saturday morning, Andrew DeBrino, who escaped from Rockview penitentiary on December 21st, 1925, and was brought back to Centre county from the federal penitentiary, at Atlanta, Ga., on Thursday, was brought before Judge Fleming for sentence. DeBrino was originally sentenced to Erie county for eighteen months to four years for larceny and receiving stolen goods. Following his escape from Rockview he made his way into West Virginia where he was arrested and convicted under the Mann act as a white slave. He was sent to the federal penitentiary at Atlanta and officials of Rockview, learning of his whereabouts, lodged a detainer against him and when his time was up brought him back to Centre county to answer to the charge of breaking and escaping. Judge Fleming imposed a sentence identical with his original one.

Probation officer Roy Wilkinson presented the petition of Carson Rice for parole from the Allegheny workhouse. Rice, with Ernest Leitch and David Shade, all of Clinton county, were arrested early in February on the charge of stealing chickens from Centre county farmers, the prosecutor in the case being Willard Yearick, of Marion township. Mr. Wilkinson told the court that from his investigation he believed that Price had been inveigled into the chicken stealing trip by Leitch; that so far as he could learn he had always been a good citizen and had made but one trip with the men; that of the one hundred and fifty chickens stolen Price got only seven as his share of the loot. He has a wife and four children and because of the delicate condition of his wife his family needs his support. The men plead guilty after their arrest and Price has served about five months of his sentence. The court granted the parole.

The next case called was that against Charles T. Noll for failure to obey an order of court to pay $75 a month for the support of his wife. Noll was arrested in Washington, Pa., over three weeks ago and has since been in the Centre county jail. Mr. Wilkinson told the court that he was first arrested in December, 1927, on a non-support charge and at that time he voluntarily offered to pay $75 a month to his wife, but in the twenty months that have elapsed he has paid only $45. In his own defense Mr. Noll told the court that he had done the very best he could do. That the company he had been working for at Homewood had gone under and he was out of work for awhile, and had only been at work at Washington eight days when arrested. Judge Fleming told him that he had no patience with men who failed to properly support their wife and children, and he was going to see that they did it while he is on the bench or he will send them to the Allegheny workhouse and the money they earn there will be turned over to the wife. Consequently, Noll was remanded to jail until he can devise some means of giving bond to insure compliance with the court order.

William Reed, who has been in jail for some weeks for failure to provide for the support of his children, was granted a parole on condition that he pay $15 a month towards the support of his three youngest children.

CALLAHAN ARCHITECTURE STANDING IN BELLEVILLE.

Already the razing of "Old Main" at State College has gotten under way and the roof and part of the fifth floor have disappeared. Its demolition brings to mind that Charles Callahan, the architect of the original building, once lived in Belleville and designed many structures here, several of which are still standing.

He built and occupied what was later called the Philip Gephart home which stood on the site on Allegheny street now occupied by the residence of the late Dr. W. U. Irwin.

It would seem that his fancy ran to red brick with marble trimmings for he designed the Judge Hale home, now the property of Col. J. L. Spangler, as well as the present Masonic Temple. The original "Arcade" that stood where the Belleville Trust Co.'s building now stands, was also designed by Callahan. It was supposed to have been the most beautiful building in Belleville at the time. After it was burned Thomas Reynolds took the marble steps in its approach and used them as steps to his residence on High street. That is now the property of Dr. David Dale and the steps are still there.

An interesting side light on these incidents is the fact that Callahan was really a tailor. We have been unable to ascertain whether he carried on the work of an architect while making clothes or whether he abandoned the latter work when he took up building design.

The board of governors of the Centre County Motor club have set Thursday, August 15, as the day for the annual picnic for all Centre county motorists. Invitations will be mailed to each registered car owner in Centre county, and as there are over 8000 registered pleasure car owners in the county, that will undoubtedly be the biggest party yet staged at Hecla park, the play ground of Centre county.

STATE PROTHONOTARIES MEET IN BELLEVILLE.

The State Association of Prothonotaries held its annual convention in Belleville on Wednesday and yesterday. The association is young in years as it was only organized last year at a meeting held in Allentown and this may account for the small attendance this year, as only sixteen counties out of sixty-seven in the State were represented, and four of them were by women officials. These were Mercer, represented by Daisy T. Morse; Venango, by Mrs. Squires; Bradford, by Marian D. Fellwell, and Somerset, by June E. Werner.

W. A. Wert, of Lehigh county, president of the association, presided and in the absence of the regular secretary V. L. Greely, of Crawford county, was chosen secretary pro tem.

The committee appointed at the organization meeting to prepare by-laws for the association read its report, and with a few minor changes and amendments the same were adopted. The yearly dues were fixed at five dollars.

The treasurer presented his first annual report which was approved and ordered placed on file.

The meeting then resolved into a general form for discussion of questions of vital importance to prothonotaries. Among these were the arbitrary power of salary boards in fixing salaries of clerks, in which the clerk has the right of appeal if he doesn't think the salary commensurate with the work, while prothonotaries are denied such right. They contended that the present fee bill was out of date and should be revised and also contended that officials in counties from the second to the sixth class should be given an increase in salary, as the salary today is just what it was twenty-five years ago.

It was the sentiment of the meeting that a legislative committee be appointed to look after the interests of the prothonotaries at the next meeting of the Legislature.

RINGNECKS AND FAWN HARVESTED WITH GRAIN.

S. A. Homan, who farms what is known as the Bucher Ayres place near Pennsylvania Furnace, had two rather unpleasant experiences last week.

While harvesting his grain the binder was drawn over a nest of young ringneck pheasants. Before they were noticed several were killed and some injured so badly that they had to be killed.

Later the same binder was driven into a fawn that had sought cover in the grain field. Its legs were cut off so the only thing to be done was kill it.

Some time ago the men on the Mary W. Meek farm, in the same neighborhood, were crossing a field when they discovered a nest of ringneck eggs. As one of them was broken they figured that the hen would not go back to the nest so they took the eggs to the barn and put them under a chicken. Everyone hatched and they had quite a flock of little pheasants. All lived but a few and now they go to the woods to roost at night but return every day to be fed.

COUNTY WOOL POOL SOLD FLEECE SATURDAY.

The Centre County Sheep and Wool Growers Association pooled their wool on Friday and Saturday of last week. The wool was purchased by a mill in Philadelphia. The pool this year consisted of a total of 12,462 pounds of wool. Out of this amount there were 694 pounds of rejections. The wool was graded into four grades; quarter, three-eighths, fine delaine and rejections. The grading was done by W. H. Henning and W. B. Connell, of State College. According to W. B. Connell, sheep extension specialist, who has graded the wool for the Centre county pool for several years, the wool handled this year was in much better condition than he had ever handled before.

The Centre County growers feel that by selling their wool on the pool plan in a cooperative way usually means from 5c. to 6c. per pound increase in price and the association through this system of handling wool has demonstrated the value of putting the product on the market in first class condition.

CENTRE COUNTY JAIL WAS OVERCROWDED LAST WEEK.

A record for inmates was established at the Centre county jail, last Friday, when, for a few hours, it had thirty-seven prisoners within its walls. It was so overcrowded, in fact, that when officers arrived here with Andrew DeBrino, an escaped Rockview penitentiary convict brought back from the federal prison, at Atlanta, Ga., there was no available cell in which to put him and he was taken to Rockview and kept there until brought into court for sentence on Saturday.

The release of several prisoners on Friday and parole of two others on Saturday relieved the overcrowded condition, but at that the number of inmates is above the normal.

Plans for the proposed addition to the jail are now in the possession of the State Welfare Department and they will have to be approved prior to the award of the bids on August 2nd.

EDGEFONTE MIGHT BE HOME OF STATE HIGHWAY PATROL.

While no papers have been executed at this writing it looks as if "Edgefonte," the Garman family summer home at Axe Mann, might be the final selection as headquarters for Troops C and D, State highway patrol.

During the week Major W. G. Price, Capt. J. M. Bender, of the newly formed Troop D and Capt. H. N. Keller, of Troop C, have been in Belleville and inspected every place offered and the one most adaptable for headquarters for the patrol is Edgefonte, at Axe Mann. The house is located right along the main State highway leading from Belleville to State College, Lewisburg, and points east. It is advantageously situated for ease of approach as well as constant vigilance on quite a stretch of highway.

The house contains thirteen large rooms, six on the first floor and seven on the second. The large spring in the front yard furnishes an abundance of water which is forced into the house with an automatic electric pump. If Edgefonte is selected a heating plant will be installed and that is about all it will need to put it in shape.

Edgefonte, which has been in possession of the Garman family for nearly fifty years, is well onto one hundred years old. It was built by a member of the Mann family as a home when Mann's axe plant was one of the flourishing industries of Centre county. It was occupied by the Manns until J. Fearon Mann moved to a home in Belleville and after that the property at Axe Mann was purchased by the Garmans.

CAMP WAPALANEE IS BIG ATTRACTION FOR BOYS.

More than half the Belleville boys who went to Camp Wapalane, on Wednesday of last week, are having such a good time that they have decided to stay the second week. The camp, located along Bald Eagle creek, about three miles below Howard, is very much of a success and the boys accord hearty words of praise for the management. But the real hero, in the eyes of all the youngsters, is Kelly, the cook. He it is who provides the edible provender to satisfy the rapacious appetites of the boys running wild, and that's some job.

Boys who joined the camp this week were James Rogers, Bob Witter, Earl Heverly, Billie Brown, Daniel Thompson, Thomas Caldwell, Jack Shope and Robert Guisewhite.

Sundays and Wednesdays are the only days on which visitors are permitted at the camp and as evidence that the people of Belleville are interested in this summer outing afforded the boys through the good offices of the Y. M. C. A., the following were at the camp on Sunday: Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Maloy and Jane Maloy, Mrs. Ernest Benner, Charles, Geraldine and Dean Benner, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hoffer and son Jimmie, Mrs. A. C. Mingle, Miss Frances Hoffer, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Robb, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wilkinson, with their sons Jack and Jimmie; Mr. and Mrs. Cronemiller, Mrs. Emma Smith, Bud and Carl Cronemiller, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson and children, Martha and James, Mary Jane and Woody Johnson, Robert Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Cherry and daughter Mary, Theodore Cherry and Mrs. A. L. Nichols.

MRS. BILLET ENTERTAINS CLASS IN MOUNTAIN CAMP.

Mrs. Nelson Billet gave her class of girls in the Belleville Lutheran Sunday school a delightful outing last week. She procured one of the Bilger cabins on the top of Nittany mountain and, on Monday, they went into camp there; remaining until Sunday evening.

It was a new experience for some of them and a grand time for all. The fine weather made the out-of-door life ideal and the camp stove cooked good things to eat that rivalled nature's charms for the class.

In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Billet, Miss Marie Swartz, a nurse at the Centre County hospital, and the following members of the Sunday school class: Jennie Snyder, Arline Fisher, Mary Gertrude Barlet, Dorothy Lewis, Lila Jodon and Mabel Watson.

BRUNGART REUNION SATURDAY, AUGUST 17th

The sixth annual reunion of the widely known Brungart clan will be held at Hecla park on Saturday, August 17th. It will be in the shape of a basket picnic and all connections are invited. The president of the association is Jasper R. Brungart, Rebersburg, and the secretary, Dr. Fred E. Gutelius, Millheim. W. Harrison Walker Esq., of Belleville, is one of the vice presidents.

Last Friday evening the versatile Pete Ferguson, of Phillipsburg, gave a dinner to half a hundred of his friends, at the Flatrock club house, above Port Matilda. Among the guests were Senator Harry B. Scott, of Phillipsburg, Judge M. Ward Fleming and Roy Wilkinson, of Belleville. As Pete has been one of the handy political men in his home town for a number of years the dinner had the earmarks of a political pow-wow, but along what line has not been divulged.

NEWS PURELY PERSONAL.

Miss Marie Seig is here from Washington, D. C., a guest of her brother, William P. Seig, at his home on Curtin street.

Mrs. W. E. McCreedy and her daughter, came over from West New York, Monday night, to join Mrs. McCreedy's sister, Miss Emily Parker, all of whom are visiting with Miss Elizabeth Parker, at the Parker home on Howard street, and with Mrs. James Schofield, on south Thomas street. Miss Emily expects to be in Belleville until early in August, while Mrs. McCreedy and the child will be here for the remainder of the summer.

Miss Helen Beezer returned to Belleville, Sunday, and went directly to the Centre county hospital, where she has been while recovering from the fatigue of the trip home. Miss Beezer had been in the Presbyterian hospital in Philadelphia under treatment for several months, going from there to Elkton, Md., last week. From Elkton she motored to Lancaster and came from there by train to Lewisburg, where she was met by her mother, Mrs. Philip Beezer, Mrs. Witcraft and the latter's son, Phil.

Included in the list of visitors in Belleville, last week, was Frank P. Barnhart Esq., of Ebensburg, recently appointed an extra judge of common pleas court for Cambria county, by Governor Fisher, in compliance with an act passed by the last Legislature. Following his appointment proceedings were instituted at Harrisburg to debar him from taking the oath of office because of some alleged irregularity in his practice as an attorney and the matter has not yet been settled. Mr. Barnhart was in this section primarily on a trout fishing expedition on Fish Creek.

Finley E. Johnson, of Michigan; George E., of Beaver Falls, and Harry E., of Pittsburgh, sons of the late John T. Johnson, who fifty years ago served as postmaster of Belleville, were in Belleville, on Sunday, and guests at the Brookershoff house for dinner. It was the first time the brothers had been together in sixteen years and they decided to motor to Belleville just to spend a few hours at the home of their youth and also see as many of their old friends as the limited time would permit. They also made a trip to the Union cemetery where both their father and mother were laid to rest.

Dr. A. E. Blackburn, accompanied by Miss Margaret Brishin, motored up from Philadelphia, Saturday, Miss Brishin having come up to spend her vacation here with her uncle and aunt, Col. and Mrs. J. L. Spangler, as has been her custom since a child. Dr. Blackburn, after an over Sunday visit, made the return drive home Monday, taking with him Mrs. Blackburn, who had been in Belleville for a month or more. Col. and Mrs. Spangler have also had as guests during the week, Dr. and Mrs. Blackburn's daughter, Miss Eliza, who with a co-worker in the Friends school at Overbrook, stopped here enroute home from a motor trip through the middle west.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Godshall, of Camden, N. J., arrived in Belleville yesterday for their annual summer visit at the Michael Lamb home, on north Allegheny street. Mrs. Godshall, prior to her marriage, was Miss Florence Lamb.

John Snyder, one of the oldest residents of State College and among its best known ones, was a guest of friends on drive to Belleville, Monday, spending several hours here talking with friends and looking after some business matters.

Mrs. Edward J. Eckenroth was here from State College, last week, spending the week with her daughter, Mrs. Harry Walkey, leaving Saturday to be away for the remainder of the summer with another daughter, Mrs. E. G. Carpenter and her family, at Reading.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Malin, their three children, and Mrs. Malin's sister, Miss Sarah, drove to Spring Lake, N. J., a week ago, where Mrs. Malin and the children will visit for several weeks with the Herbert S. Meyers family. Mr. Malin and his sister returned home Sunday.

The condition of Mrs. Martin Fauble, whose illness had become more serious this week, was the cause for the coming home of all her children, Mrs. Seal having been here from Paxtang, Mrs. Tausi from Harrisburg, Mr. and Mrs. Noll from Lansdowne, and Joseph Fauble from Ashland, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce S. Burlingame drove here from their home at Cazenovia, N. Y., Saturday, Mr. Burlingame remaining for an overnight visit, leaving Mr. Burlingame to spend several weeks with her mother and aunt, Mrs. H. C. Valer time, and Miss Mary Valentine, at the home on Curtin street. For the time Mr. Burlingame is in Belleville, Mrs. Stanley Valentine and her son will be with friend at Narragansett Pier.

Mrs. Charles H. Young, formerly Miss Lois Kirk, who with Mr. Young and their four children came from Meadville last week, will go to Harrisburg today with Mr. Young to attend a two days conference of engineers. Mrs. Young and the children expect to be here with Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Kirk, and with Mr. Young's mother, in Clearfield, for a month. Mr. Young having arranged to spend his vacation with his family during their stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gearhart, who came here from Millville, N. J., a month or more ago, intend making Belleville their home. Mr. Gearhart having completed the filling station which he is having built along the highway a short distance east of town, and of which he personally will be in charge. For the present Mr. and Mrs. Gearhart will make their home with Mrs. Gearhart's sisters, the Misses Ann and Alice Fox, and their brother, on east Bishop street.

In compliance to Mrs. E. E. Bimr and her little daughter, who are here from Evanston, Ill., for a month's visit with Mrs. Bimr's mother, Mrs. Charles Cruse, Mrs. Cruse's entire family were home Sunday for a day together. In addition to Mrs. Bimr and her child, the party included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cruse, of Punksatwney; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Winslow and their family of Patton, and Mr. and Mrs. Allan Cruse and their family, of Milesburg, with Miss Helen Cruse, who is here at home.

Mrs. Robert Deming, of Oswego, Kansas, stopped in Belleville, Saturday, for an overnight visit with relatives and friends on her way to Boston, to join her daughter, Dr. Deming, one of the most prominent psychiatrists of the east, on a trip to Europe, sailing Monday night. Dr. Deming is going over to attend a congress of psychiatrists to be held in Elsinor, Denmark, and also in Berlin. Mrs. Deming spent quite some time in Belleville many years ago, and is a daughter of the late Rev. John Elliot, who built the Presbyterian church in Tyrone, her mother being a sister of Mrs. Andrew G. Curtin.

In the July issue of "Today," modern homemaking news published by the West Penn. Power company and which is out this week, appears a picture of the living room in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Beezer, on Curtin street, Belleville. The object of the picture is to show the most effective lighting, both from an artistic and convenience standpoint, in a beautiful living room.
