REFEREE NOT YET NAMED IN CENTRE CO. BANK CASE.

No referee has yet been appointed to close up the affairs of the Centre County Banking company. Inquiry of local attorneys who have been interested in the case lately elicited the information that an appointment is expected any day. The naming of a referee is up to federal judge Johnson, but no intimation has been given as to whom he might appoint.

—Rev. J. M. Rearick, pastor of the Lutheran church at Mifflinburg, but formerly of Centre Hall, suffered a stroke of paralysis, last week, and is reported to be in a serious condition.

VOCATIONAL PROJECTS IN CENTRE COUNTY.

The vocational agricultural projects carried on in Centre county, this summer, seem to be above the usual high standard. Several of the boys have projects which are really outstanding for boys of their ages. Some of the outstanding projects coming under the supervision of William S. Jeffries, county vocational supervisor, that meet the requirements of the State contest, and will be entered in same, are as follows:

Samuel Hoy, of Howard, is carrying a home improvement project in which he has painted the house (two coats), rearranged planting plan of yard and made various other improvements about the property. The work he has done would do justice to a man of much experience.

Marjorie Williams, of Port Matilda, has a very fine project in home improvement. She made a drawing of her yard, locating the house, walks, etc., and then had a planting plan made to suit this plan. She ordered several dollar's worth of plants, planted them, and now has a group of fine shrubs about her home.

Luther Spotts and Morton Crain, of Port Matilda, have both taken home improvement projects. They are following out the same plan as did Miss Williams. Their orders are placed for fall delivery, and their planting will be done some time in October. Both of these projects show very fine promise.

John Kelly, of Port Matilda, and Clair Hinds, of Nittany, have two outstanding potato projects. Each boy has over one acre in the ground and they are doing very well. They are trying for membership in the Pennsylvania 400 bushel potato club.

Harold Cronister, of Port Matilda, and Glenn Fravel, of Howard, have two very fine projects in field corn, while Richard Schenck, of Howard, has a fine one-acre field of sweet corn.

Russell Weaver, of Port Matilda, and Ocean Yearick, of Hublersburg, are carrying calf projects. In both the calves are pure-bred and are of very fine type. These boys seem to be adapted to the care of such animals, judging by their condition.

Alvin Beck, of Hublersburg, is carrying a dairy management project. He cares for and keeps an accurate record of all feed used, the amount of milk with test given, etc.

Robert Hoy and Harold Harshberger, of Hublersburg, are taking swine and sheep, respectively. Robert has mixed up a hog growing ration and his pigs are showing very fine gains. Harold has a nice flock of sheep with some showy lambs. He has used every precaution to develop the lambs in the best possible way and now has them ready to market.

Oscar Leitch, of Howard, has the outstanding vegetable garden project. He has well over half an acre planted to various garden crops which he feels will market best. Though he has been handicapped to some extent in that he has been in the hospital and could not carry out his plans completely, his work is carrying on in great shape.

In addition to the above there are many other boys and girls carrying on very fine projects but are not mentioned individually because their project does not come up to the requirements of the State project contest. This fact, however, does not detract from the importance of their projects, for even though they are small, they are very good in quality in most cases.

It is very likely that more will be heard of Centre county boys and girls when the project books are judged this winter at the State vocational project contest held at the time of the farm products show, in Harrisburg.

BELLEFONTE TO HAVE ANOTHER MILK STATION.

Representatives of the Dairyman's League and the Pennsylvania Railroad company were in Bellefonte, on Monday, looking up a site for another milk receiving station here. They finally decided that the most available place would be the brick building adjoining the Phoenix mill, and which is now under lease to the Beatty Motor company for the storage of automobiles.

In order to secure the brick building the league representatives offered to pay an annual rental of $300 for a ten year lease and an option on ten years extension; also to erect another building on the northeast corner of the dam for use of the Beatty Motor company and to pay $100 a year rental for that location, making a total of $400 a year. A tentative agreement was made which, of course, will have to be ratified by borough council, but as this seems highly probable it seems almost an assured fact that a new milk station will be located here.

LIVESTOCK TOUR TO NEW YORK AND CANADA.

The sixth annual Pennsylvania livestock tour will be held this year August 11th to 17th, and the destination will be western New York and into the province of Ontario, Canada. Centre countians taking the trip are requested to be at the Milo Jeffries sheep feeding establishment, at Ferry, N. Y., on Monday morning, August 12th. Any information desired can be secured from county agent R. C. Blaney.

BIG POTATO EXPOSITION TO BE HELD AT COLLEGE.

Centre county potato growers will be interested in the plans that are being made for holding a big potato exposition at State College August 19-22. The exposition will be sponsored by the Pennsylvania Potato Growers' Association and the arrangements will be in charge of the secretary, H. G. Niesley.

The program arranged will include three phases in the life of the spud: Production, marketing and consumption. Dr. W. J. Spillman, a leading authority on potato culture, will expound the theory and tell the surest way of growing a large crop. Along this line will be a complete exhibit of the most improved farm machinery for use in potato culture as well as various sprays, insecticides, etc.

Lectures on marketing to the best advantage will be given by C. H. Lehman, of Pittsburgh; H. A. Baum, of New York; C. H. Armstrong and A. R. Black, of Chicago. Demonstrations of grading, packing, etc., will be given.

Miss Ethel Jeffries, nutrition specialist of the Penn State home economics extension staff, will tell of the "Value of Potatoes in our Diet" on the consumption program. There will be demonstrations of the preparation of potatoes and the use of potato flour, and exhibits and demonstrations of culinary and mechanical equipment used in homes and institutions for the preparation of potatoes. These will include peelers, mashers, slicers, cubers, deep fat fryers, and mixers.

As side issues the official dedication of the potato grower's hospital will take place one evening during the gathering. Strickland Gillilan, international humorist, will give a comic lecture on potatoes another evening, and entertainments of some character will be provided for the other evenings.

WELFARE DEPT. REJECTS JAIL ADDITION PLANS.

The State Welfare Department has rejected the architect's plans submitted by the county commissioners for the building of an addition to the Centre county jail, because of the proposed location. Acting on suggestions received from officials of the department the commissioners have had other plans drawn up which provide for the addition to be located on the north side of the jail, in the rear of the present kitchen. These plans provide for a fair sized lobby, or reception room, and a bath room on the first floor, with two cells and a good sized room on the second floor. The larger room will accommodate several single beds, or cots, if there is a demand for them.

This addition will be used solely for female inmates and will cut them off entirely from the main portion of the jail which holds the male inmates.

BELLEFONTE COOKS ELECTRICALLY
... here is why!

The clock and heat regulator were set hours before . . .

... and everything is "done to a turn"

It's amazingly easy to cook a delicious meal electrically. For the electric oven, itself, does the hardest part of the work. You merely prepare the food . . . set the oven clock and adjust the heat regulator. Then you're through until mealtime.

Your range does all the watching and tending that used to take so many hours of the homemaker's day. It automatically relieves you of all responsibility, worry and uncertainty.

Best of all, electrically cooked food has the most appetizing flavor! For so little evaporation takes place within the oven that all the savory natural juices are retained. Your family will like even the cheaper cuts of meat when they are cooked to richly browned, juicy tenderness in an electric oven. And the children won't have to be urged to eat the perfectly cooked vegetables.

Everything goes farther, too. Home economics authorities have estimated that there is about twenty per cent less shrinkage in electric oven-cooked food. Cook electrically for economy!
