Some excitement was caused here, on Sunday afternoon, when an airplane came down in Elair Fisher's hay field. The pilot made the landing without any difficulty and after making a few minor repairs to the motor of his plane took to the air and headed for Bellefonte. Quite a number of people flocked to the field to see the plane while it was here.

WORKMAN SAW A BABY AFLOAT ON SPRING CREEK.

Workmen engaged in cleaning out the bed of Spring Creek, just below the abutments of the old C. R. R. of Pa. viaduct north of town, claim that they saw the body of a tiny baby floating down the stream last Monday. Their attention was attracted by what they thought was a green sweater that was floating on the water near them. Then one of the men thought he saw the head of a baby protruding from the bundle. At once frantic efforts were made to get to it, but at the moment a swifter current caught it and it was carried beyond their reach. All are convinced that it was a new baby wrapped in the sweater.

If they are right, whose baby was it?
