

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTRY.

Having refused the bid of the George I. Thompson company, of Clearfield, for $123,895 for rebuilding the Milesburg road, another letting will be held by the State Highway Department on September 13th.

In a recent issue of Today, the interesting publication of the West Penn Power Co., "the charmingly lighted living room of Mrs. C. E. Snyder, at State College," was illustrated as an example of good taste and effective lighting by electricity.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company has scrapped its big heating plant below the freight station and is installing individual steam boilers at both the freight station and passenger depot. This, it is believed, will effect considerable economy in fuel.

The Labor day race on the Altoona speedway will doubtless attract a great crowd to the bowl next Monday. Already fourteen of the world's most noted speed demons have entered and three or four are expected to bid for a chance to start in the 200 mile classic.

William Knox, of State College, a brother of Rev. Homer C. Knox, of Bellefonte, on Wednesday, closed a deal for the purchase of the Peters auto salvage station, near Pleasant Gap, and took charge yesterday. Mr. Knox formerly conducted a restaurant at State College.

According to announcement from Harrisburg Route 104 is to be improved under the Wheeler-Flynn allocation. When this work is completed residents in the eastern end of the county going to Harrisburg and points east will be able to save fourteen miles in distance by short-cutting from Mifflinburg to McKees Half Falls, instead of going over the longer route via Lewisburg.

Sixty-six one-hundredths of an inch of rain fell in most portions of Centre county, last Friday afternoon, the most rain we have had at any one time in almost four months. It was sufficient to soak cultivated ground to a depth of three inches but did not go down to the roots of most garden and field crops. While it freshened things up for a day or two it is a question whether it will result in much good to the corn and late potato crops.

About one thousand people attended the annual Williams family reunion, held at the community park, in Port Matilda, last Saturday. Of this number it is quite probable that at least half of them were either direct members of the family or offshoots therefrom. Like every other similar gathering the day was spent in "visiting," various games, putting away a big dinner, etc., with just enough of a business meeting to elect officers of the association for the ensuing year.

More than 900 of the quota of 1170 new students for the freshman class entering the Pennsylvania State College this fall have sent notices of acceptance of admission to W. S. Hoffman, registrar, stating that they will be at the college for the opening of Freshman week, September 19 to 25, one week before the opening of classes. Of these 779 are men and 143 women. The quota for women students is 170. Enrollment in the six undergraduate schools is to be practically the same as last year.

The special meeting of borough council which was to have been held on Monday evening, to meet representatives of the Dairyman's League in regard to selling them a location for a milk receiving and shipping station, was cancelled. The men did not come to Bellefonte until Monday, and were then quoted a price for the land as well as what the borough council will do in the matter of water lines and sewers. They then decided to report the same to the local branch in Nittany valley and come before council on Monday evening of next week.

Judge A. R. Chase, of Clearfield, was in Bellefonte on Monday afternoon, hearing argument in the injunction proceedings instituted by O. E. Miles, of Milesburg, against the Lord Construction company, the Borough of Milesburg, and amended to take in Centre county, to restrain them from taking his land in Milesburg for the purpose of widening the street without resorting to condemnation proceedings or posting an indemnifying bond. The preliminary injunction was continued until September 4th for further argument.

The Warner-American News, for August, publishes a picture of Wilbur Bittner, wearing a pair of goggles with one lens splintered. The story accompanying the picture says that two years ago, while Bittner was working at the grizzly screen, breaking stone that was too large to go through the grizzly, a spawl shattered the right lens in his goggles but did not injure him. Several weeks ago, while working at the same place, another spawl shattered the left lens in his goggles. The sequel drawn is that it pays to wear goggles while sledging stone. Had Mr. Bittner not been wearing them he might have been blind today instead of having two good eyes.

GRANGERS IN ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT AND FAIR.

Thousands of Patrons and Friends Have Unprecedented Weather for 56th Annual Encampment and Fair at Centre Hall.

Not since the Grangers of Centre county begun picnicking in 1873 have they been favored with such a week of splendid weather as has prevailed during this, their 56th annual encampment and fair. And the weather has not been the only unusual factor in the success of this constantly growing social, educational and amusement enterprise of the Patrons of Husbandry.

There are more tenters, more visitors, more exhibits, more fairs and more entertainments on the spacious grounds at Centre Hall this year than ever before. By day the place is awash with instructional advantages for those who go to learn of the progress in agriculture and by night it is a miniature replica of Coney Island. Up to noon yesterday the program as published in the Watchman, last week, had been carried out to the letter and every scheduled event from the Harvest Home services, last Sunday afternoon, to the farewell showing of the Grange players in the auditorium last night, was a feature of interest in itself.

FINE LINE OF EXHIBITS. While the season has not been propitious for vegetation, one would scarcely know it in passing through the two buildings devoted to products of the field and garden. Vegetables, fruits, plants and flowers are there in the usual variety and great quantity, with the possible exception of apples and pumpkins. And for the most part the exhibits are well up to the standard of quality usually seen at the fair.

The new building for housing the special exhibits by the Granges of the county and the vocational schools holds special interest for there the exhibits reveal what sectional competition stimulates. The displays of the seven Grange organizations are a show in themselves and the coveted prizes for them were awarded as follows: 1st, Victor Grange; 2nd, Spring Mills Grange; 3rd, Logan Grange; 4th, Progress Grange; 5th, Washington Grange; 6th, Union Grange; 7th, Rebersburg Grange.

The exhibit of the Spring Mills vocational school work covers everything in the line of domestic and household arts and manual training. It is a magnificently displayed exemplar of what the youth of the county is doing by way of developing natural talents.

Impressive, also, is the exhibit of the basketball club of the Centre Hall High school of which J. E. Wetzel is instructor. Eugene Colyer president, Fred Luse secretary and Paul Palmer treasurer.

LIVE STOCK APLENTY. From the Grange building to the new piggery it is only a few steps through a labyrinth of farm machinery and the mid-way. In this building are twenty-four pens of the finest kind of Berkshire, Poland China and Chester White hogs. The largest exhibitors are the Peters Bros., of Stormstown, whose showing netted them a Junior champion and seven first awards. The Pennsylvania Stock Farms' Berkshires won grand champions and eleven firsts. L. O. Corman and son, of Beech Creek, are showing Chester Whites and they are a fine lot of animals.

In the two large cattle barns are Holsteins, Guernseys, Jerseys and short-horns, enough of them to fill both barns. Peters Bros., of Stormstown, have a showing of Holsteins that would command attention at a national dairy show. The Aulworth farms, of State College, S. E. Wasson owner have a lot of splendid type of Guernseys and the Hill Crest farm, Rebersburg, J. V. Brungart owner, is showing an accredited herd of Jerseys.

A GREAT POULTRY SHOW. It is fitting that the new poultry building should be dedicated right and a visit to it will prove that that is just what actually happened. While it was erected to take care of all needs for some years to come in the Kerlin Poultry Farm, of Centre Hall; the Bear Meadows farm, of Boalsburg; Hennigh's Whitecock farm, of Spring Mills and J. C. Robison grower of Rhode Island Reds and other exhibitors filled it to overflowing with a display of rabbits, guinea pigs, turkeys, ducks and chickens such as we have never seen in Centre county before.

No more convincing evidence of the growing importance of dairying and poultry raising in Centre county could be presented than what is to be seen in the three large buildings devoted to cattle and chickens on the park.

All in all, the 5th annual encampment of the Patrons of Husbandry of Central Pennsylvania at Centre Hall has been an epoch making one. We should think that if the spirit of its founder, the late Hon. Leonard Rhoder, was abroad on the park this week it would have realized that its dreams of fifty-six years ago were more than coming true. It would also say to John S. Dale, chairman and Mrs. Edith Sankey Dale, secretary, of the splendid organization of county Granges, who are carrying on the work: Well done, faithful and intelligent workers for the advancement of agriculture in Centre county.

AWARDS IN JUDGING CONTEST.

Wednesday morning the live stock judging contest for boys and girls of Centre county in three classes—poultry, cattle and swine—resulted as follows:

HALL FAMILY REUNION ON DIX RUN TOMORROW.

A gathering of the Hall family clan will be held at the ancestral home of Robert Hall, on Dix Run, in Union township, tomorrow. This will be the first gathering of this well known family and plans have been made for forming a permanent reunion association and perpetuating the records of a name that has been prominently identified with the history of Centre county, even before its organization.

The family dates back to 1796 when John W. Hall and wife, Hannah Armont Hall, came to Bellefonte from Delaware county and located here. He was an expert blacksmith, a trade followed by his ancestors for a number of generations. In fact there is a story current among the present generation of Halls that a paternal ancestor was brought to this country from England by William Penn because of his skill as a blacksmith. John W. Hall, who came to Bellefonte in 1796, fashioned the first trip-hammer used in Centre county. It was a somewhat crude affair, and operated by water power, but did the work. After the organization of Centre county in 1800 Mr. Hall was elected to serve the county in the Legislature, being the first representative from Centre county. The first white child born in Bellefonte was Robert C. Hall, a grandson of John W.

Most of the men in the Hall connection were blacksmiths and the big iron fish used as a weather vane on the court house was hammered out of a sheet of iron by one of them, but whether it was put up at the time the court house was erected in 1805 or later is not known. Up at the Bellefonte Union cemetery, along Howard street, is a double iron gate hanging between two stone pillars, which was hand made by one of the Halls over one hundred years ago, and while it is now covered with rust it has held its shape all these years and if cleaned up would be as sturdy as ever.

One branch of the Hall family located in Bald Eagle valley and the men folks were reputed among the mightiest hunters of that early day, when the mountains were alive with wild game. Eventually they became tillers of the soil and in this vocation proved as successful as they had in other endeavors. So it will be seen that whoever may be selected as historian at the Hall reunion tomorrow will have a rich field to work in, in the preparation of a family record.

The Bierly family reunion was held at Booneville, Clinton county, on Wednesday of last week, at which time Rev. W. C. Bierly, of State College, was elected president of the association for the ensuing year.

Chief of police Harry Dukeman is away on a week's vacation. With Mrs. Dukeman he left, on Monday, on a motor trip to Washington, D. C., and other points of interest in the east. During his absence George Glenn is substituting as a guardian of the peace.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Brenner, of Washington, D. C., are spending the week in Bellefonte, guests at the Harry Eberhart home, having arrived here Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Brenner were joined here, Sunday, by Mr. and Mrs. Rankin Wilson, who motored in from Brookville, for the week-end visit during Mr. and Mrs. Brenner's stay.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Hartranft went down to Hughesville, Tuesday evening, to attend the Hartranft reunion, and for a week's visit with relatives there, at Montgomery and Watsonstown. Miss Agnes Worthington, who with her nephew, Donald Worthington, had been up from Hughesville for a week-end visit with Mr. and Mrs. Hartranft, returned home Monday.

Among the guests whom H. H. Roan and his wife, Dr. Eva Roan, have entertained at their home at State College, during the past ten days, have been Dr. Roan's sister, Mrs. William Strausbaugh, of Cedar Crest, Md., and her two children; Dr. Roan's aunt, Miss Etta Shadell, of Philadelphia, who had been spending some time with her nephew, Willis Bathgate, at Jacksonville, and Mr. and Mrs. Vandersol, of York, Pa.

Miss Mary Chambers, with the Edison Electric Co., of New York city, came home a week ago, to be present at the wedding of her sister, Martha, who was married to Spencer Clinger, of Norris-town, at the William Chambers home on Curtin street, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Gray and their two children, drove up from West Chester, Monday, for a week in Bellefonte with Mr. Gray's mother, Mrs. William E. Gray and with Judge and Mrs. Ellis L. Orvis, and in Half Moon valley, with Mr. Gray's aunts, Miss Elizabeth Green and Miss Annie Gray.

Mrs. C. D. Casebeer went east a week ago, to accompany her daughter Betty, back home from Avalon, N. J., where she had spent the summer, at camp Sea Crest. Mrs. Casebeer stopped for a day in Philadelphia, went on to the shore for Sunday, and made the trip back home Monday. Mr. Casebeer meeting his family at Lewisport.

H. H. Kline Esq., of Middletown, once a very well known and exceedingly popular resident of Bellefonte, was in town on Wednesday looking after some business matters that still engage his attention here. It has been many, many years since Harry dabbled with hotels, fast horses and politics in Centre county and while most of his cronies of those days are in the cemeteries now he goes on as if he really has found a fountain of youth.

G. Edward Harper, a salesman for the Union Carbide Co., with Mr. Harper, her sister, Mrs. Mary Yeager O'Connell, and the latter's daughter, Miss Josephine Bentley, are in from Lakewood, Ohio, for a two week's stay in Centre county. Living for the time in Aaronsburg, they have been visiting from there, with relatives and friends in Bellefonte. Mr. and Mrs. Harper and Mrs. O'Connell are all natives and former residents of Bellefonte.

Robert E. Kline, the gentleman who made the business of being fire marshal of Bellefonte a matter of efficiency and great interest to our taxpayers, was walking about the streets, on Wednesday, enjoying the first day he has had away from his position as fireman of the Chemical Lime Co's quarries since a year ago last May. It is not often that men stick that close to their knittin', but Bob is one of the kind who give everything they have to the work before them. That's the reason he made such a competent fire marshal.

Visitors at the J. K. Barnhart home on Linn street, during the week, included Mrs. Ella Wittidown and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Boyd and their children, of Punxsutawney, Miss Olivia Murray, of Philadelphia, and David Howell, of Youngstown, Ohio. Mr. and Mrs. Philip Barnhart, of Springfield, Mass., are expected here Monday, for a week's stay at the Barnhart home, intending to go on then to Cleveland for a visit with Mrs. Barnhart's sister, Miss Eleanor Barnhart is at present making a two day's visit with friends at Point Pleasant, New Jersey.
