Dr. Delaun G. Stewart died at his home on Linn St. Bellefonte at noon yesterday. Funeral from the house Saturday afternoon at three o'clock.

Miss Jennie Snyder lost her tortoise-shell rim glasses on Wednesday of last week and will be most grateful if the finder returns them to her. She thinks she dropped them on either Allegheny or High street. Finder please call 321 north Allegheny street, Bellefonte.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Earl McCreeley of West New York, are receiving congratulations on the birth of their first son, who was born last week. Mr. and Mrs. McCreeley are well known here, Mrs. McCreeley being formerly, Miss Mary Parker, daughter of Mrs. G. Ross Parker.

Professor B. W. Dedrick in charge of milling engineering instruction at the Pennsylvania State College, in a recent article in the "American Miller" rates the rise of civilization from the increased use of breadstuffs. He bases his theory on the facts that the raising of grains held the grower to one locality for five to six months a year, leading to the erection of more permanent quarters which eventually grew into villages, towns and cities.

Last Friday morning Miss Rose Haupt, head operator in the Bellefonte telephone exchange, was on her way down High street when she either slipped on the ice or tripped and fell right on the dividing line between the properties of C. D. Casebeer and Petrkin hall. J. D. Selbert picked her up and calling a passing car had her taken to the hospital where it was found that her left ankle was broken in three places—a double fracture of the large bone and a single fracture of one of the smaller bones.

Owing to the fact that notice of the recent meeting of the Woman's Club of this place was crowded out of last week's issue the Watchman failed to comment on the talk Dr. Wm. Van de Wall, of the State Welfare Department gave the club. It is rarely that we hear so much favorable comment on such addresses as came to our ears following Dr. Van de Wall's visit here. He seems to have so thoroughly interested his auditors that they were practically a unit in declaring his talk one of the very best that the Club has been privileged to hear in all its years of activity.

DEER HUNTER SHOT BY TWIN BROTHER Fred Horner, the Victim, Died Within Half an Hour.

Fred Horner, of Millbrook, College township, was the unfortunate victim of a tragic shooting accident, on Tuesday afternoon, when he was shot in mistake for a deer by his twin brother, John Horner, of Colyer. The brothers were members of day hunters from Colyer and vicinity who were hunting on Sand mountain, in the Seven mountains. They were both on the drive, Fred being on the flank of the team with John next in line. Fred got a little ahead of the other drivers as well as closer than the original formation.

When about two thirds of the way over the mountain John saw something moving in the underbrush. In his excitement he mistook it for a deer and after covering the moving object with his gun held his aim for some seconds hoping to get a sight of the supposed deer's head to determine whether it was a buck or doe. In the belief that he had seen a pair of antlers he shot. Hastening to the spot he was horrified to discover that instead of a deer he had shot his brother Fred. The bullet entered the man's back and came out through the abdomen.

Others members of the hunting party were hastily summoned and preparations were made to bring the wounded man to the Centre County hospital but he died within half an hour, before he could be brought out of the mountains, and his dead body was taken to his home at Millbrook.

The victim of the accident was a son of George and Catherine Horner and was born near Colyer a little over thirty-seven years ago. During the past year he had been employed on the farm by John Bathgate, at Millbrook. Over fifteen years ago he married Miss Margaretta Rockey, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Rockey, of Colyer, who survives with eight children, ranging in age from 14 years to 6 months, as follows: Martha, Walter, Mary, William, Doris, Ward, Lois and Betty, all at home. He also leaves his mother and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Clyde Stemm, of near Pine Grove Mills; Mrs. Cyrus Corner, of State College; Edward Horner, of Lemont; Rev. Charles Horner, in Dauphin county; Samuel, of Tusseyville; John, of Colyer; Bruce, of State College; Harry, of Millbrook; Earl, of State College, and Mrs. Elmer Dashem, of Tusseyville.

Funeral services will be held in the brick church, at Tusseyville, at 9:30 o'clock this morning, by Rev. Keener, of the Lutheran church, burial to be made in the Tusseyville cemetery.

Max Ward, of Baileyville, is in the Centre County hospital with a bullet wound in the right ankle. He was with a party of hunters in the mountains near Pine Grove Mills when the accident occurred. The men were standing around a fire, at noon on Monday, eating their lunch. A shot rang out nearby and the bullet hit Ward on the right ankle, ricocheted on striking the bone and coming out through the flesh entered the right knee of William Clair, of Juniata, who was standing next to Ward. Clair was taken to the Altoona hospital and Ward was brought to the Centre County institution.

LeRoy Ralph Krepps, of Spruce Creek, was killed, on Tuesday morning, by the accidental discharge of his own gun while hunting in the mountains near his home. He was 29 years old, and leaves a wife and small son, his mother and a number of brothers and sisters.

AIRMAIL PILOT NELSON FOUND DEAD YESTERDAY

Pilot Thomas P. Nelson, flying the night airmail from New York to Cleveland, has been missing since Sunday night and the general belief is that he was killed in a crash in the mountainous sections of western Pennsylvania during a violent snow storm.

Nelson made a stop at the Bellefonte field on his western flight and checked out at 11:15 p. m. That was the last definite trace of him although Brookville reported that the plane flew over there about on time and it is also reported that he was heard at Clarion and even west of that point. Failing to reach Cleveland searching planes were sent out early Monday morning and the search has continued every day since, by planes in the air and hundreds of men on the ground.

The searchers have naturally been handicapped by the cold weather and snow, but the hunt will be continued until the missing plane and pilot are found. If Nelson was not killed outright in the crash but badly injured he would have perished in the cold long ere this.

Col. Charles A. Lindberg joined the searchers yesterday. Flying from New York he reached the Bellefonte field between four and five o'clock yesterday morning, remaining there until 5:24 when he left for the western part of the State. The N. A. T. has offered a reward of $5000 for the finding of the missing pilot.

Nelson was found yesterday afternoon at 1:30 near Chagrins Falls, 35 miles east of Cleveland. He had jumped from his plane and was dead when found.

While in Bellefonte for a Thanksgiving and week-end visit, the big barn on the farm of Bruce S. Burlingame near Cazenovia, N. Y., along with all machinery and the year's crops, was completely destroyed by fire last Saturday morning. Neighbors, however, were successful in getting all the stock from the building. Mr. and Mrs. Burlingame left immediately for their home, upon receiving word of the calamity.

THE BELL TELEPHONE REDUCES RATES AGAIN

For the fourth time in little more than three years the Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania will on January 1 introduce a schedule of reduced rates on various types of out-of-town calls, it was announced today by J. H. Caum, manager for the company here.

The new schedule will be featured by reductions of from five to ten cents on the day rates for station-to-station calls between points from 60 to 300 miles distant. Station-to-station calls are calls for a telephone by number or otherwise, on which the calling party does not ask the operator to locate a particular person. Day rates are in effect from 4:30 A. M. to 7 P. M.

It is estimated that telephone users throughout Pennsylvania will be saved approximately $25,000 annually through introduction of the reduced out-of-town rates. Mr. Caum said, "while in the Bell System throughout the United States more than $5,000,000 yearly will be saved."

Out-of-town rates were reduced by $3,000,000 by the Bell System on October 1, 1928; by $1,500,000 on December 1, 1927, and by $5,000,000 on February 1, 1929. Mr. Caum pointed out.

The January 1 rate reduction of $5,000,000 will thus bring the total yearly saving to telephone users throughout the Bell System to $14,500,000.

Some representative reductions under the new out-of-town rate schedule are shown in the following table. Day station-to-station rate between Bellefonte and:—

Table with 3 columns: Location, Pres. Jan 1, Rate. Harrisburg, Pa. .55 $.50; New York, N. Y. 1.15 1.05; Philadelphia, Pa. .95 .85; Pittsburgh, Pa. .85 .75; Wilkes-Barre, Pa. .75 .65

Among the many cases of frozen water systems in consequence of the sudden zero weather the worst we have heard of was in Unionville where the hot water heating system, water pipes, kitchen range and bath room tanks in the home of H. E. Holzworth were practically all ruined the latter part of last week.

Mr. Holzworth was in West Virginia hunting and Mrs. Holzworth motored down to bring him home. She had expected to be gone only two days and past experience assured her that the furnace well banked would keep the home warm for that length of time. They didn't get home until the third day and then found everything frozen. Out of the fourteen large radiators in the house only enough sections were not bursted to assemble three good ones from.

Lester Holtzman, a former member of the Pennsylvania Legislature, was found dead in the cellar of the home of Alter Ulah, at Millersburg, on Tuesday evening. Holtzman was suffering from a nervous breakdown and as Mr. Ulah's gun was lying beside him when he was found it is supposed that he took the weapon from a closet where he knew that it was kept and slipped down into the cellar and killed himself. The Ulah's are former Bellefonters and were not in their home at the time of the tragedy.

A young son, Henry T. Jr., arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Gruber, at Ventnor, N. J., on November 22nd. Mrs. Gruber, before her marriage, was Miss Pauline Noll of Pleasant Gap and as this is the first arrival the parents are naturally considerably "set up" about it.

Miss Nina Lamb and mother, Mrs. Michael Lamb, went to Camden, N. Friend Chas. P. Long, of Spring Mills, spent a few very pleasant—on—moments in the Watchman office Wednesday afternoon. Charley is an unredeemed Republican, but we can have no quarrel with him for that, because he is no worse in his affiliation than we are in ours. And, besides he wears his politics so suavely that acrimony never has a chance to enter into his contacts. He enjoys the game, however, and since he has worked himself into a position where he doesn't have to sit up nights driving the wolf from his door we wouldn't be surprised if he were to "can" business some of these days and go in for the fun that there is in politics if one's desires lean that way.

An unexpected, though none-the-less welcome, caller last Monday morning, was our old friend John Beeber from Punxsutawney. John had come down for a little visit with his daughter, Mrs. Joseph Bertram, on Spring creek, and really intended to spend some time calling on friends here, but it got so cold that he just "froze in" up there. He was on his way to Philipsburg and from there intended to continue the homeward trip. He has been idling for months because he cut a tendon on his wrist and hasn't been able to do much more than nurse the injury. He is a crack butcher, you know, and swings a mean cleaver. He didn't tell how he cut the tendon, so we only guess that the old meat ax slipped one over on him.

A Watchman office visitor, on Friday, was S. J. Kinney, of Newton, Kan., who came a long way from home for his Thanksgiving dinner, but as he had the pleasure of eating it with old friends, and it didn't cost him any railroad fare to come east, it naturally made the dinner more tasty and enjoyable. Mr. Kinney is a native of Rebersburg but as a young man took to railroading as a vocation. He is now a locomotive engineer on the Santa Fe railroad with headquarters at Newton. Mrs. Kinney, before her marriage, was Miss Florence Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Longacre, of Bellefonte. Her brother, Clarence Longacre, lives in Williamsport and it was there the Kinneys ate their Thanksgiving dinner, and on Friday they took their namesake, Kinney Longacre, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Longacre, to State College, where he is a Sophomore. Of course being named for the Kinneys the young man is rather fortunate as he is well remembered in a substantial way in his college career.

Mr. Stover, one of Harris township's best known citizens, one of its men always actively interested in everything pertaining to the welfare of that community.

Mrs. Thomas Hutchinson and her daughter, Miss Margaret, drove here from Warren, last Wednesday, to spend Thanksgiving with the Mrs. Margaret Hutchinson family, on Howard street. Hutchison accompanied her home, remaining with his brother's family for an overnight visit only.

W. A. Odenkirk, with Mrs. Odenkirk their daughter Helen and Mrs. W. A. Alexander, drove over from Centre Hall Tuesday, to spend a part of the day in the shops and in looking after some business affairs. Robert Morris went to Philadelphia Tuesday, to spend several days with his sister, Miss Lida Morris, who is a surgical patient in the University Graduate hospital. Miss Morris, accompanied by her brother, Charles A. Morris, came east from Searcy, Arkansas, two weeks ago. Miss Morris having been operated on the early part of last week. So rapidly is she recovering, that it is thought she and her niece, Miss Elizabeth Morris, now with her in Philadelphia, will be able to leave shortly for the return trip to Arkansas.

About Some of Those Who are Ill

Miss Emma Green slipped and fell on the pavement of the Lutheran church Monday, breaking her right arm near the shoulder.

Much of the paralysis, which made the condition of Mrs. J. O. Brewster alarming, has now left, the toxemia from which she has been suffering apparently being cleared up. Since being stricken two weeks ago, Mrs. Brewster has been at the Centre County hospital.

Mrs. Moesline, of Brooklyn, formerly Miss Esther Undercoffer, is a surgical patient in one of the City hospitals, recovering from an appendicitis operation. Mrs. Moesline's condition is thought to be improving rapidly.

Word from New York, as to Basil Mott's condition, is far from encouraging. His illness which originated in a cold, developed a condition which necessitated his going to the hospital on Armistice Day, since then there has been no improvement. A throat and lung infection for the relief of which three blood transfusions and oxygen have been resorted to, with but little relief, has made his condition very critical. His mother, Mrs. Odille Mott, will remain in New York until he is better and able to be brought to Bellefonte.
