Bellefonte, Pa., December 13, 1929

NEWS ABOUT TOWN AND COUNTY.

It will be all right for you to put your new 1930 license tags on your car on Sunday. They will be legal on and after Dec. 15.

The winter schedule of the Pennsylvania railroad provides for the taking off of one train on the Tyrone and Clearfield branch.

J. Thompson Henry, of Martha, escaped serious injury, on Sunday morning, when his car skidded and upset on the railroad crossing at Milesburg.

The Gold Diggers of New York shown at the Cathaum theatre, State College, last Monday and Tuesday, broke all records for numbers in attendance at that popular show place.

William J. Twigg has closed his home, at Lemont, and come to Bellefonte for the winter, having leased the home of the late Mrs. Louisa VanTries Harris, on Allegheny street.

Curb trees are being put up on the streets of Bellefonte and by tomorrow night the business section of the town will be brilliantly illuminated as a reminder of the approaching Christmas season.

The detour on account of the rebuilding of the state highway from Milesburg to Curtin was removed yesterday. It is also reported that the road between Milesburg and Bellefonte will be closed the latter part of this month.

It is estimated that the saving to automobile owners in Pennsylvania because of shortened new road routes between principal points in the State is $8.30 per car, per year. This is based on saving gasoline and wear and tear on cars.

Dr. Waterworth, the very eminent surgeon of the Clearfield hospital, has been obliged to give up his work, for a time and go south, in an attempt to recover from a recent attack of the grip, which left him with a bad heart condition.

Both the patients and staff management at the Centre County hospital hereby express their appreciation for Thanksgiving time contributions, which included $19.70 in cash from St. John's Reformed church, of Bellefonte, and $13.00 in cash from the Boalsburg union service offerings.

Joseph Dicenzo, "Little Joe" of "The Black Cat" fame, who jumped his bail and left the county, was located at Millville, N. J., last week, placed under arrest and held for extradition to Centre county on several charges, among them being desertion and non-support and issuing worthless checks.

Joseph N. Forbes, brother of Mrs. J. A. Woodcock, of Bellefonte, died at his home in Chambersburg, on Sunday, following one day's illness. He was 83 years old and a retired marble and granite dealer. One brother and three sisters survive. Owing to a slight illness Mrs. Woodcock was unable to attend the funeral which was held on Wednesday.

The December meeting of the Mother's club was held, on Monday evening, at the home of Mrs. Millard Hartwick on Reynolds avenue. Thirteen members and four visitors were present. Mrs. Krader gave a very interesting and instructive talk on music. Other papers were read by several members after which there was a general discussion of subjects of especial interest to mothers. Refreshments were served and a delightful social hour enjoyed by all.

In its issue of November 14th the Willshire, Ohio, Herald says: "John N. Hoffer, eldest brother of the Herald editor, arrived in Willshire on Monday afternoon for a visit of some days. His home is in Seattle, Wash., and this is his first trip east of Chicago since going west to Iowa in 1876. It was in the centennial year that he followed Horace Greely's advice to young men and went to Iowa, then kept moving west from Iowa to Kansas, thence to Wyoming and finally to Washington. During all these years he followed the calling of district school teacher—54 years, practically, without a break—thirty or more of them in Washington. He is now 81 years of age." Mr. Hoffer, by the way, is a brother of Mrs. A. C. Mingle, of Bellefonte, and it was from Centre county that he started his journey west over half a century ago.

Harry Poorman, of Coleville, sustained painful face injuries, last Friday evening, when he was hit and knocked down by two boys riding a bicycle on the main road through that village. The accident happened about eight o'clock in the evening. Mr. Poorman was walking up the road and the two boys, Henry Monnell and Mr. Poorman's own son, Harry, were riding down the hill. The boys had no light on their bike and it being quite dark Mr. Poorman could not see them and they did not see him. The result was that he ran right into him, knocking him down. He fell with his face in some ground limestone and sustained numerous cuts on the left side of his face. He was brought to a Bellefonte physician who dressed the injuries, but as it was his left eye became so swollen that he was unable to see for several days. He is now improving. The boys were both thrown from their wheel by the collision but escaped with trifling injuries.

DEER SEASON YIELDS

LARGE KILL OF BUCKS

Grand Total Will Probably Exceed the Kill of 1927 Season

The 1929 deer hunting season will close at sundown tomorrow evening and from all reports the season's kill will probably exceed that of 1927, when fifteen hundred bucks were slain in Centre county. Up to last Saturday evening game protector Thomas G. Mosier estimated the total for the first week at twelve hundred, and from the number of dead deer that were hauled through Bellefonte on autos and trucks Friday, Saturday and Sunday, his estimate was likely fairly correct.

As an estimate of the slaughter in general throughout the State it might be said that on Sunday, deputy sheriff Sinie H. Hoy returned home from a trip to Pittsburgh and on the way in he counted 102 deer and two bear being transported westward on automobiles by different hunting parties.

In Centre county two dozen or more hunting parties got their limit of six deer and broke camp last week. A large number of other clubs came out of the woods at the end of the week with three, four and five deer, while many hunters who have not been so lucky will remain until the close of the season tomorrow.

Among the hunting parties that got their limit and came out of the woods, on Saturday, was the Hecla Buck and Bear club. They camped in Rag valley and the six deer they brought in included a 10-point, 9-point 8-point, 7-point and two 4-pointers. They averaged in weight from 150 to 165 pounds. The club members are George H. Yarnell and four sons, George F., Rush O., Fred C. and Phillip; Lawrence McMullen, Bruce Bechdel, Joe Herman, Fred Clevens, Richard Workman, Charles DeArmit, Lester Deitrick, William Har-nish and Robert Funk. The Yarnells accounted for three of the bucks killed. Two of the deer killed had split right ears, evidence that they had been put out as stock deer.

Out in the Alleghenies eight or ten hunting camps got their limit the first week, which shows that deer are more plentiful in that section than they have been for a score of years. Last Saturday game protector Thomas A. Mosier made a trip through the Paddy mountain section and when he reached the camp of the Lykens valley hunting club he was considerably surprised to see nine bucks hanging up. Members of the club were making no attempt to conceal the deer and declared to Mr. Mosier that they thought they were entitled to a buck for each hunter. When apprised of the fact that six to a camp was the limit, the men were quite repentant. Mr. Mosier gave them the privilege of selecting the six bucks they wanted to keep and he took the other three. He also let them off with a total fine of $300, and as there were seventeen men in camp, it would be less than twenty dollars for each one. Under the law each man could have been fined $300, or a total for the crowd of $5,100.

Over in Huntingdon county, on Saturday, a hunting party was fined a total of $7,690 for killing nineteen deer, most of them illegal. The men not only killed bucks but does and fawns, and attempted to hide their illegal work. Because of this fact the limit of fines were imposed by the game wardens. Last Thursday evening three Philadelphia hunters came into Bellefonte from the Alleghenies with three bucks, one of which, a 9-pointer, weighed 200 pounds. After getting supper here they left for home, traveling by automobile.

At Shoff's Winchester camp, near Waddle, last week, H. E. Bruce got a 7-point buck, Frank Clingsmith a 9-point and William Lookbaugh an 8-point. All the men were from Leechburg, Pa. Matthew McMonigal and James Wilson each got their buck, last Thursday, up in the vicinity of Port Matilda.

Up in the Pine Grove Mills section the Shoemaker camp got 4 deer, the Gatesburg club 4, Tadpole nimbros 4, the Rossman crowd 4, Pine Grove Mills club 3, the Baileyville club and Graysville club each 3, and the Homan-Corl party 4.

On Monday the Kline-Long hunting party went into the mountains on a bear hunt and were successful in getting a chase filled with thrills. They had not been in the woods long until they stirred up a big bear. Ten or more shots were fired at the animal without bringing it down. Finally Fred Gearhart came face to face with the wounded bear, with only about fifteen feet intervening. The bear was pretty wild by that time and promptly made for Gearhart who was compelled to give ground until he could get his gun to his shoulder, when a well-directed shot put an end to bruin.

DIDN'T QUITE, BUT NEARLY SHOOK HANDS WITH A BEAR
While out with a party of day hunters last week Earl Frantz, of Tylersville, came onto a young she bear so unexpectedly that her front paws were so close to him that he didn't know whether she wanted to hug him or merely shake hands. He was crawling through a dense rhododendron thicket on the north side of the mountain about opposite Rhule's dam on Fishing creek and was getting deeper and deeper into a jungle with each foot of advance. Suddenly, he heard a noise just ahead of him like a bear in a nest and before he could realize what was happening bruin came out at him standing up. Her paws were almost on his shoulders. It was impossible to get his gun to his shoulder so he tilted the barrel up and gave her one right back of the front leg. She didn't wilt much at that so he pulled again and down she went dead as a nit. Both shots had penetrated the heart, the one breaking two ribs on its way through her body. The bear dressed 110 lbs.

WAKENED UP IN TIME TO GET A BUCK

Last Thursday afternoon William Cross, of Axe Mann, drove up into Green Valley, above Pleasant Gap, to still hunt. William had lost so much sleep in a regular hunting camp that he had come from the day before and it was so still up there that he decided to take a snooze. Before submitting himself to the arms of Morpheus, however, he said to Bill Sunday who was in the car with him: "Bill, you watch and when you see a buck waken me." William doesn't know just how long he was oblivious to his surroundings, but he thinks it wasn't long until "Bill" started shaking him and yelling in his ear: "William out there is a buck." When he had rubbed the "sleepers" out of his eyes, gotten his bearings and looked around, sure enough, right in a field in front of them was a doe and a buck. It didn't take long, then, to hop out of the car, take aim and fire. The buck didn't go far for the shot was a deadly one and he just had to give up the ghost. It was a nice two pointer and dressed 110 lbs.

Sallying forth alone, on Monday afternoon, Forrest W. Tanner, of Bellefonte, drove down into little Sugar Valley and started a drive all by his own self. He had gotten about a mile in the brush when he heard something. It turned out to be a buck that weighed 140 lbs and sported eight regularly set points. There's no guess work about these details because Forrest brought it down with the first shot and then gave him two more so he would stay down. Really it was a fine deer and grew heavier each inch of the mile, a million miles long that Forrest had to drag it out to the road where his car was parked.

Harvey Caris, of Tylersville, hunting with the Woodward club, got his buck, but that's an every year affair with Harvey. He is one of the old time hunters who know just where the deer are coming out and how to bowl them over when they do.

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

AND USE THEM NOW

The effort to reduce the heavy toll of tuberculosis in the young age is an important reason for buying and using Christmas seals. The anti-tuberculosis movement is one of constructive purpose and method to check the white plague. The association puts special emphasis on preventive work. Every one can contribute in accord with his ability at a cost of a penny a seal. The Bellefonte committee appreciates the generous response to the call for help of many good friends, but in the busy rush of busy lives some have evidently mislaid the appeal sent to them. The local committee has a list of worthy cases that need attention now if these needy ones are to be helped and others kept safe. "Myself and Others" is an easy slogan to put into practice.

THE HALF MOON GARDENS

In preparing for Christmas, have a fine assortment of potted cyclamens and primroses, and any cut flowers in season. Brighten some one's Christmas with flowers.

NUTRITION DISCUSSED

AT D. A. R. MEETING

Just one hundred and fifty-two years have passed since the indomitable patriots of the Revolution were braving the rigors of the Valley Forge winter. That the Daughters of the American Revolution is an organization that strives not to be unmindful of what is bequeathed to us through such suffering was evidenced by the reports of the various committees at the December meeting of the Bellefonte Chapter at the Brockerhoff house, on Friday evening last.

The chairman of the Student Loan Fund committee, Mrs. P. E. Brenne-man, of State College, stated that this year four students have thus far received help.

The regent, Miss Lucretia Van Tuij Simmons, told of a museum in Memorial Continental Hall, Washington, D. C. where relics and objects of historical interest would be gladly received and cared for.

The members of the chapter stood for a moment in silence in memory of Mrs. Louise VanTries Harris. Again, this month, the chapter was privileged to hear an able and learned address by a member of the Pennsylvania State College faculty, Dr. Raymond Adams Dutcher, professor of animal husbandry, and a scholar of wide renown who spoke most interestingly upon the subject of "Nutrition," telling of the work being done in his department to determine the comparative values of the various food elements, and stressing the importance of variety in the diet of both man and animal.

The singing in chorus of beautiful Christmas hymns was a higher expression of the season's joyousness that pervaded all the activities of the evening.

Much regret was expressed at the absence of three of the hostesses of the evening, Miss Myra Humes Miss Sara Benner and Mrs. Clevan Dinges. To them and to those present, Miss Helen E. C. Overton, Miss Delinda Potter and Miss Tillie Keller, a hearty vote of thanks was due for their beautiful provision of the "nutritive element" in most palatable form.

Do not allow your house to be without a flower at the Christmas season. Beautiful potted primroses and cyclamens, and any cut flowers in season, are to be had at the Half Moon gardens.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WILL

SING CHRISTMAS CAROLS

On Thursday afternoon, December 19th, at 3:30, the grade children from both buildings will assemble in front of the court house to sing a group of Christmas carols.

A new feature will be added to this year's performance of the "Rhythmic Band" of over three hundred instruments, which will play the accompaniment to the singing of the carols.

The Harmonica Band will also be in evidence again this year. They have been doing a very commendable piece of work. You will enjoy their playing of the four part harmony of "Silent Night."

Do not miss this program. On Friday afternoon, December 20, at 2:45 in the High school auditorium, the pupils of the four upper grades from both buildings will render the beautiful cantata, "Behold A Star," by Yale and Halbel.

The pupils have devoted the month of December to the learning of Christmas carols and memorizing in two, three, and four part singing, the entire cantata.

There are solos and duets done in splendid style and the ensemble work is very good.

There is no admission charge and all are invited. Go, and hear what your children are doing.

Cogswell chairs, spinet desks, radio tables and benches, tea wagons, table and floor lamps, foot-stools, children's rockers, high chairs, play sets and bassinets make useful gifts for the family, at W. R. Brachbill's Furniture Store.

SNOW SHOE BAZAAR

TODAY AND TOMORROW

Today and tomorrow the parishioners of St. Mary's church, Snow Shoe, will hold their annual bazaar for the benefit of the church.

All of the department committees have worked earnestly to make it a success and have been much encouraged by the general interest manifested.

A roast chicken dinner will be served by the ladies tomorrow, Saturday, evening from five until eight while a special musical program will be the added attraction for this evening. There will be all kinds of fancy work suitable for Christmas gifts on sale at the booths and many contests for valuable prizes will enliven the interest in the Bazaar both days.

All the concrete has been poured for the walls a top coping, the roof has been completed and the windows put in the main portion of the building. It will admit of heating that part of it so that the carpenters can do the inside work and put the finishings in place.
